SLOW DEATH ON INVERNESS BEACH

Richard Tanner, 10, and Leslie Plant of Inverness worked yesterday to keep a beached whale alive by pouring water over the animal's exposed skin. The whale, tentatively identified as a California Gray Whale, swam ashore Tuesday at Inverness. It was towed to sea but returned yesterday and was aided by Inverness residents who tried to prevent sunburn. Report today said the 30-foot whale died last night.

Angela Arraigned For Murder

I-J Special Report

NEW YORK — Black militant Angela Y. Davis was arraigned today on a Marin County warrant charging murder and kidnapping and held without bail for a Nov. 9 extradition hearing. (Related stories, page 6).

Her lawyer, John J. Abt, announced that his client, an avowed Communist, would fight extradition.

The arraignment, which took place shortly after midnight, followed a day of legal maneuvering which at one time found the Marxist revolutionary a prisoner of the federal government and later in the custody of New York City police.

Miss Davis, 26, was arraigned about noon yesterday on a federal fugitive charge and ordered held on $250,000 bail by U.S. Commissioner Earle N. Bishopp.

When the California warrant arrived some eight hours later, the former philosophy instructor was again brought before Bishopp who immediately revoked the bail and released Miss Davis in her own recognizance. The move was only technical, however, because a city detective immediately stepped forward and said "Miss Davis, you're under arrest."

(Marin Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said that the complaint and warrant from Marin Municipal Court were handed over to a Federal Bureau of Investigation agent early yesterday and the agent flew them to New York.)

The midnight arraignment was held before Criminal Court Judge Morton Tolleris who, in a brief hearing, set the Nov. 9 extradition date. Bail was not permissible because of the capital nature of the alleged crimes.

The Marin warrant charges the tall, slender woman with murder and kidnapping in connection with the slaying and the abduction from the Hall of Justice of Judge Harold J. Haley.

Three other persons, including two prisoners, were killed in the shoot-out which followed the kidnapping of five persons in an alleged attempt by a black teen-ager to free two Negro convicts.

Although Miss Davis was not present when the slayings and abduction took place, authorities alleged Miss Davis bought the guns used by the persons involved. Under California law an accomplice who purchases weapons subsequently used in a capital crime is guilty of the primary crime.

Also arraigned and held in $100,000 bail Wednesday was David R. Pointdexter Jr., charged under federal law with knowingly aiding a fugitive.

Asked where Miss Davis will be held when she is brought to California, Bales said, "The county jail. There is no place else."

U.S. WARNS RUSS CRISIS IS NEAR

Nixon Aide Says Evidence Of Mideast Violations To Be Given To Gromyko

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A series of charges and countercharges by the United States and the Soviet Union today dashed hopes that any quick settlement of the Middle East crisis could be worked out at the current meeting of the United Nations in New York.

An official of the Nixon administration accused the Soviet Union today of helping Egypt violate the Middle East cease-fire that is the basis of a U.S. peace initiative there. The Soviets accused the United States of ignoring a Soviet master peace plan and of encouraging Israel to sabotage peace efforts.

The American charge was made by Joseph J. Sisco, assistant Secretary of State for Near Eastern Affairs who had a major hand in drawing up the U.S. peace plan. He said the Russians had reneged on a clear understanding to abide by the standstill and cautioned that the risk of a U.S.-Russian confrontation in the Mideast was still "very, very real."

Israel has charged repeatedly that the Egyptians with Russian aid introduced more Russian-built surface-to-air — SAM2 and SAM3—missiles into the truce zone along the Suez Canal and moved some of them closer to the canal in violation of the standstill order of the cease-fire agreement.

Sisco said today the moves could not have taken place without Russian knowledge and assistance and said Secretary of State William P. Rogers would be armed with evidence of the violations when he meets with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko at the United Nations on Friday. It was Rogers who negotiated the cease-fire agreement.

The Soviet "master plan" was circulated unofficially by the Russian Novosti agency last month and was published officially for the first time today by Pravda, the most authoritative newspaper in the Soviet Union.

The plan calls for the establishment of demilitarized zones on both sides of the border, for the introduction of United Nations troops into a number of points and for direct guarantees by the four permanent members of the Security Council (Russia, the United States, Britain and France) or

Baltimore Orioles Win World Series

Defeat Reds, 9-3, In Final

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Baltimore Orioles, blasting six pitchers for 15 hits, stormed to baseball's world chamionship today by drubbing the Cincinnati Reds, 9-3, to win the World Series, four games to one.

Southpaw Mike Cuellar pitched a six-hitter to win the title game, giving up all three Cincinnati runs in the first inning and then shutting out the National League champions the rest of the way.

Home runs by Frank Robinson and Merv Rettenmund paced the Orioles' assault on a hapless parade of Red pitchers. Fittingly, Brooks Robinson, who was voted the "Most Valuable Player" of the Series, came up with still one more spectacular play in the ninth inning.

The Orioles had added two runs in the last half of the eighth inning against reliever Ray Washburn for their final margin.

Cuellar, after his first-inning trouble, held the Reds without a hit for the next five frames.

The Reds, who stayed alive in the Series by winning the fourth game Wednesday after three losses, struck against Baltimore starting pitcher Mike Cuellar for three runs in the first inning.

But the Orioles came back with two in the first inning on a homer by Frank Robinson and then drove out Reds' sore-armed starting pitcher Jim Merritt with two more runs in the second inning to take the lead.

Viet Reds Reject Nixon Peace Plan

PARIS (UPI)—The Vietnamese Communists today rejected President Nixon's five-point peace plan for Indochina but the United States urged them to reconsider.

In Washington, the State Department refused to consider Hanoi's bitter rejection of President Nixon's Indochina peace plan as final, declaring it was simply a North Vietnamese bargaining maneuver.

Department officials said the North Vietnamese were merely trying to detract from "the world-wide appeal" of Nixon's five-point plan, unveiled Oct. 7, in a nationwide broadcast.

The chief delegates of North Vietnam and the Viet Cong further condemned the Nixon proposals on their arrival at the Paris peace talks center for their 88th session. They denounced the proposals as a "psuedo peace" plan aimed at allowing the Americans "to pursue their aggression."

U.S. chief representative David K.E. Bruce ignored the attacks on the Nixon plan and called on the Vietnamese Communists to give him a "more considered and constructive response."

"This is not a time for bitterness and sterile debate," Bruce said. "It is not a time for rehashing old allegations and refurbishing old preconditions. It is a time to examine how best to arrive at a settlement which can meet the reasonable concerns of both sides."

Viet Cong negotiator Madame Nguyen Thi Binh said the Viet Cong's provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam "has severely criticized and forcefully rejected the pseudo peace-plan" along with the government of North Vietnam, the Pathet Lao and government-in-exile formed by ousted Cambodian leader Prince Norodim Sihanouk. "Let there be no illusions in public opinion on this subject," she said.

Madame Binh called on the Nixon admnisitration to "reply clearly and directly" to the Viet Cong eight-point peace plan proposed Sept. 17 which she described as "reasonable and realistic."

South Vietnam's Pham Dang Lam —despite Communist rejection of the Allied plan —said its five points, including a cease-fire in place throughout Indochina, and a political settlement based on free elections in South Vietnam, offered the only "logical, reasonable and realistic basis" for a solution to the conflict in Vietnam.

The comments were the first official categorical rejection by the Communists of the cease-fire plan set forth by Nixon Oct. 7. The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese at the Paris peace talks had indicated they would not consider the proposal but had left it to top officials in Vietnam to issue an official rejection.

Lynch Kills Proposal On Bay Developments

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — A precedent-setting development proposed for San Francisco's waterfront was dead in the water today under a ruling by Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch.

The precedent, ruled invalid by Lynch, could have opened up vast areas of the bay to developments previously barred by the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

At issue was a proposal by BCDC's staff to allow bay development "for any purpose, whether or not water-related," provided the proposed fill or area to be covered by pilings were matched by an equivalent amount of fill or pilings removed by the developer.

The proposal was the basis for the controversial $120 million Ferry Port Plaza just north of the Ferry Building, which would replace several piers but extend out into the bay by the length of four football fields. And coming up was an application by U. S. Steel for a high-rise on pilings and fill just south of the Ferry Building.

The two projects include offices, stores and a hotel, uses not allowed under the restriction of fill for "water-related" purposes.

Joseph E. Bodovitz, executive director of the BCDC, told the Independent-Journal that the ruling itself did not rule out the possibility that the Ferry Port Plaza still could be approved. But he said it now would have to be justified as a "water-related" project.

Bodovitz emphasized that he never had recommended the "rule of equivalency," but had proposed it for commission consideration "in case anyone wanted to approve it." He said he made the proposal because it seemed to be the only way to tackle the problem of improving public access and shoreline appearance in areas where the bay is inaccessible and the shoreline

Nerve Study Wins 3 Men Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — The Nobel Prize for Medicine was awarded jointly today to an American, British and Swedish scientist for nerve research that could lead to remedies for nervous and mental disturbances.

The $78,400 prize was divided among Prof. Julius Axelrod, 58, of the National Institute of Mental Health at Bethesda, Md., Sir Bernard Katz, 59, of Britain, now a guest lecturer at the University of California at Berkeley, and Prof. Ulf von Euler of Sweden.

It was the fifth consecutive year an American has won or shared the Nobel Prize for Medicine.

The award by the Nobel committee of the Royal Caroline Institute said the men were honored for "their discoveries concerning the humoral transmitters in the nerve terminals and the mechanisms for their storage, release and inactivation."

Translated into laymen's English it meant their studies had explained the mechanism guiding the transmission of impulses between the nerve cells in the human body.

Prof. Bengt Gustafsson, the new secretary of the Caroline Institute, said the three scientists' discoveries "have greatly stimulated the search for remedies against nervous and mental disturbances."

Gustafsson said the three

Woman Killed In First Soviet Plane Hijack

ISTANBUL (UPI)—A Lithuanian truckdriver and his 19-year-old son, armed with seven guns and three grenades, hijacked a Soviet airliner today and forced it to fly to Turkey. An airline hostess was reported killed in a battle aboard the plane and two pilots wounded.

It was the first known successful hijacking of a Soviet plane, although three abortive attempts were reported earlier. The 46-year old Lithuanian and his son surrendered to Turkish gendarmes at Trabzon and asked for political asylum.

The Russian plane, identified as a twin engine turboprop similar to a Fokker F27 Friendship, was on a domestic run between the Soviet Black Sea coastal cities of Batumi and Sochi with 46 passengers and five crewmen when it was forced to turn toward Trabzon.

Officials said the hijackers carried five pistols of various sizes, two sawed off shotguns, three homemade hand grenades and "a substantial amount" of ammunition.

Their names were withheld but officials said they lived in the Soviet Uzbekistan Republic in central Asia.

Unofficial reports said both men forced their way with drawn guns into the pilot's cabin shortly after takeoff from Batum.

The hostess tried to block their way and they shot her dead on the spot, the reports said. A few minutes later they wounded the pilots, one of them seriously, Turkish officials said.

The plane arrived at Trabzon at noon (6 a.m. EDT), firing flares to demand permission to land, Trabzon assistant Governor Haluk Hergok told UPI.

He said the passengers were put up at a hotel in Trabzon and the two wounded pilots hospitalized.

Turkish air force headquarters and political police slapped an immedite ban on all flights in and out of Trabzon as an investigation got underway.

Soviet officials in Moscow had no confirmation or comment on the Istanbul reports.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Three A-Blasts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission says Russia and Communist China exploded large nuclear devices an hour and a half apart Wednesday.

The United States also chose Wednesday for a relatively small underground nuclear test.

The three-megaton Chinese explosion was set off in the atmosphere. The six-megaton Soviet blast was underground. A megaton is the equivalent of one million tons of TNT.

The AEC said the Russian blast was the largest since the "doomsday bomb" tests of 1961-62, which were reported to have measured up to 58 megatons. The Chinese blast was about the same strength as the previous largest efplosions.

Bridge Collapses

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) —A $47 million bridge under construction collapsed today on Melbourne's outskirts, plunging scores of workers more than 100 feet into the Yarra River.

The Civil Defense Office of the State Premier listed 22 dead, 19 injured and 27 missing.

Police said the West Gate Bridge, the biggest in Australia, fell as nearly 100 workmen were at work at a point 134 feet above the river three miles from downtown Melbourne.

Phase 4 Ends

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. spokesmen today announced the official completion of President Nixon's phase 4 troop withdrawal program and the U.S. Air Force completed its pullout from the Tuy Hoa Air Base in Central South Vietnam.

U.S. military sources said the phase 4 withdrawal had actually exceeded Nixon's goal of a reduction of U.S. military strength to 384,000 men by the beginning of this week. Official figures of how far the goal had been passed would not be available until next Monday, they said.

The Phase 4 program was aimed at a withdrawal of 50,000 "troop spaces" between May and mid-October, pulling down the total of U.S. servicemen in Vietnam from the 434,000 mark last spring. Nixon said earlier this week a reduction of another 40,000 men would be made by Christmas.

Ky Visits Pope

An official Vatican spokesman gave no details of the meeting, which sources said lasted about 20 minutes.

It was the first time a Pope had conferred with a major Vietnamese government official.

Police Law Asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Policemen from 44 states massed 2,000 strong on the marble steps of the nation's Capitol Wednesday to demand stronger laws to halt attacks on lawmen.

The policemen, members of the 120,000-member Fraternal Order of Police (FOP), applauded congressmen who promised assistance in meeting their demands. The policemen came to Washington to lobby for bills making it a federal crime to kill a policeman and providing federal assistance in solving assaults on officers.

Congress will pass the bills "by the time the snow falls on the Capitol in December," Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., told the rally. He was one of the sponsors of the demonstration, held at the site of numerous demonstrations by student groups and anti-war forces in the past.

Opinion Of Agnew

WASHINGTON (UPI) — On Nov. 20, 1969, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said, "The time for naive belief in (the press's) neutrality is gone." Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex. has made a survey of 98 newspapers and found a "healthy diversity" of editorial opinion.

Agnew has implied an Eastern-dominated press "conspiracy." But Eckhardt said his survey showed 68 per cent of the papers supporting President Nixon in the 1968 elections, meaning they were "on his (Agnew's) side" too.

"The newspapers may be Republican oriented, but they are not a slave to the party and its leaders' policies," he said. "They may not be neutral but they afford a platform for diversity of editorial position on questions of important national policy."

Capote Plans To Surrender

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)— Truman Capote, author of "In Cold Blood," will surrender to Superior Court Monday on charges of contempt of court in a murder trial, authorities said Wednesday.

Capote was subpoenaed as a witness in the penalty retrial of Joseph Morse, 25, who was convicted of killing an inmate in San Diego County jail.

Capote, who visited Morse in prison, was called to testify. When he failed to appear June 22, a bench warrant charging contempt of court was issued with $5,000 bail.

PRESIDENT SNIFFS MARIJUANA

President Nixon sniffed a package containing marijuana yesterday during a Customs Bureau demonstration of how agents detect contraband drugs in the mails. Thirty packages were picked at random from the Washington post office and laid out on the front lawn of the White House. The marijuana package was planted among them and a German Shepherd guided by Harold Witt of San Francisco found it immediately. The dog also found one of the "innocent" packages, mailed from Spain, contained $1,200 worth of hashish.

School Desegregation Decision Coming Soon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nine justices of the Supreme Court who must now decide the educational future of many black school children voiced a variety of sentiment in the three days of arguments they heard this week.

But there is no way to tell when they will reach sufficient agreement among themselves to hand down a major opinion on how to dismantle dual school systems.

Tied up in the test cases from Charlotte, N.C., Clarke County, Ga., and Mobile, Ala. were such questions as: Does a black child have a constitutional right to attend a racially mixed school? What is an appropriate black-white ratio? Must a school board bus children several miles to achieve a racial balance?

What are the rights of a black child in an all-black neighborhood which did not become so by law? Is there in fact any such thing as this type of neighborhood? As time goes on, will the court constantly have to "reapportion" schools racially?

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger has already said there is a critical need for guidance to school boards faced with these and other questions arising from the court's 1969 "desegregation now" ruling. For this reason as early a decision as possible seems likely. But it could take weeks or months to formulate a majority position. Perhaps several justices will want to express themselves separately.

Burger, 63, a burly Minnesotan selected by President Nixon as a "strict constructionist" of the constitution, was concerned with whether a specific racial balance is required in schools and for how many years courts will be monitoring the situation. "If there isn't substantial room left for play in the joints, aren't you bound to have a constant problem of reapportionment?" he asked.

Justice Hugo L. Black, 84, an Alabaman and long the court's senior member, asked as to busing: "How can you rearrange the whole country? . . . You want to haul people miles and miles and miles in order to get an equal ratio in schools. It's a pretty big job you assign to us, isn't it, to try an rearrange areas in the United States where people have congregated?"

On the other hand, Justice Thurgood Marshall, 62, the only Negro on the high court, was incensed at a school board attorney's objection to busing.

Did you bus children "of tender ages" of both races past both black and white schools solely to maintain segregation?, he asked. Then, 'What's wrong with busing for the purpose of integation."

Justice Potter Stewart, 55, an Ohioan, who usually casts his vote for governmental authority, asked an NAACP legal defense fund lawyer whether he claimed it is the "personal, individual, constitutional right of a Negro child to attend throughout his school career a school not racially identifiable." A ruling to this effect would apply both north and south.

Justice Byron R. White, 53, asked whether a school board may decide for educational reasons to "educate blacks and whites together."

Justice John M. Harlan, 71, the anchor man for the conservative wing, asked, "Has a child any right to go to a particular school under the North Carolina (anti-busing) law?"

No Welfare Aid For Earners Above $7,200

OAKLAND (UPI)—No welfare aid will be given to any person earning more than $7,200 a year, the Alameda County board of supervisors has voted.

Board members also decided Tuesday that recipients must present positive identification before being granted aid and that parents must give written consent before food stamps are issued to single persons less than 21 and married persons less than 18.

Terrorists Bomb U.S. AID Mission

SAIGON (UPI)—Viet Cong terrorists set off a bomb that blew out the windown of an apartment house occupied by U.S. civilian workers today but there were no injuries. Viet Cong and North Vietnamese gunners wounded 19 Americans in shelling attacks.

Military spokesmen said 10 pounds of C4 plastique explosives went off beside an electrical generator at a building rented by the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID) for civilian employes in Saigon's main residential area.

Officials said many windows of the building were smashed and there was some damage to the generator building, the terrorists escaped.

Communiques from Phnom Pehn said the Cambodian military command sees the current lull in fighting as a possible prelude to a new Communist offensive as monsoon rains subside.

The U.S. Command reported today that 46 Americans were killed and 513 wounded in action last week. It was the second lowest weekly death toll of the year. It brought to 43,821 the U.S. deaths in Vietnam since Jan. 1, 1961.

Among the American outposts shelled overnight were a unit of the 101st Airborne Brigade 19 miles northwest of Da Nang and a position of the 1st Marine Division, 12 miles south-southwest of Da Nang. Specific casualties at each camp were not listed for security reasons.

Nixon Signs Anti-Bombing Bill Into Law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today signed into law a major link in his anti-crime program—a bill aimed at organized crime and terrorist bombings.

Long sought by the administration, the bill was approved in its final form by overwhelming margins in the Senate and House.

Separate sections of the bill deal with the wave of bombings around the nation and the long-standing war against organized crime.

The measure provides stringent new provisions to deter terrorist bombings, including the death penalty for anyone convicted of a fatal bombing.

In addition to tightening control on the interstate transport of explosives and increased penalties, the measure broadly expands the power of the federal government in the field of bombings.

It permits FBI agents to investigate and federal attorneys to prosecute bombings and arson on college and university campuses and every institution or organization which receives financial help from the government — such as publis schools and hospitals.

Two of the key provisions in the section dealing with organized crime permit judges to impose additional sentences of up to 25 years on certain "dangerous adult special offenders" convicted of crimes which carry lesser penalties; and allow special grand juries to indict or issue reports on non-criminal misconduct by appointed government officials.

Weathermen Girl Put On FBI's Most Wanted List

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Another woman was added to the FBI's Most Wanted list after Angela Davis was captured. Bernardine Rae Dohrn is wanted for advocating terrorist bombings in an attempt at domestic revolution.

The FBI said Miss Dohrn, 26, is a reputed underground leader of the "violence-oriented Weatherman faction of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS)."

She was described as 5-foot-5, 125 pounds, medium build, light olive complexion, brown eyes and dark brown hair.

Miss Dohrn, a native of Chicago, who holds a Ph.D. in law from the University of Chicago, is sought for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for mob action, violation of federal antiriot laws and conspiracy.

Experiments With 'Fright Drug' Told

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Two state-owned hospitals have experimented on violent patients with a breath-stopping and paralyzing "fright drug" aimed at literally scaring them almost to death.

Use of the drug called succinycholine and "aversion therapy" was made public Wednesday through a medical journal story although the practice has been stopped, partly because of a lack of volunteers.

More than 100 persons were reated, without their consent being asked, at Atascadero State Hospital, a mental facility near Paso Robles, said the Medical World News, a weekly for physicians.

During the treatment, the wide-awake patient experiences a vivid fear of imminent death while a therapist sits at the bedside scolding him and urging him to think before he acts.

Paralysis resulting from the muscle-relaxing drugs lasts up to five minutes and breathing stops for up to two minutes. During treatments oxygen and respirators are kept handy in case the drug slows the patient's heart dangerously. "Some of the patients describe the sensation as one of suffocation or drowning," said Dr. Arthur G. Nugent, chief psychiatrist at Vacaville where convicted persons are taken for processing. "Even some of the toughest (inmates) hate and fear this," he added. "I myself wouldn't try it for the world."

All but five of the 68 who underwent the treatment at Vacaville since 1967 had given consent, said spokesman Philip Guthrie for the Department of Corrections.

Harpy eagles devour their prey completely, and will eat a porcupine, quills and all.

BOMBED COURTROOM CLEANED UP

Workman John R u b k e shovels out debris left from the bombing of a Marin Hall of Justice courtroom and women's rest room last Thursday morning. Behind him is what was the restroom. He is standing where there was formerly a wall between the two rooms. Sheriff's officers, laboratory experts and Federal Bureau o f Investigation investigators finished sifting the debris earlier this week and the area was turned over to maintenance men for the cleanup. Repairs will be made later.

Judges Say They Wear Guns In Court

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — At least two Sacramento County superior court judges are carrying guns for their protection because of recent violent attacks on judges, according to the Sacramento Bee.

"We don't know what to expect these days," said one of the jurists, who asked to remain anonymous. He sat in his chamber with a pistol strapped to his hip.

Another judge reported that his wife insisted on driving him to and from the courthouse on a holiday when he wanted to catch up on a backlog of work.

"She didn't want me working down here," the judge said. "There's no telling what's liable to happen."

Prompted by recent incidents of violence aimed at judges, Sacramento County judges have formed a special committee to recommend ways of increasing court security. The panel was created after Marin Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley and three others were killed in a shoot-out at the Marin County Civic Center August 7.

Office doors in the county courthouse are now locked during trials and new, heavier locks have been installed on other entrances.

The judges also are reported considering installing an alarm or buzzer system to enable them to summon security reinforcements when an emergency arises.

In addition, the jurists are studying the possibility of requiring all persons entering the courthouse to pass through a metal detector to find concealed weapons.

P r e s i d i n g Superior Court Judge William Gallagher declined to elaborate further on the security measures being considered or already installed.

"It's confidential at t h i s time," he said. "We're considering the lives of people coming into this building — including our own."

Nixon Signs $3.1 Billion Bill To Improve Commuter Lines

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today signed into law a bill providing $3.1 billion over the next five years to help the nation's urban areas improve their commuter services.

The new Urban Mass Transportation Assistance Act binds the federal government to make grants and loans up to the $3.1 billion figure over the five fiscal vears ending June 30, 1976.

The measure restricts the grants and 10-year loans to local governmental agencies, but they in turn can funnel the money to private bus, subway or railroad commuter lines serving their area.

Most of the money will go to local agencies in the form of outright grants but on a matching basis in which the local government must provide one-third of the cost of the project it proposes for federal aid.

Grants would be used primarily for purchase of rolling stock such as railroad or subway passenger cars or buses and allied equipment. The 10-year loans, carrying the private market interest rate, would be mainly for land acquisition and station construction.

Jobless Benefits Are Ruled Out For Long-Haired Winery Workers

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The State Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board has denied jobless benefits to six Paul Masson vineyards workers fired because of their long hair.

On a 3-2 decision Wednesday, the board reversed a referee's ruling granting the benefits to the workers who were fired last February after reportedly receiving complaints from visitors to the winemaker's Saratoga plant.

In a statement to the board, attorneys for Paul Masson said the employees had received two warnings prior to dismissal. They said all six identified themselves "with a general protest movement" and insisted on w e a r i n g their long hair or beards "as political and social symbols."

When Paul Masson appealed the referee's decision, the six men said any denial of unemployment benefits "would be a direct infringement upon their constitutional rights."

In its decision, the board said the granting or denying of jobless benefits "has never been dependent upon the exercise of, or failure to exercise, constitutional rights."

"In fact, in almost every case that comes to mind in which a claimant has been denied benefits the claimant was exercising a constitutional right."

For example, the board said, a claimant has a constitutional right to strike yet the legislature has denied him benefits if he does take such action.

The board said the company has every right to fire the em p l o y e e s because "employees with long hair and beards, who appear to be 'hippies,' certainly destroy the image the employer is attempting to present" to the visiting public.

"In our opinion the employer's request that the claimants improve their grooming was reasonable and the claimants' refusal to do so showed a willful and wanton disregard of the employer's interest," the board said.

The two dissenting b o a r d members said the m a j o r i t y swept the issue of constitutionality "u n d e r the rug so to speak."

"We consider it extremely inappropriate for the majority to characterize these claimants as 'hippies.'

"While the term 'hippie' is not presently capable of precise definition, generally it is associated with individuals who are unclean, drug addicted, barefooted, bearded, long haired, nonproductive members of society.

German Farmers Won't Leave Land

GOETTINGEN, GERMANY — For years, West German officials have been stressing the need for vast structural changes in their country's agriculture. In a nutshell, they say ,the number of farmers is far too great — especially in view of West Germany's future in the Common Market.

But farmers are reluctant to leave their land, even with the promise of other jobs with better pay, a survey by Goettingen's Agrarian Social Society reveals. The society sent out 40,000 questionnaires to German farmers recently to learn more about their attitudes.

Only one in six with farms up to 250 acres said they would be willing to leave for a profession they felt equally productive in another area. Another 10 percent said they would be willing to call it quits with farming if they were guaranteed a satisfactory income from a pension — for life.

Germans Focusing On Aviation Mergers

MUNICH, GERMANY (GF)— West German aviation officials are focusing on the possibility of European mergers to meet the stiff international competition of U.S. giants.

Under the most outspoken proponent of European marriages, Ludwig Boelkow, one move has already brought three large German aviation companies — Boelkow, Messerschmitt and Blohm — under a single hat. And last year, Bremen's V e r e i n i g t e Flugtechnische Werke (VFW) and Holland's Fokker joined forces in a major multi-national merger.

But these mark only the initial steps toward the ultimate solution envisioned.

German air firms, operating on their own, are financially unable to launch construction of jumbo passanger planes and similar costly packages.

Boelkow sees two European groupings that could one day achieve U.S. dimensions. One would be a linkup of his own Munich-based triumvirate with the British Aircraft Corporation (BAC), France's r e c e n t l y merged Nord and Sud Aviation and Italy's Fiat. These firms have cooperated in a number of projects.

The second group would link V F W-F o k k e r to England's Hawker Siddeley and France's Dassault-Breguet.

Drawing Course Has Been Added

A course in mechanical drawing has been added to the Petaluma Adult Education Program.

The course instructed by Peter J. Pracchia meets Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7 to 10 p.m. at Petaluma Senior High School.

The class is outlined for both beginners and advanced students and includes instruction in drawing and designing with mechanical instruments and the reading of plans and blueprints.

Registration may be made at any class session.

Reservation Plan For Tennis Play

A trial reservation policy went into effect today at the Mill Valley tennis courts at Boyle Park, the parks and rec r e a t i o n department has announced.

Persons wishing to reserve the court facing East Drive may do so by writing their names on a reservation board installed on a fence near the court no more than 48 hours in advance.

The other two courts will remain on a first come, first served basis. If the experiment proves successful the system will be extended to those courts as well.

Yoffie Named To Foundation Post

The foundation was organized 24 years ago as a non-profit foundation for the education and welfare of newspaperboys.

Keane Challenged To Prove He Paints Eyes

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Margaret Keane McGuire wants to settle, once and for all, the true identity of the artist responsible for the "eyes" of the internationally-known "Keane" paintings of children.

In a recent issue of Life magazine, Walter Keane likened himself to Rembrandt, El Greco, Michaelangelo and refused to concede that anyone of them could top him as a painter of eyes.

But Margaret Keane McGuire, in San Francisco to complete work on a lithograph series, said Wednesday it was she who did all the "eyes" paintings and issued a direct challenge to her ex-husband.

"Give us both paint and brush and canvas and turn us loose in Union Square in the heart of downtown San Francisco) at high noon and we'll see who can paint eyes," she said. "I'd like that."

She said her former husband had a genius for "marketing and publicity," but he had absolutely none for painting.

"I couldn't even teach him to paint," Mrs. McGuire said. "I did the paintings. Sometimes he painted a little of the backgrounds. He was the one who promoted the paintings and sold them. I can paint and he can't.

"I stayed home and painted and did the housework," said Mrs. Mcguire, now a resident of Honolulu, "and Walter sold them in the Hungry I.

by the U.N. Security Council as a whole. (Russia does not consider Nationalist China a permanent member of the Council).

"While boasting of every one of its own maneuvers as a 'new initiative,' the United States ignored the concrete, detailed and feasible (Soviet) proposals for peace and security for all countries of the Middle East," Pravda said.

"If Israeli leaders, relying on help from the imperialist circles of the United States, did not thwart the Soviet proposals, a just and durable peace would long ago have been established in the Middle East," the newspaper said.

Government officials in Egypt, which had accepted the American peace initiative and the cease-fire, immediately accepted the new Russian proposals.

The Egyptians said the Soviet plan was based on the U.N. Security Council 1967 resolution, which Egypt has always supported. Foreign Minister Mahmoud Raid flew to New York earlier this week to lead a fight in the General Assembly to urge sanctions against Israel if Tel Aviv continued to ignore the resolution.

Egypt meanwhile was busy voting in a national referendum to confirm acting President Anwar Sadat as successor to Gamal Abdel Nasser. Nearly 8 million persons, many of them women who still wept over Nasser's death, voted today and it was generally conceded Sadat would win overwhelming acceptance.

In London, Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban said tension had lowered in the Middle East because of the end of fighting in Jordan and the "fact that there is a new opportunity in Egypt." But he said the situation still is grave.

Diplomatic reports in New York said Rogers would urge an Egyptian pullback of its missiles when he meets with Gromyko on Friday.

Arab diplomats at the United Nations offered little hope for It looked as though the United Nations would be the scene of a noisy debate as well as "quiet diplomacy" on the Middle East. Egyptian Ambassador to the U.N. Mohammed H. El-Zayyat formally asked the General Assembly to schedule a full debate as soon as possible and U.N. sources said it might be set for Oct. 26, two days after the end of the commemorative session devoted to ceremonial functions.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Union in strong terms reaffirmed its support for the Arabs. "What are the Israeli leaders counting on, the surrender of the Arabs?" Pravda asked. "Or on a weakening of Soviet aid to the just struggle against aggression? Neither is possible.

"Perhaps the people in Tel Aviv or Washington think that the Soviet position will change after President Nasser's death? Wishful thinking."

Pravda said "The moment the final (peace) document, agreed upon through the mediator of U.N. envoy Gunnar V. Jarring, is presen tdeto the United Nations, the sides must refrain from actions contradicting the ending of the state of war.

"The dejure (legal) ending of the state of war and the establishment of the state of peace begins at the moment of the ending of the first stage of the withdrawal of Israeli troops —which can be carried out in two stages —from territories occupied in June, 1967."

unattractive because of obsolete wharves or other structures or fill.

The proposed rule also could have applied to Sausalito's waterfront.

Lynch ruled that the state law that created the BCDC did not give it authority to adopt a regulation allowing fill for non-water-oriented uses. His ruling was requested by the chairman of BCDC, Melvin B. Lane of Menlo Park.

Lynch listed as such permitted uses "ports, water-related industry, airports, bridges, water-oriented recreation and public assembly, water intake and discharge lines for desalinization plants and power generating plants requiring large amounts of water for cooling purposes or minor fills for improving shoreline appearance or public access to the bay."

Lynch also pointed out that fill for any purpose should be allowed only when no alternative upland location is available.

Lynch stressed that his ruling was general in nature, thus applicable to all of the shoreline in the bay.

The commission was to take up Lynch's ruling this afternoon. Voting on the Ferry Port Plaza application had been held up pending the ruling.

MUNICH, GERMANY — West Germany's largest electrical engineering firm, Siemens of Munich, is looking for improved business with Communist East Europe.

Siemens has launched a special department for that objective and the department has already landed contracts from East Germany, the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Rumania worth $13.5 million.

The firm is seeking cooperation with Moscow in the field of electronic data processing, according to a Siemens spokesman. Initial talks have already been launched, he says.

For Siemens, East European business could account for a major share of its expected rise in orders this year to $220 million (1969: $109 million). The foreign share of those totals is about 30 per cent.

For the first time, Siemens moved into the overseas computer business last year by branching into Brazil.

Companies Attempting Deliveries

Company officials reported deliveries were sharply curtailed yesterday as pickets halted drivers at stores and key street locations and turned them back to their terminals. Some drivers were said by companies to have been threatened but police reported no incident.

Some trucking firms were refusing yesterday to send their trucks into central Marin for fear of harm to their drivers.

Four companies reached this morning said deliveries were being attempted, although officials of at least two firms, Alltrans Express of California in San Francisco and Willig Freight Lines of Berkeley, said some customers were coming to terminals to pick up goods which couldn't get through.

Said Cal Sorro, terminal manager for Associated Freight Lines in Cotati, "We've been attempting to go in and deliver. We're trying to get as much through as we can.

"My instructions are that I don't want my drivers to get hurt in any way. If there's any confrontation, I tell them to get the heck out of there."

Sorro reported one of his trucks successfully made its rounds yesterday but another was turned away.

Michael McMahon, assistant terminal manager for Alltrans Express, said he dispatched one truck this morning and had at least three others waiting to deliver if the first one got through. He said one of two trucks was turned back yesterday.

San Rafael police said pickets were stationed at the Highway 101 exit at Second Street today in an effort to halt trucks.

Although Teamster officials said yesterday no picketing has been authorized, some pickets have identified themselves as members of Teamster Local 70 of Oakland.

Experts Work On New Handwriting For Computers

HANOVER, GERMAN Y— A group of German experts here has embarked on a project to develop a new handwriting style, more appropriate for the computer age.

As the German and many other experts see it, the present handwriting of the West is sadly inefficient for computer comprehension and evaluation. At the same time, the quantity of required handwriting — filling out forms, signing checks, etc. — is steadily increasnig.

Computer systems based on storing data derived from handwritten forms frequently confuse letters and numerals of the present script — for example, ones and sevens and the numeral "0" from the letter "O" or "o."

Capital letters seem likely to form a basic part of the Hanover system — especially since many firms today ask for forms to be filled out in such letters for purposes of clarity.

rally by drawing a walk with one out and he moved to second as Andy Etchebarren singled. When Cuellar lined out to right field, Reds' manager Sparky Anderson decided his gamble on Merritt had failed and called in the Red's ace relief pitcher, Wayne Granger.

But Granger, who had given up a grand-slam home run to the Orioles' Dave McNally in the third game of the Series, quickly gave up a single to Mark Belanger that scored Johnson with the tying run and another single to Paul Blair that scored Etchebarren from second with the go-ahead run before retiring Frank Robinson on a fly ball to end the inning.

The Orioles knocked out Granger with another pair of runs in the third to boost their lead to 6-3.

Boog Powell opened the third with a double to the right field wall. Rettenmund singled to center to score Powell and went to second as Big Boog slid to score despite a strong throw by Bobby Tolan. Rettenmund moved along to third as second baseman Tommy Helms bobbled Brooks Robinson's hard grounder and finally threw him out at first. When Dave Johnson singled to score Rettenmund, Anderson yanked Granger and brought in 20-year-old Milt Wilcox, who ended the inning by getting Etchebarren on a fly and fanning Cuellar.

Cuellar, after his first-inning trouble, settled down and pitched brilliantly. He retired 11 straight batters from the first inning until he walked pinch-hitter Angel Bravo in the fifth inning.

Bravo was batting for Wilcox, who was struck in the side by a line drive off the bat of Frank Robinson in the last of the fourth, the ball bounding to third baseman Tony Perez who threw Frank out at first. Wilcox, who retired five straight batters in his brief appearance, went to the clubhouse for first aid after going out for Bravo.

Tony Cloninger, the third-game loser, came in to pitch for the Reds in the fifth.

Cuellar started well by striking out the first Reds' batter, Bobby Tolan. But then Pete Rose touched off the fireworks by looping a double over the head of first baseman Boog Powell.

OBITUARIES

Olive Wall Services Tomorrow

Funeral for Olive H. Wall, longtime San Rafael resident and member of the Marin Senior Association, will be held at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow in Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael.

Mrs. Wall died Tuesday in a local hospital after a brief illness. She was 80.

Born in Minnesota, Mrs. Wall lived in Marin County at least 40 years, moving briefly to Roseville, but returning to her home at 326 First Street, San Rafael, in 1958. Her husband was the late Fred Wall.

Mrs. Wall is survived by four daughters, Gladys Johnston of San Anselmo; Florence Wyle of Georgetown, El Dorado County; Helen Hiruneth of San Francisco, and Poppy Crosby of Encino, Los Angeles County; 22 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

She was also a member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles Auxiliary.

Rosary will be recited at 8:15 p.m. today at Keaton's Mortuary. Burial will be in Sylvan Cemetery, Roseville.

JOSEPH THOMAS

Joseph D. Thomas, assistant insurance commissioner for California and a member of the governor's automobile accident study commission, died yesterday in a San Francisco hospital after a short illness. He was 64.

Thomas of 215 San Felipe Way, Novato, was born in Pennsylvania. He came to California as a child with his parents.

He was admitted to the California bar in 1930 and practiced law in Van Nuys and Los Angeles. He was a professor of law at Southwestern University in Los Angeles from 1947 to 1950. He was appointed to the insurance commission in 1961, and in 1968 was appointed assistant insurance commissioner with office in San Francisco.

He lived in Novato the past five years.

He was a member of the State Bar of California, the Stanford Law Society, Blue Goose Club and Commonwealth Club of California.

He is survived by his wife, Marjorie Thomas; two sons, Dean Thomas of Novato and William J. Thomas of Los Altos and seven grandchildren.

The funeral will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at Keaton's Chapel of Marin in Novato. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery in San Rafael.

MRS. MAHONEY

Funeral for Alice E. Mahoney of Fairfax will be tomorrow at 9 a.m. at the N. Gray Mortuary at Divisadero and Post streets, San Francisco.

Mrs. Mahoney, who lived at 78 Bay Road, died Tuesday in a local hospital following a long illness. She was 73.

A native of Ohio, she moved to California 30 years ago and to Marin County 20 years ago.

She is survived by her husband, William P. Mahoney, two brothers, Arthur and John Embree and a sister, Mable Reder.

Burial will follow the funeral at Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

OLIVIA ROWLAND

Olivia C. Rowland, long-time Marin County resident, died yesterday in her Fairfax home after a long illness. She was 82.

A native of Brisbane, Australia, she had lived in California 60 years and 50 years in Marin County, residing at 21 Marielle Drive.

She was the wife of Philip J. Rowland, former deputy county assessor and past president of the Marin County Taxpayers Association. The Rowlands celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1967.

Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Rowland was a concert pianist and graduated from the London Conservatory of Music when she was 10 years old. She was a member of the Marin Catholic Social Services Auxiliary and was known for her work in arts and crafts.

Mrs. Rowland is survived by her husband; a daughter, Margaret P. Callahan of Fairfax; a son, Philip E. Rowland of Sacramento and five grandchildren.

A Mass of Resurrection will be offered Saturday at 10:30 a.m. in St. Sebastion's Church, Greenbrae. Private burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael. Recitation of the Rosary will be Friday at 8 p.m. in Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael.

LENA YATES

Funeral for Lena Yates of San Rafael will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow in the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

Mrs. Yates died yesterday in a local hospital after a brief illness. She was 87.

A native of Germany, she had worked more than 50 years as a housekeeper in Marin and San Francisco, returning to Marin two years ago to make her home at 1000 C Street.

She is survived by a son, Harley H. Yates of Jacksonville, Fla., and two grandchildren.

Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. today in the mortuary. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

have been working independently of each other but their discoveries have all contributed in solving principal questions concerning the neurotransmitters, their storage, release and inactivation.

Sir Bernard's discoveries concern the mechanism for the release of these transmitters and are considered fundamental to the understanding of what is going on in the cells.

Bagley, Forest, Bernd Air Views

The three candidates for state Assembly today aired their views on issues from conservation to taxes.

The incumbent, Republican William T. Bagley of Sleepy Hollow is being challenger by Democrat Joseph A. Forest of Novato and Glenn A. Bernd of Sebastopol, nominee of the American Independent Party.

Bagley cited his 10 years in Sacramento as having "established a good record," including bills guaranteeing public access to public records and meetings of state bodies, prohibiting oil and gas drilling in San Francisco Bay and on the coastline from Oregon to Monterey County, transferring Bolinas Lagoon from the jurisdiction of the defunct Bolinas Harbor District to the County of Marin, transferring 11,000 acres of state tidelands to Point Reyes National Seashore, eliminating discrimination in labor union apprenticeship programs, creating the Marin County Transit District and restructuring the Golden Gate Bridge District "to bring them into the 20th Century — which I think we did."

Bagley, an attorney, noted that last year he was cited as "the most effective assemblyman of the year" by both the Capitol press corps and the California Trial Lawyers Association.

Forest said that Bagley had failed to visit personally many communities in his district, which includes Marin and Southern Sonoma. Forest said that if he were elected he would visit all areas of the district regularly, and would set up community forums to discuss issues with the public.

Forest, a senior deputy county counsel, called for judicial reform, with emphasis on "professional administration" of the courts to relieve judges of administrative tasks.

He also favored creation of a single regional agency to handle environmental problems. He said, however, that controls on air and water pollution should be "confined to realistic boundaries."

Bernd, operator of a health club, argued that his party, formed to promote the presidential ambitions of former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, offered a choice to "millions of Californians looking for a party to represent them."

He described what he termed "court coddling of criminals" and "government-created inflation," and asserted that the "crushing burden of taxation grows larger each year regardless of whether we elect Republicans or Democrats." Both taxes and spending must be cut before citizens get real tax relief, he declared.

Bernd favored expansion of private schools "as healthy competition for tax-supported education bureaucracies."

The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be rebroadcast at 10.05 a.m. Sunday.

Abatement Of Weeds Ordered

A resolution to commence weed abatement proceedings against two Tiburon landowners was voted last night by the Tiburon Fire Protection District Board.

Secretary Wellman H. Topham reported the parcels are at 20 and 22 Raccoon Lane, owned by Juanita A. Aureguy, of 2475 Mar East Street, and a vacant lot at Vistazo West Street and Lyford Drive, owned by James E. Hutson of Lafayette.

Topham said Fire Chief Franklin J. Buscher has written to the property owners explaining that the weeds represent a fire hazard, but they have not complied with his requests to clean them up.

The resolution set a public hearing on the abatement for the board's next meeting Nov. 11 at 8 p.m. at the fire station. "I hope it rains before then so their houses don't burn down," Topham said.

The board also authorized Buscher to proceed with improvements to station 2. Refurbishing of the locker room and new cabinets in the kitchen are planned, Topham said.

Directors authorized extension of a fire main up Centro West Street and installation of a hydrant in the 1900 block. The work will cost about $9,300, Topham reported.

Compost To Be Made From Street Debris

A proposed operation to produce compost from street sweepings was approved last night by the Larkspur Park and Recreation Commission, which agreed to lend about half an acre of Piper Park for the operation.

Harlan Barry, recreation director, reported today that approval was granted after Henry Ziff of 52 Millard Road, Larkspur, and a member of the Marin Ecology Center, outlined plans for the operation.

Barry said Ziff told the commission the ecology center plans to grind materials gathered by the city's street sweeping crew, mix the leavings with organic materials and store the mixture in bins at Piper Park.

Barry said the mixture will be cured in bins for 14 days after which it will be given away by the center to anyone who can use it.

The composting operation will produce two tons of compost for every 448 cubic feet of street sweepings, according to Barry.

The commission, Barry said, provided for close city supervision.

Operation of the composting center, he said, will be completely financed by the ecology center with city involvement limited to supplying the Piper Park property.

The commission also agreed last night to recommend to the city council that marshlands adjacent to Piper Park be designated as wild life preserves.

Barry said the three acres of marsh on the eastern side of the park had originally been planned for a small boat harbor on Corte Madera Creek.

He said the commission last night decided that preserving the land was a more fitting use.

The Parks And Recreation Commission Also:

PARK PLANNERS — Approved recommending the Berkeley planning firm of Arbegast and Newton to the city council for development of a long-range park master plan.

CREEK FLOAT — Agreed to recommend to the city council that it budget between $200 and $300 next year for a float on Corte Madera Creek at Piper Park for launching canoes, sailboars and other small craft.

HILLVIEW PARK — Approved designating the landscaped park in front of the Hillview Garden subdivision on Magnolia Avenue as Hillview Park and accepted it as one of the city's parks.

OPEN SPACE — Continued discussion on an open space dedication ordinance until the next meeting Nov. 12.

APPLICATIONS — Will accept until November applications for filling two seats on the commission. The seats are to be filled by youths between ages 15 and 22. The new members will be given full voting rights.

TENNIS COURTS — Approved, pending an agreement with the Larkspur School District, resurfacing two tennis courts with city crews and equipment at the Larkspur-Corte Madera School.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to the next regular meeting, Nov. 12.

Larkspur Man Hurt On Bridge

A 34-year-old Larkspur man was treated at San Francisco General Hospital for cuts and bruises suffered in an accident at 11:35 p.m. yesterday on the Golden Gate Bridge.

The California Highway Patrol said Ronald E. Phillips of 96 Madrone Avenue was injured when his northbound car struck a stalled vehicle operated by Scott A. Harris, 24, of 2457 Mar East Street, Tiburon.

Harris and a passenger, Carole L. Sievers, 23, of Sacramento, said they would see their doctors for possible neck and back injuries, the patrol said.

WOMAN SAYS THIEF TOOK HER GRASS

A Homestead Valley woman who called to report a burglary to sheriff's deputies complained that the main item missing was $5 worth of marijuana.

Deputies said that Nancy L. Ramey of 522 Pixie Trail told them that when she returned home Tuesday she found that the pot which she had stored on her top kitchen shelf was gone along with $1.75 in cash.

Screen Incident Brings Arrest

Benjamin Skippingday of 815 Mission Street was arrested after Donald Gregory Webb of 1356 Lincoln Avenue, Apt. 5, allegedly caught him trying to force open the apartment window behind the screen.

Webb told police Skippingday first knocked loudly on the door and yelled at him to open it, but had been ignored.

Defense Ready In Court Hearing

The Independent-Journal's efforts to prove that labor actions before and at the violent Feb. 14 rally outside the I-J plant constituted contempt of a court injunction, were expected to wind up this afternoon.

Gary T. Giacomini, attorney for the I-J, said the timing would depend on how long defense attorneys cross-examine I-J photographers testifying today.

The I-J action is against International Typographical Union Local 21, Periodical and Newspaper Drivers Local 921, the Marin and San Francisco labor councils and a number of officials of the organizations. At issue is whether there were violations of a 15-rule injunction signed Jan. 23 by Superior Court Judge Thomas F. Keating. He is hearing the case, now in its seventh day.

Yesterday, the I-J put another adverse witness on the stand — Claude Beagari, son of a local 21 member and former College of Marin student now working in San Francisco.

The youth said, "I helped to put a leaflet out" over the name of the Student Committee to Support the I-J Strike, before the Feb. 14 rally, but could not remember who were other members of the committee.

He said he "had talked to somebody at 21" about the leaflet, but could not remember who, and would not confirm previous testimony that the student committee said the bill for its printing should be sent to John DeMartini, Local 21 vice president, for payment.

Attorney Nathan R. Berke, also representing the I-J, pointed out that both Beagari and a preceding witness subpoenaed by the I-J, Lili Sommer of Woodacre, were brought to court by DeMartini and conferred with the labor lawyers before testifying. The labor attorneys said all they did was tell the two to "tell the truth."

Allan Howells, I-J circulation manager, spent most of yesterday testifying. He described the I-J's internal security, for which he was responsible, and identified labor rally participants shown in a long series of photos put into evidence.

Howells related being struck on the head with a stench bomb hurled into the plant, and the damage he saw when he toured the outside of the plant after the rally.

Commission Can't Waive Fee For Bible Classes

A request for free use of the Kenilworth Recreation Center for Bible study classes was denied last night by the Petaluma Recreation, Music and Parks Commission.

Carol Blumbell of the Release Time Bible Classes requested use of the building during the school year, but said the group could not afford the fee of $5 per meeting.

Mrs. Clifford Durham said all instructors are unpaid and donate funds for materials and supplies.

The commission said that rental fates for the building are set by the city council and that the commission has no power to waive the fees. The women were advised to make the same request to the council.

The Petaluma Recreation, Music and Parks Commission also:

LUCCHESI — Asked San Rafael Landscape architect Sidney M. Lewin to submit written cost estimates for designing drainage, contouring and tree landscaping of Lucchesi Park from Novak Drive to Lynch Creek.

FENCE — Approved American Little League construction of a four-foot cyclone fence around the outfield of the baseball diamond at Lucchesi Park to keep unauthorized vehicles off the field during the playing season.

LA TERCERA — Heard recreation director Richard W. Schollenberger report that plans for a proposed park at La Tercera School will include two new baseball diamonds for the new little league.

DANCES — Heard a report that Roost Club dances for teen-agers have been poorly attended and losing money. The commissions said school personnel should be contacted to promote the dances among students.

SWIMMING—Due to a lack of attendance, approved the closing of the swim center on weekdays beginning Monday. The pool will be open only on Saturdays and Sundays from 12:30-6 p.m.

Crash Kills Sausalitan

I-J Special Report

KINGSBURG — A 47-year-old Sausalito woman was killed yesterday when her car skidded out of control on the Kings River Bridge of Highway 99 and plunged over an embankment.

Kayla Schaian Golden, of 28 Bulkley Avenue, died instantly. She was on her way to Los Angeles to visit her son, Josh.

She also is survived by a daughter, Dayna Golden, of Japan.

Funeral will be Sunday in Los Angeles.

Cycle Rider Injured In Crash With Car

A 17-year-old San Rafael motorcycle rider was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with a fractured right foot suffered in an auto-motorcycle accident at 9:27 p.m. yesterday.

San Rafael police said Jerry-Lynn Keelin of 515 D Street, Apt. 16, was injured when a car driven by Craig P. Martz, 16, of 7 Gloria Drive collided with his motorcycle at Welch and First streets.

Utility Board Orders Parts

Purchase of 24 water meters, 600 feet of copper tubing and a suction hose for a sump pump was voted last night by directors of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District.

Clerk Jane Boyer said the items will cost $1,200.

The board also heard a report that plans for the district's sewage treatment plant, being prepared by Kennedy Engineers of San Francisco, are proceeding on schedule. The facility will be built in conjunction with the Stinson Beach County Water District.

Directors also voted to join the Association of Bay Area Governments.

Tamalpais Board Rejects Request Of Garbage Firm

Directors of the Tamalpais Community Services District last night refused a two-year extension of a contract with Henry's Service of Stinson Beach for garbage collection in the district.

President Glenn Lambacher reported a representative of the firm asked the board to extend the contract, which expires in 1973, to 1975.

"The request was denied because we could see no advantage to the district at this time," Lambacher said.

The board also endorsed Measure H on the Nov. 3 ballot, an $11.5 million bond issue for Marin Municipal Water District improvements.

Brush Arraigned For Stealing Radios

Donovan Dean Brush, 34, of Petaluma, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of stealing radios from a boat in a San Rafael harbor on June 22.

NEW IDEA FOR UNCLE SAM

Poindexter Is Linked To Crime Syndicate

CHICAGO (UPI) — David R. Poindexter Jr., the man arrested syndicate control of another militant Angela Davis, has connections with a firm associated with the crime syndicate, it was reported today.

The Chicago Tribune said City Hall records show that officers of a landfill company have identified Poindexter as being active in their firm, although his name does not appear on official documents.

The newspaper said it called the firm's offices and spoke with Vito DeStefano, identified by a Senate rackets committee as a member of the Chicago crime syndicate.

Asked if Poindexter had appeared at the landfill firm's office recently, DeStefano replied, "No, he never comes around here," the Tribune said.

Poindexter also attended hearings last year into suspected syndicat econtrol of another company which earlier ran the landfill operation, the Tribune said.

MURPHY VIEW

LONG BEACH (UPI) — Sen. George Murphy has cited the arrest of black activitist Angela Davis to renew his charge that Rep. John V. Tunney is soft on the law and order issue.

"Now that the FBI has caught Angela Davis, he'll probably suggest she be charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor," Murphy told a group of Republican women Wednesday.

Tunney, Democratic contender for the Senate, in turn, accused Murphy of "taking the low road at the last minute in a desperate attempt to win a few votes."

Murphy declared himself "shocked and surprised" when Tunney last week announced his opposition to President Nixon's proposal that the FBI be called in to investigate campus bombings and that another 1,000 G-men be hired for campus and airliner protection against hijackers.

Tunney issued a statement Wednesday saying the FBI should be called on "campus or anywhere else where federal laws are violated."

"But I am not in favor of creating a national police force or of giving the FBI responsibility for maintaining law and order at the local level," he said. "The local police are more attuned to community situations and can more effectively deal with possible violence."

'WRONG PERSON'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The arrest of Angela Davis is a governmental attempt to "kill her off before she could utter a word," says the Northern California Communist party's chairman.

Albert J. Lima, the chairman, told a news conference Wednesday the "attempts in the press to link her with the shooting in Marin two months ago is based solely on police-informer allegations and has no basis in fact."

"The arrest of Angela is the arrest of the wrong person," he said.

BAIL MONEY

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Money to free Angela Davis was collected Wednesday night at a seminar at Lewis and Clark, where the crowd and collectors apparently were unaware she was now being held without bail in New York City on a murder charge from California.

A total of $122.21 was donated by a crowd of about 600 persons attending the seminar, "Women's Liberation and Men's Freedom." Those collecting the money said it was to go to help pay the $250,000 bail, the amount she was originally held under in federal proceedings.

House Of Fabric Reports Robbery

Four bolts of material valued at $272 were stolen from the House of Fabrics at 941 Fourth Street, San Rafael, at 8:25 p.m. yesterday, police said today.

Definite Arson In Gnoss Field Fire

The $250,000 fire early Monday at Gnoss Field was definitely the work of an arsonist, Novato fire chief Jack Kidder said today.

Firemen found that one window to the cafe had been broken before the fire, an office pilfered and some flamable liquid spread around the cafe before the fire was set, Kidder said. A lock on one of the gasoline pumps had been broken.

The fire destroyed the Blue Yonder Cafe, damaged the offices and parts department of Spectrum Air Inc. and burned a $150,00 Cessna 421 plane parked between the cafe and gasoline pumps. The plane had been leased by Sen. George Murphy for his campaign.

Oil Development

NEW YORK (UPI) — Donaldson, Lufkin & Jenrette Inc. said it has organized Lewis G. Weeks participants to acquire and develop potential oil and gas properties. Partners include Lewis G. Weeks Associates, New Court Private Equity Fund, Sprout Capital Group and Alaska North Slope Oil, Ltd.

McNears' Historic Buildings Rescued By Park Commissioners

Century-old buildings at the south end of the county's newly acquired McNears Beach should be retained, at least until their full historic significance can be established, the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commissioners decided yesterday.

Park Planner Donald Rolph said he talked to heirs of the McNear family and learned that the red building was a former store, used primarily by the Chinese colony, and the white barn was a former warehouse. Both buildings were built by the McNears about 1870.

County Recreation Director Pierre W. Joske and his staff, who had originally recommended removing the buildings, yesterday agreed with Commissioner Helen E. Newman that the buildings have historic significance and should remain.

Future use of the buildings could be studied by the Marin Historical Society, suggested Mrs. Newman. "I'd like to involve them in some way. Maybe we can work out some method for joint maintenance or use."

Commissioners approved the concept of a general plan for McNears Beach, drawn up by Rolph. The plan calls for expansion of the park to the north toward China Camp, with family day use as the primary activity. Open areas, lawns, fishing and picnicking are planned, in addition to the existing swimming pool and two tennis courts.

MacMillan said his association members are concerned about a pier with boat berths in the master plan. "When you combine bathers and boats, you're going to have problems." In addition to the danger of bathers being hit, MacMillan said a marina will bring gas and oil spillage and effluent discharge.

Park Planner Rolf assured MacMillan that the pier will be primarily for fishing, with a courtesy dock for three or four boats to tie up at the end of the pier.

Marin Parks And Recreation Commission Also:

CREEK ACCESS — Set a public hearing for the evening of either Nov. 12 or 18 to hear arguments pro and con on allowing bicycle and pedestrian access to Corte Madera Creek banks between Bon Air Bridge and College Avenue in Kentfield. Mrs. Ellen Larkins, who owns property at 19 and 21 Stadium Way, has erected fences that block pedestrian and bicycle access for about 200 feet on the north bank of the creek, from Stadium Way eastward to the stilling basin.

FAIRGROUNDS — Approved a resolution asking the county supervisors to let the County Parks and Recreation Commission participate in the planning of the Civic Center fairgrounds area.

PARKS CONFERENCE — Appointed Albert J. Boro and Herbert C. Leney as a committee to work with Louis Stewart of San Anselmo on a countywide parks and recreation conference to be held next February. Stewart, who works for Pacific Gas and Electric Co., offered to take pictures of county parks and prepare a slide show for the conference without cost to the county.

BIKE PATHS — Voted unanimously to ask the county supervisors for a county ordinance banning motorized vehicles such as motorcycles from using the county's bicycle paths, and prohibiting the parking of cars on the bike paths.

PARK ACQUISITION COST — Received a report from County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell, which shows that acquisition and development of county parks in Marin during the past six years cost less than one cent per year on the county tax rate. This comes to 60 cents per year for the owner of a $30,000 home. The rest of the cost was borne by federal and state funds and private contributions.

Corn Blight Disaster Area Is Called For

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., has asked the Agriculture Department to declare the southeast states a disaster area because of corn blight damage.

Talmadge said some farmers in Georgia have told him their fields are yielding only 10 bushels an acre this year, compared to a normal yield of 70 to the acre. He said similar conditions may exist in Alabama, Florida, the Carolinas and Mississippi.

BOMB BLAST DAMAGE

Officials in Cambridge, Mass., inspect yesterday's bomb blast damage in a third-floor library room of Harvard University's Center For International Affairs. An anonymous woman caller said the blast, which did $40,000 damage, was "dedicated" to Angela Davis, a fugitive radical arrested a few hours before the early morning explosion.

Water Board, Meadow Club Closer To Rent Agreement

The Marin Municipal Water District board came close yesterday, but failed to end its seven-month controversy concerning the lease of 162 acres of land to the Meadow Club.

The board was informed by Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger that a district negotiating team had reached an agreement with the Meadow Club on the rental price of the land.

The club's 44-year-old lease, which runs until the year 20000, contains a clause allowing the district to review the rental price every 10 years. The club has been paying $40 a month.

After two appraisals and five months of discussion and public criticism, the board in August agreed that a fair rental price would be $700 a month plus either an annual review of the price or an escalation clause.

Seeger told the board yesterday that he, board president Robert G. Anderson and director Jordan L. Martinelli Jr. met with Meadow Club representatives Tuesday and that after two hours of discussion it was agreed that a fair price would be $700 a month with the condition that the price be modified annually in accordance with the appraised value of the land as established by the Marin County assessor.

The addition of the escalation clause would have dropped the district's right to review the price every 10 years.

The board appeared ready to approve the agreement yesterday when director-elect Eugene A. Miller warned against dropping the 10-year review clause from the lease.

"The board has been and will be the target of some very extreme criticism for leasing to a private club," Miller said as he urged the directors to make sure the district was getting "the best deal."

Director John M. MacPhail Jr. agreed with Miller and said he didn't like the idea of locking the district into a price for 30 years.

The district's attorney, Robert W. Elliott told the board that from a legal standpoint all the club had to agree to was a rental price.

Changing the terms of the lease, such as adding the escalation clause, was not required, Elliott said.

With Miller warning that "there are people mad enough about this they're threatening a taxpayers' suit," the board agreed to have the negotiating team meet again with the Meadow Club and attempt to get the club to agree to the $700 a month plus escalation clause plus 10-year review.

If the district and club cannot reach agreement on the price, the matter according to the terms of the lease would go to binding arbitration.

The club has been paying $480 a year for the land it uses for its golf course, and the new rental price, whenever it is agreed upon, will be retroactive to January 1970.

The Marin Municipal Water District Also:

SEWERS — Continued until Nov. 12 a hearing on the district's plan to form an improvement district to finance a preliminary study of a Southern Marin sanitary district. The continuance was requested by a district advisory board made up of representatives of the sanitary district which would be included in the new district.

BRIDGE — Awarded on the low bid of $29,859 a contract to Jorgensen-Davis Inc. of San Anselmo for construction of a reinforced concrete bridge at Pine Mountain Tunnel Road.

PIPELINE — Awarded on the low bid of $19,201 a contract to Soiland Co. of Novato for relocation of a pipeline at San Quentin. The work was made necessary by a proposed widening and realignment of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard East near San Quentin Prison.

TANK SITE — Awarded on the low bid of $7,798 a contract to Grover Wilson of San Rafael a contract for paving the Escalle tank site and access road in Larkspur.

VALVE — Approved purchase of a butterfly valve for 1,570 from the North Marin County Water District. The district has valves on order but the manufacturer cannot give a definite delivery time and one valve is needed immediately.

POSTAGE — Approved purchase of a postage machine for $969 plus an annual maintenance fee of $67 from the Friden Division of Singer Co.

FEE — Approved payment of a $640 fee to the law firm of Riede and Elliott of San Rafael for service in connection with a law suit involving the district.

LITIGATION — Approved retention of the San Francisco law firm of Landels, Ripley and Diamond for approximately $500 to represent the district in an antitrust suit for concrete meter box purchases.

EQUIPMENT — Approved rental for $889 a month of an International Business Machines Corp. magnetic tape typewriter and composer.

LANDSCAPING — Directed construction of a Fern Canyon storage tank continue, but put over approval of landscaping plans until they are submitted for comment to the Mill Valley Planning Commission.

AWARD — Presented an award from the California section of the American Waterworks Association to Eldon Halseth, the district's San Geronimo Valley area supervisor, for equipment innovations.

DEPRECIATION — Removed from he district equipment ledger $251,892 worth of equipment which no longer exists and approved a revised depreciation schedule to conform with the state's schedule. The revision removed $5,273,619 of paper value from the district's books.

PAYMENT — Approved filing of a notice of completion for construction of the San Geronimo Valley pump house and semifinal payment of $6,298 to Page Construction Co. of Novato.

REHABILITATION — Approved semifinal payments on two district rehabilitation program projects and final payments on two others for a total of $10,291 to Earl E. Gilson, of San Anselmo.

MEETINGS — adjourned to 1:30 p.m. Oct. 29, instead of the regularly scheduled Oct. 28 because there will not be a quorum that day.

A Legal Snarl In Tate Case

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The prosecution in the Tate murder trial Wednesday produced a letter Susan Atkins allegedly sent a former cellmate after the woman told police Miss Atkins had confessed to the slayings.

A legal hassle developed over whether the letter was admissible as evidence, since in it Miss Atkins implicates the other defendants as well as herself.

The same legal issue prevented the cellmate, Ronni Howard, 39, from telling the jury all the details Miss Atkins told her about the killings.

She was permitted to testify only to what Miss Atkins admitted doing herself, and she said the dark-haired defendant said she personally stabbed the pregnant actress.

Rodent Hairs Found In Butternut Bars

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration says it found rodent hairs in samples from a batch of 433,000 Hollywood Butternut candy bars, most of which already has been sold.

It said consolidated Foods Corp. of Centralia, Ill., asked its vendors to return the candy on Sept. 16, but only an estimated 57,600 of the bars were unsold by that time.

Chain Collisions On Bridge Injure Two

A series of accidents on the Richardson Bay Bridge yesterday sent two persons to the hospital and damaged six vehicles, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Officers said the first accident occurred in the northbound lanes at 6:15 p.m. when a car driven by Michael D. Seeber, 32, of 17 Seadrift Landing, Tiburon, slowing for rush hour traffic, collided with another vehicle. He was treated at Marin General Hospital for multiple scrapes.

The other driver, Larry K. Holman, of 143 Jewell Street, Apt. 4, San Rafael, was uninjured.

Officers had just cleared away the wreckage at 7 p.m. when a car reportedly darted in front of an auto driven by Ralph E. McGlothlen, 64, of 21 Oakdale Avenue, Mill Valley, who said he had to stop suddenly.

The patrol said his car then was struck by one driven by Mattie R. Peterson, 64, of Sonoma, which then was struck by a car driven by William J. Ellwood, 58, of Oakhurst, Madera County, which was in turn struck by an auto driven by Robin L. Dunn, 19, of 332 Cardinal Court, Tamalpais Valley.

X-Ray Office Back In Business

The county Health Department's X-ray clinic at 920 Grand Avenue in San Rafael is back in business.

The clinic was closed last Friday when the lone laboratory technician came down with flu.

Ursula Abee, health education secretary, said the X-ray clinic hours are: Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday — 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and 2 to 4 p.m.; Thursday — 1 to 6:30 p.m.

IT'S FOR RENT

An Indian Island Looks To Past

OLYMPIA, Wash. (UPI) — the ad may someday read:—"For rent, one 1,500-acre wilderness island. Comes complete with Indians and a variety of wild animals. Perfect for large outdoor gatherings of all kinds."

While the Squaxin Indians have not yet taken to the hard sell, they are renting the small Puget Sound island which bears their name to non-Indians who want to see how the country looked more than 100 years ago.

The rental package includes use of the island and a dinner of salmon, shellfish with all the trimmings cooked Indian style.

Squaxin Island, a narrow slip of land about four miles north of here is ideally suited as an out-of-the-way retreat. About 200 deer live among the towering Douglas firs and clams and oysters abound off the beaches.

The Indians acquired the island in 1855 in trade for land that is now part of the city of Olympa. Once on the island, they built paths instead of roads and have successfully resisted all attempts to link their island with the mainland by bridge.

But the isolation had its bad side and the last of the Indians moved to the mainland about 15 years ago so their children could attend public schools.

While the island has since reverted to its natural state, there have been small concessions to civilization.

The state got a toe-hold on Squaxin with the purchase of five acres which has been turned into a marine park. The Indians also sold large chunks of their island to whites.

However, there were a few important strings attached to the land sold to non-Indians. First, the Squaxin tribe retained ownership of all beaches and tideland. The Indians also require a special identity card for their own people and will not let non-Indians cross their land.

"Some white land owners can reach their property only at very high tide," said a state official who has worked with the tribe.

In addition to other restrictions, the Indians have taken it upon themselves to patrol the waters around the island to make sure unwanted visitors do not reach shore.

However, the pressure has been are afraid and tribal officials are afraid soaring land values may soon prompt individual Indians to sell island holdings to real estate developers.

It is here that the State Planning and Community Affairs Department entered the picture. Director Richard Slavin's staff has started a land use study for the island and staff member Ron Clark said $5,000 in federal funds should be available soon.

Clark said there is a "very good chance" the study would indicate the island should be left as much as possible in its natural state.

One of their first customers was the Planning and Community Affairs Agency which used the island for an annual staff outing.

A coffee for Esther Anne Smart of Larkspur, nominee of the American Independent Party for state Senate, will be held at 8 p.m. today at the Larkspur home of Raymond C. Kesner, 113 Sycamore Street.

Art And Garden Center Elects New Officers

Hugh Paterson has been elected vice president of the Marin Art and Garden Center.

He fills the vacancy left by John Dowling, who resigned due to business pressures. Paterson, a retired school teacher, has long been active in the Garden Society of Marin, a center founding group.

At a general meeting Monday, prior to the board meeting, Fred Herschleb of the Marin Society of Artists was elected a director and Carl Riznik of the Ross Valley Players was reelected for another term.

District Proposed To Study Combined Sewage Agency

The Southern Marin Sanitary District Advisory Committee last night reaffirmed its stand that a special assessment district be formed to study the feasibility of a combined southern Marin sewage agency, but temporarily sidestepped the controversial issue of who should administer such a district.

The committee last night said it felt the district should be formed to finance the $190,000 study of Southern Marin sewage needs and went so far as to outline the goals of such a study.

The committee stated:

"The major goal is to evolve a long-term plan for the treatment, reclamation and disposal of waste water in the Southern Marin area . . . the resulting report should be in detailed form sufficient to serve as a regional master plan for the southern Marin region and adequate to serve as a firm basis for request for funding from state and federal sources and/or bonding."

If the committee's recommendation is approved by the Marin Municipal Water District and the assessment district is formed, taxpayers within the district will be assessed approximately 12-cents per $100 of assessed valuation for one year to pay for the study.

The water district board recently came within an eyelash of shelving the proposal when major rifts among advisory committee members over who should administer a combined sewage district appeared.

It had been proposed that the water district act as the administrator of the combined sewage district, once formed. However, one member of the advisory committee, Douglas De La Fontaine, a director of the Richardson Bay Sanitary District, objected, saying he felt an elected body should govern.

The issue surfaced briefly last night but was quickly submerged again after members said such a decision could be made once the feasibility study was underway.

The members did tangle briefly last night on who should conduct and administer the feasibility study.

Both De La Fontaine and James MacNichols, who represents the Homestead Valley Sanitary District, said they felt an outside consulting firm should be used. Member Paul Stecher, of the Alto-Sewer District, opposed, saying the study could be handled by the Marin Municipal Water District staff as much as possible.

The members closed the meeting by agreeing that a project administrator should be hired or appointed to head the study, but left unsettled who should do the hiring and under whose authority such an administrator would fall.

The committee will meet again next Thursday at the water district office to discuss the advisory committee's role during the study in addition to further discussion of how the administrator should be hired and to whom he would be responsible.

Anti-Douglas Drive Slows

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, who will be 72 Friday, can relax for awhile. Congressmen who were after his scalp a few weeks ago have abandoned their campaign to unseat him for this year.

Conservative-minded leaders of the Douglas opposition admit there is no longer any possibility in this session of Congress of forcing his impeachment. They have accused him of associating with gamblers, advocating revolution and writing for a pornographic magazine.

They say they are now looking toward the 92nd Congress that convenes in January to mount a new campaign.

Cannon Holds Hand For A Third Term

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Oddsmakers in this gambling state say Democratic Sen. Howard Cannon holds a good hand for winning a third term, but he may need an ace in the hole against a blue-chip opponent carrying a "law and order" banner.

William Raggio, 43, a district attorney at Reno for 12 years, heads a "dream ticket" Republican chiefs arranged with the help of a telephone call from Vice Present Spiro Agnew.

Raggio wanted to run for governor, an office being vacated when Republican Paul Laxalt retires at the end of this term. Lt. Gov Ed Fike wanted to run for governor, too. Agnew's call broke a deadlock at the state GOP convention. He said Raggio was the man to beat Cannon and promised plenty of administration help.

Agnew led a parade of high administration officials who came to Nevada to boost both Raggio and Fike, who have stressed the "law and order" theme and put their opponents in the "ultraliberal" class.

They face heavily Democratic voter registrations, but Nevadans tend to ignore their party affiliation. Laxalt lost to Cannon by 84 votes after a recount in 1964 despite 2-1 Democratic registrations. He beat the same odds in 1968 to lead a Republican landslide felt over the entire ballot.

In mid-October, pollsters said Raggio was gaining although still some distance behind Cannon, while Fike struggled to hold his lead against a tough-spoken, one-legged ex-marine named Mike O'Callaghan.

Raggio, while accusing Cannon of "coddling" campus demonstrators, spoke out against "radical elements and revolutionaries." He took issue with the University of Nevada administration for dropping charges against an instructor accused of using four-letter words in his class. And he drew strong support when he said a state supreme court ruling that a condemned killer should have a new penalty trial, seven years after his conviction, was the "most shocking and outrageous" in the court's history.

Cannon, 58, shrugs off as "carpetbaggers" the Nixon officials who came to the state. He stresses the value of his seniority to this thinly populated state. To Raggio's charge that he has blocked administration social and anti-crime programs, Cannon replies he votes with the administration when he thinks it is right and against it when he thinks it is wrong. He blames the administration for inflation and unemployment, which is higher in Nevada than the national average.

Fike, 45, a businessman in Las Vegas where there has been racial stife in the schools, advocates outlawing the Black Panthers. One of his television commercials shows jail doors clanging shut after scenes of student demonstrators.

O'Callaghan, 41, former state welfare director and federal government official, uses the "common man" campaign technique with considerable success. When Fike invited wealthy individuals to $1,000 per plate breakfasts and luncheons, O'Callaghan countered with a 99-cent barbecue in a park.

The outcome of the race is complicated by two other candidates. Daniel Hansen of Reno is the Independent American candidate and Charles Springer of Reno, a former Democratic official who broke with the party, is running as an Independent. Democrats late in the campaign were attempting to block his candidacy in court.

Nevada's only member of the House of Representatives, Democrat Walter Baring, seems assured on a 10th term against J. Robert Charles, a former hotel-casino security man.

Headlands March Set For Sunday

An all-day hike through the Marin Headlands, with options for less than a full day's travel, will be conducted by the San Francisco Bay chapter of the Sierra Club Sunday.

Many city and county officials have been invited, and the public is welcome, according to Norton Meyer of Sausalito, one of the hike leaders.

The walk will start at 8:45 a.m. from the fire station at the top of Spencer Avenue in Sausalito, just off Highway 101, where there is ample parking space.

Hikers not wishing to go the full 11 miles may drop out at 10 a.m. or after lunch. The complete hike will end at 4 p.m.

The purpose of the hike, Meyer said, "is to give people a chance to see firsthand the land that conservation groups are trying to establish as the Golden Gate national recreational area."

Hikers will cross Wolfback Ridge, follow Marincello Ridge, pass the Witter Ranch and stop for lunch at Pirate's Cove on the Pacific south of Muir Beh.

The afternoon's route will be through the Wheelwright Ranch and Mount Tamalpais State Park lands to the tourist club off Panoramic Highway near the Mountain Home Inn.

Hikers wishing to end the walk at 10 a.m. should arrange to be picked up at the gate to the Witter Ranch on Tennessee Valley road just beyond the Marincello entrance. Those wishing to stay only through lunch should be met at about 2:30 p.m. on Highway 1 at Muir Beach Road.

Transportation will be furnished from the tourist club to the Mill Valley bus depot or back to the fire station on Spencer Avenue, Meyer said.

The terrain is rough and fairly steep in spots, so good hiking boots are a must. Hikers staying later than 10 a.m. should carry lunch and drinking water.

Danes Supporting Common Market Try

COPENHAGEN UPI — Denmark has the backing of its people in its application, along with Britain, Ireland Norway, for membership in Europe's Common Market.

A survey shows 68 percent of the population approves the application, although 49 per cent think there should be a national referendum on the matter.

Hub Measures Approval Would Fund Budget Cuts

Its general fund tax rate scraping the legal limit, the city of San Anselmo has two measures on the Nov. 3 ballot in hopes of funding items shaved from the budget in August.

A third, if approved, would reduce councilmen's salaries by $25 a month.

The first two measures call for a 9-cent special tax for two years beginning with 1971-72 to provide $52,000 for a new fire engine and $52,000 for upgrading city streets.

Pushing for a new fire engine that would be financed by voter approval of Measure E, Fire Chief Francis A Sousa notes in his argument that the city has 22-year-old and 31-year-old engines.

HARD SERVICE

"Due to excess years of continous and hard service these engines are undependable," he said.

"To keep San Anselmo's high class-three rating which provides us with the lowest fire insurance rates in the county, we must have dependable fire fighting equipment," the chief said.

Judy Emis of the San Anselmo Civic Action Committee of the Irate Taxpayers of Marin — who wrote the opposing arguments to all three propositions — countered by blasting the city council.

"The San Anselmo councilmen in placing the fire engine proposition on the ballot are attempting unfairly to force the voters to make a decision that they, the councilmen, although being responsible for, were either disinclined or unwilling to make," she said.

TOWARD MASTER PLAN

She suggested voting down the measure and forcing the city to allocate $17,600 set aside — but not to be used this year — toward a master plan.

Mrs. Emis of 27 Olive Avenue urged a like fate for the street repair measure, Proposition F.

"There is presently in the budget money for embroidered uniforms for street employees," she claimed. "We feel this item and others such as landscaping should be cut to bring our tax rate down during this critical year."

She admitted the streets need repair, but blamed the backlog of necessary work on the present council, which, she charges, delayed street repair for "certain favored projects which have now been completed."

Mrs. Emis didn't describe those projects.

Arguing for Measure F, Public Works director Charles R. Leitzell pointed out that many city streets that should have surface maintenence at least every seven years have never had any maintenence.

"As a result, if something is not done within the immediate future, several streets will have to be completely rebuilt resulting in increased cost to the taxpayer.

He blamed the disrepair on inadequate funds caused by the legal ceiling on the general fund and the predominance of local residential streets on which gas tax funds can't be used.

Measures E and F together would mean an increase of $621 per year to the owner of a $30,000 home, but Measure G would mean a slight reduction in the overall tax rate of $2.35 per $100 assessed valuation.

While telling voters in the argument against Measure F that "necessary items should have first priority and frills cut out," Mrs. Emis, nevertheless, opposed a cut in councilmen's salaries.

The measure, if approved would reduce the maximum salary from $75 per month to $50 — a total cut of $1,500 a year.

Favoring the salary proposition, Councilman Warren R. Perry said, "This reduction will not affect the city government as San Anselmo has traditionally been served by men and women who give their time and efforts as a civic contribution rather than as a means of supplementing their income."

He pointed out that councilmen were not paid prior to 1967 although state law permits a salary of $150 per month.

Mrs. Emis countered: "Councilmen occasionally have to give up an afternoon to attend meetings and a working man may not be able to afford to lose a half-day's pay without some sort of compensation. If it is repugnant for an individual councilman to accept his pay, he may quietly turn it back to the city like others have done in the past."

However, she said she doesn't want the council to turn into a "rich men's club."

"To cut $25 per month from each councilman's salary is only a drop in the bucket in comparison with the $1,473,341 currently imposed on the taxpayers for San Anselmo city government," she said.

The measures were placed on the ballot because the city had a general fund rate of $1.70 per $100 assessed valuation — 18 cents above the legal limit before street repairs and the fire engine were cut.

Buildings Cause Many Bird Deaths

TORONTO (UPI) — Two Toronto skyscrapers have caused the deaths of about 4,500 errant birds which fly full speed into them.

A maintenance worker at the 56-story Toronto-Dominion Center said that usually about 10 birds a day are killed, but on foggy days there have been as many as 350 victims. Toronto is in one of the world's greatest bird migration runs.

Electrical Tool Changes Are Used

FRANKLIN, Pa. (UPI) — To speed production of its coal mining equipment, Joy Manfacturing Co. here is using electronically-controlled tool changers, systems that contain and operate some 100 different tools that do everything from drilling to cutting.

Each tool goes to work automatically when needed, following a program prepared in advance on a role of perforated tape. The company says it saves time and space by being able to perform so many steps at one place and not having to move work about to various stations.

Milk Man Has New Counterpart

NEW YORK (UPI — The old-fashioned milk man has a modern counterpart — the man who goes from house to house to house delivering bottled water. So reports the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute, saying that sales of pure, fresh bottled water are booming in this pollution — conscious era.

More than 700 companies are now supplying water in glass bottles. While some deliver it to the consumer's doorstep, most sell through supermarkets. Large amounts also are used in factory and office water coolers.

Marin Transit Firm Drops Bid With PUC

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Marin Transit Systems' application to expand and service in Marin County has been dropped by the California Public Utilities Commission in light of its pending lease for similar service through the Golden Gate Bridge District.

The Marin City-based company asked to withdraw its application, and the PUC staff agreed to the withdrawal as "in the interest of saving paperwork."

The company is about to operate an hourly service linking Novato and Kentfield, but the operation will not be subject to PUC jurisdiction because the lease is with a public entity. Public entities are not subject to the PUC's jurisdiction.

Jesse Hebert, vice president of the company, told the Independent-Journal that additional equipmeat for the North Marin service will be leased or purchased if needed.

16 Or Younger

The Junior 49er Minor Club, meeting today at 7 p.m. at the Mill Valley Community Recreation Center, is open to those 16 yearss old or younger, not 16 or older as reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

Injunction In Teacher Strike

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Claiming he was preventing "irreparable harm" to 290,000 school children, a judge has issued an injunction against a threatened teachers strike.

Judge Theodore L. Reimel Wednesday granted an injunction sought by the Home and School Council against the Philadelphia Federation of Teachers.

The Union, representing 11,500 public school teachers, had threatened to strike Friday. A 30-day cooling off period arranged by Gov. Raymond P. Shafer ended Wednesday, with no contract agreement.

Representatives of the teacher's union and the city Board of Education went to Harrisburg today to report to the governor on the continuing negotiations.

Union attorney Leonard M. Sagot said he would appeal the injunction order.

Missing Jewelry Value: $18,000

The mysterious disappearance of jewels valued at $18,000 from a Ross home was reported by Ross police yesterday.

Police said the jewels were discovered missing from a locked cabinet in the residence of James A. Lill of Lagunitas Road when the Lills returned from a trip to Europe Sunday.

Friends of the Lills were staying in the home while the couple was away between Sept. 13 and Sunday, police said, adding that an investigation was continuing.

Guitarist To Play Sunday At Church

Classicial guitarist Phillip de Fremery of San Anselmo will present a concert Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael.

A native of Marin, de Fremery, 24, is a graduate of the San Francisco Conservatory of Music and is presently artist in residence at the San Francisco Theological Seminary.

Harrison To Be Installed Saturday

Michael J. Harrison will be installed as master councilor of the Novato chapter, Order of De Molay at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Druids Hall, Novato.

Allen Benelli will be installed as senior councilor and Brian Beverly as junior councilor.

Thena Maynard will be installed as the chapter sweetheart.

Harrison, 18, is a freshman at Santa Rosa Junior College, having graduated from San Marin High School last June. In high school he participated in cross-country running and played in the school band. Last spring he was awarded a special De Molay achievement award. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton E. Harrison of 1116 Olive Avenue, Novato.

Tamalpais School Officials On Tour

Tamalpais High School Trustee Bette Wallace and administrator Robert B. Falge are participating in a week-long tour of city school districts conducting education experiments in community action and technical and vocational training.

The two left Sunday and will visit districts in Dallas, Detroit, Minneapolis- St. Paul and Denver.

Law Against Noise Held Long Overdue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There ought to be a law—a law so simple that even lawyers and judges could make it work—against noise made by anybody that disturbs anyone else.

"It should," says Theodore Berland, "be an enforceable law which would be perfectly constitutional, would hold up in court, and which would be effective on a person-to-person level.

"It should be a law that allows you to take to court the person at the next desk who always shouts over the phone so loudly that you can't conduct your own phone conversation, or

"The next door neighbor who constantly makes annoying noise, or

"The operator of a jet which whines over your home every night at 1:30 a.m., or

"The hot rod driver who screeches his tires as his exhaust resonators roar down the street, obviously faster than safety allows . . ."

"How sweet," continues Berland, "it would be if we could instantly arrest noisemakers on the spot and take them to a magistrate who would ask them to defend themselves."

Nevertheless, something surely has to be done about the increasing din which threatens to turn us into "a shouting civilization that is hard-of-hearing, jumpy and nervous, and suffering from premature heart disease."

Berland, a Chicago science writer, has just published a book, "The Fight For Quiet," which tells in well-reached detail what noise is doing to us.

Noise is unwanted sound. It may be anything from the whine of a vacuum sweeper to rock music ("sonic mayhem") or the sonic boom ("that most devilish of all of aviation's noises").

Berland documents evidence that noise, even the sort of noise to which we think we have become adjusted, not only hurts hearing but also inflicts physiological and emotional damage. It can be a threat to life, as when it drowns out a shouted warning of danger.

"Noise annoys us; frightens us; makes our working conditions dangerous; imposes on our secret dreams at night; and interferes with our speech, our appreciation of music, our viewing of television at home, our whisperings in what we take for granted to be the privacy of our homes.

"All of these invasions and violations of our persons have effects on our efficiency and on our sanity."

Those who could afford it in times past took individual action against noise. The poetess Amy Lowell when she stayed in a hotel took the rooms above to insure against invasions by other people's noise. So did Joseph Pulitzer, the owner of newspapers.

The rest of us have to use other means. Berland's message to everyone who suffers from the effects of unnecessary noise is "make yourself be heard."

Assault the bureaucracy. Make it listen to the desire of the people for the "right" to quiet. Train your children to believe that "noisiness is the rudest behavior." Join anti-noise groups.

Political campaigns have been waged on many themes. Maybe it's time for a campaign pledge of "peace and quiet."

"Only by fighting," says Berland, "can we win the struggle for quiet. And we will win, or we will all drown in the rising area of noise . . ."

There are an estimated 83 million television sets in the United States.

Professor Would Legalize Grass

LOS ANGELES (UPI) Stanford law professor John K plan said Wednesday that tl only way to control the use marijuana was to make it lega tax it heavily, restrict sale those above 18, and supervis sellers.

Kaplan, 41, told a Town Hal audience that marijuana and alcohol should be treated essentially the same.

"The prohibition of alcohol didn't work and did more harm than good," he said. "The same will happen with marijuana. You have to have some kind of licensing system."

He said that marijuana has its dangers "but so does aspirin and cold tablets. Aspirin kills several hundred people a year in the United States."

Blacks Boycott Church Session

HOUSTON (UPI) — A controversial funding program sponsored by the Episcopal Church provoked a walkout Wednesday by a black caucus at the church's 63rd General Convention underway here.

The boycott move was ignored by Dr. John Morsell, an Episcopal layman from New York, who was substituting as a panel speaker for Roy Wilkins head of the NAACP.

The presentation was scheduled to air various views on the General Convention Special Program GCSP, a controversial funding program that has granted nearly $5 million to minority and powerless organizations in the past three years.

THE COMFORT and elegance of an older living room is available aboard the 96 foot power yacht "Principal" tied up in Sausalito, but being readied for the public tour in San Francisco Sunday. Visible at rear is the large fantail area which seats large groups of cruise guests.

(I-J photos by Alfred Arn)

IT LOOKS like a kitchen but it's the galley aboard the "Principia" which features a double brass sink with one sink set in deep, a garbage disposal and other electrical appliances familiar at home. The yacht also is fitted out with crystal chandelier fixtures in the deck salon, a carpeted engine room and a desalinization plant. Here tour committee members Mmes. James P. Costello, Tracey Van Voorhees and J. Stewart Lyons check the galley's equipment.

Yachting's Finest On Tour

With most of Marin bounded by sailing waters and a tremendous interest in yachting, Marinites will have a chance to see how 15 of the bay's famous yachts are fitted out and furnished when the Ross Valley Nursery School parents present a yacht tour Sunday on "millionaire row" at the St. Francis Yacht Club in San Francisco.

From 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. sneaker-clad tour-goers can fantasize about how it feels to command a luxurious power craft or sleek racing yawl, with proceeds from the day going to the non-profit parent-run nursery school located on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Kentfield.

On the tour will be such racing yachts as "Athene," owned by James Wilhite and familiar to Marin yachtsmen; the "Andale," and the "Resolute," owned by Dr. W. R. Westerhoff of Larkspur.

Also open on tour will be the 78 foot brigantine "Rendezvous" and the historical "Yankee" built in 1906 and owned by Bob Ford of Ross; another Ford-owned vessel, the motorsailer "Adios II"; the fiberglass "Yellow Bird;" the "Arequipa"; "Rowena," "Cedallion" owned by Tracy Van Voorhees of Ross; the famous "Santana" which is readying to make a world cruise in June; Tom Short's "Tasco III;" "Nike," and the 96 foot luxury yacht "Principia" of Sausalito, as well as the classic "Electra" of Sausalito.

Yachting clothes will be shown by the parents' cooperative of the nursery school during the tour, which is headed by Mrs. J. Steward Lyons of Ross. Models and hostesses will be Mmes. Blaine Boyden, Richard Erickson, Tracy Van Voorhees, James Hadfield and Stewart Menist.

Mmes. Lyons and Robert Bos are ticket chairmen, and tickets will be available at the yacht harbor during the tour. Tour guests must wear tennis shoes, Mrs. Lyons advises.

Protect Trick-Or-Treat Children

BOSTON (UPI)—The National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) yesterday urged parents to give maximum protection to children in preparing the younger set for Halloween trick-or-treating.

The NFPA issued a series of safety tips parents should keep in mind when planning costumes and decorations for children and their parties.

Among them:

—Stay away from outfits with yards and yards of material in baggy sleeves and billowing skirts. Costumes should also be short enough so children won't trip on them and light enough to make them clearly visible to motorists.

—Children should never carry a pumpkin lighted by a wax candle. Don't set a candle-lighted pumpkin on a doorstep where it could be brushed by children's costumes and don't use them indoors where they could start a fire.

The NFPA also reminded parents masks shouldn't interfere with vision and recommended a "natural" mask of cosmetic make-up or charcoal applied to the skin.

More In 20s

In the next five years, the population of the 20 to 29-age group will increase by 8.5 million. The over 55-age group will add 4.5 million.

Marin Women

Mrs. Unruh Enjoys The Campaign Trail

By JOAN LISETOR

"People are like adrenalin to me," says Virginia Unruh. "I never get tired when I am around people; it's only when they leave that I get weary."

On the campaign trail for her husband, Democratic candidate for governor of California, she is on the go about 12 hours every day. She was in Mill Valley yesterday to attend a luncheon in her honor, hosted by the Marin County Democratic Women's Division.

This is the first of her husband's political campaigns in which Mrs. Unruh has taken an active part. In the past her political efforts have been concentrated on headquarter operations, fund raising and local Democratic activities.

"What an opportunity campaigning is to see California and meet the people," she says. "It is so much fun that everybody else should do it — meet each other without an excuse."

Born in Lincoln, Neb., the former Virginia June Lemon lived on a farm until she was 8 years old, when the family moved to California. She was reared in her husband's assembly district in Southern California.

The Unruhs, who met in Corpus Christi, Tex., where he was in Naval Air Corps training with Virginia's brother, will celebrate their 27th wedding anniversary on Nov. 2, the day before the California election. They have five children, Bruce, 23; Bradley, 21; Robert, 19; Randall, 18; and Linda Lu, 14.

Mrs. Unruh expressed her views at a press conference held prior to the luncheon.

WOMEN'S LIBERATION — She does not agree with everything the movement stands for, but she says some things are pretty good, especially the movement's stand on child care centers. The centers would help welfare mothers who could leave their children while they learned skills, then get into the work force and on the tax rolls. Getting them off welfare is important to the family's dignity and to raise the level of it's mental health.

DRUG PROBLEMS — We must treat the cause of the problem, which is often peer pressure. The problem is everywhere but mostly in upper middle income and depressed areas. Children don't want to be different than their classmates, and many parents would be surprised that their children have been pressured into using marijuana. Severe punishment is not the answer.

LEGALIZING MARIJUANA — Legalizing it wouldn't take the pressure off anymore than legalizing alcohol did. Alcohol is a health hazard, but we gloss over it because it is legal.

PRESSURES OF LIFE — We have to slow down and emphasize creativity. Life is too fast for many young persons to cope with and so they run away to drugs.

POLITICAL PARTICIPATION — Every American has the responsibility to make a contribution to politics. Everyone should become involved, but should inform himself first. It is a cop-out to say, "There isn't anything I can do about government," because letters to legislators are effective because politicians feel that each letter repersents five or 10 votes.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Younger Kids Get The Best Deal Because Parents Are Experienced

DEAR HELEN:

These girls who feel slighted because they're the third or fourth in the family, and don't get as many snapshots taken, or maybe have to wear hand-me-downs. I think that in many cases they're emphasizing little things and overlooking the greater benefits of being youngest.

I have two older sisters and one older brother. I know that I've gotten more privileges than they ever did because my parents sort of practiced on them and were relaxed when I came along. I got to date sooner, stay out later, and I was much more understood than they were.

Maybe the family album has more pictures of the first born, and maybe she got a few more wedding presents. She might even still be grandma's favorite, but she had to break ground for the others — and obey a lot more kind of stupid experimental rules.

DEAR HELEN:

I don't think you sympathized sufficiently with "Lonely and Left Out" whose parents didn't pay as much attention to her as they did to the older sisters and brothers when they were her age. You even admitted that you yourself were guilty of taking gobs of pictures of your oldest child, while the youngest only had a few in the album.

Only selfish, cruel and insensitive parents treat their children unjustly, and there is no excuse for it. It makes me boiling mad when I hear of parents who favor one child over another. — MRS. M. S.

DEAR MRS. S.:

My educated guess is that you either haven't started your family or it numbers no more than two children (which is plenty these days, of course.)

Our youngest is quite relieved that we only recorded her best moments, while our oldest will go down in history as the unclothed kid with spinach on his chin (plus being the subject of a hundred other embarrassing photographs, always dragged out at the wrong times!) — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I try to think I'm not left out, but Helen, for the past three years I haven't even received a card or a happy birthday wish, while my sister gets nice presents and sometimes even a party. She's two years older.

Last year for Christmas she got a brand new bike with a shift, and I got the old one she didn't want any more. Nothing else.

In lots of other ways I get the feeling I'm not wanted, and I don't know why because I don't cause a lot of trouble or fight or anything. What's wrong? — UNNOTICED

DEAR UNNOTICED:

Your parents are wrong, that's what. Perhaps they feel, because you are younger, you don't need equal recognition. By the time they wake up, they may have lost their second child.

Meanwhile, try not to brood about seeming favoritism. If you tell your folks how hurt you are, they may change before it's too late. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

The Midi Skirt Will Stay Through Spring Collections

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Anyone who thought the onslaught of the midiskirt was just a wintertime thing is in for a rude awakening. It goes right into spring, endorsed by some of the most influential designers in the nation's garment center.

Donald Brooks, an early exponent of the midi, continues it. Mollie Parnis, who wavered a bit in her last year's fall collection has come over to the longer length. So have Pierre Cardin in his American collection and Christian Dior-New York, who were among the designers opening their spring collections for the nation's store buyers and some press to see.

"IT IS OUR belief that the midi is the right way for ladies to look," Brooks had told UPI. "It's not a matter of forcing anyone to wear a certain look, just allowing her to look different than she did in other years. She can adapt it to her figure, enjoy it, or loathe it."

Yesterday's opening schedule was one of the heaviest days in this multi-billion dollar industry, with showrooms packed as buyers looked first and then made dates for returns to order.

And what were the women buyers wearing? Either the midi, or the Great Alternative, the pantsuit.

The buyer shows will continue through the first full week of November.

Coverup was the dominant mood with falling skirts, throughout the daytime collections. But some of the designers got right carried away with bareness for evening. Brocks, for one. The designer who's "dressed" several Broadway shows undressed his models through the middle for evening. Numbers of low-riding "hipster" pants for at-home or somebody else's home parties were topped with bolero-length (ending just under the bosom) blouses with full, long sleeves. Usually, these were in bright orange tones, solid or patterned.

BUT THE slinkiest and barest of all was his "bathing suit dress," nothing but a skimpy bra top with hipster pants, all in black crepe. Other Brooks pajamas for lounge or party were in bright oranges, slit all the way up the front to upper thigh.

EVERY DESIGNER showing offers a woman the alternative to the midi—the pants costume. Either it's coat and trousers coordinated or jacket and trousers. Brooks showed some of these with coats or jackets ruffled at collar, down the front and around the hemline.

Brooks' clothes retail from $200 to $1,000.

Designer Mollie Parnis wishes everyone would forget the hemline issue for a while. Her spring collection, covered by UPI's Carolyn A. Bowers, was a show of fabrics more than lengths.

"Ever since I've been in the business have I had so much difficulty obtaining fabric," Miss Parnis said. She didn't say why. All of her materials were imports, the lightweight wools, crepes and chiffons.

She kept the style of dresses simple and unconstructed looking. "When we could get shape and keep the dress or tunic without a waistline, we did," she explained.

Most pants were featured with shirt-styled tunic tops, long enough to be worn alone as a below knee dress.

Her prices ranged from approximately $100 to $300, about the same as last year, a spokesman said.

ONE FIRM believing that hemlines are a "seasonal affair" showed spring skirt lengths shorter than the ones featured for fall, which were mid-calf. Teal Traina said that "there is no reason why lengths can't be longer in fall and come up a little in the warmer weather." So saying, his models paraded daytime dresses hitting just below the knee or a few mid-knee.

The firm's prices remained the same as last season, from $125 to $300 retail. "This house very strongly believes in maintaining prices," a spokesman said. "It's not easy today ... but we find there is a big resistance at the retail level when you go too high."

Christian Dior-New York, with a new designer on the scene, showed maxi length coats, dresses and skirts. But there was a peek-a-boo touch to many, with slits in the front, back or sides so that when the models swirled the skirt petals flared out, showing thigh-high flashes of leg.

"THE MINI won't come back for a long while," the Dior designer, Francesco DeLeo, a graduate of New York's Fashion Institute of Technology, told UPI's Patricia McCormack. "Women are going to be very feminine again and that includes (wearing) hats and gloves."

The Cardin collection included what has become the midi "uniform"—ribbed turtleneck, long-sleeved sweater and long skirt with wide patent or vinyl belt.

Prices in the Dior collection ranged from approximately $275 to $1,150 retail. Cardin's started at over $100 and went to over $1,000.

Arthur Smiths Of San Anselmo Honored At A Surprise Dinner

By MOLLY MARIN

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith, longtme San Anselmo residents, were honored Oct. 3 at a surprise dinner party honoring their 25th wedding anniversary.

The party at Lin Fa Gardens restaurant in Terra Linda was hosted by the couple's children and their wives and husband, Messrs. and Mmes. Marcel Campredon of South San Francisco and Louis Campredon and George Carli of Terra Linda.

Married Oct. 7, 1945, at St. Anselm's Church in San Anselmo, Art and Alma had both been widowed for many years. For many years they owned and operated Art Smith's Variety Store in San Anselmo, retiring three years ago.

Among the many friends and relatives at the party were Henrietta Von Staden, Gladys Lowney and Louise Maschio, all of San Anselmo.

The Smiths' grandchildren are Gary Campredon and Matt, Mark, Mike and Christine Carli of Terra Linda and Mrs. Ron McGee and Dennis and Kim Campredon of South San Francisco.

THE TWO high school-age daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. Trow Cutter of Mill Valley, Kitsy and Karen Cutter, are spending a semester studying in Switzerland with the Foreign Study League. The two toured Europe for six weeks this summer prior to beginning their studies. Locally Kitsy is a senior at Sacred Heart High School in Menlo Park and Karen is a junior at Marin Catholic High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Cutter recently returned from a month's trip along the Spanish coast and to Majorca, with a stop-off to visit the girls. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Tomblane of Mill Valley near Seville, where Mr. Tombulane is working as an engineer on a mining project.

IMMEDIATE NEIGHBORS on Bay View Avenue were invited to tea yesterday at the Hal Kipps' home to meet Mrs. Robert Bernheim, who has just moved to Belvedere, although she has taught second grade for the past seven years at Belvedere School. Susan and Robert Bernheim were married on Aug. 2 at a small family ceremony in San Francisco.

MR. AND MRS. Charles A. Doll of Mill Valley are the grandparents of a son born on Sept. 24 to their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford E. Pehl Jr. in Pasadena, Tex. Mrs. Doll has just returned from a visit there.

Fox And Hounds' Car Rally Set On Sunday For Clipped Wings

Members of Clipped Wings and their husbands will dine at a restaurant Sunday if they can find it from the directions and clues given to them at the start of a "Fox And Hounds" car rally and race to the restaurant.

The husband and wife teams will meet at the Marin French Cheese Factory, near Petaluma at 2 p.m. for a tour of the factory and wine tasting. They will then be handed a list of directions and a sealed envelope with the name of the restaurant to be opened only if the couple gets hopelessly lost.

Back country roads will be marked with washable paint clues and prizes will be awarded for the couple with the lowest mileage and the couple with the most correct clue answers.

MAJOR AUMANN

CAMBODIA: "A Soldier's Story," told by Major Rome V. Aumann is featured program on national defense for the Monday meeting of the El Marinero Chapter, Daughter of the American Revolution at the Greenbrae home of Mrs. Richard E. Mittelstaedt.

Major Aumann will talk about the war in Vietnam and pacification efforts there. Presently assigned to the Sixth Army, Presidio of San Francisco, he served in Vietnam as director of data processing at the 34th General Support Group at Tan Son Hunt Airfield near Saigon.

THE NATIONAL Organization for Women (NOW) Marin Chapter has announced that it has a new pamphlet available on NOW's purposes and national goals, as well as its local action priorities. The Marin Chapter is holding meetings twice a month, with emphasis on obtaining equal employment and business opportunities for all women, changing education institutions to offer courses on the study of women that expose historical biases against women, ending sex discrimination in textbooks, counseling, and on school faculties, and seeking quality child care facilities in Marin.

The chapter also will assist women in filing complaints of sex discrimination in employment. The pamphlet is available from NOW, P.O. Box 2924, San Rafael.

BYRON LEYDECKER, President of Redwood Bank, will address members of Central Marin's League of Women Voters at a luncheon on Monday at 12:30 p.m. at the Christ Presbyterian Church in Terra Linda.

Leydecker, a member of the League's Men's Advisory Committee, will officially open the League's annual finance drive by discussing contributions made to the community and to Marin County by the league.

THE PRESIDENTS Assembly of Marin will hold its autumn meeting on Monday at the Sausalito home of Mrs. Sally Stapp. An 11 a.m. board meeting will be followed by a luncheon.

THE PETALUMA Whirlers will host a hoedown for all square dancers at the Kenilworth Recreation Center from 8:30 p.m. to midnight Saturday. Guest caller will be Don Black of Daly City.

GRADUATES OF both the Santa Rosa Junior College School of Nursing and the vocational nursing program have special events planned to coincide with the 26th annual homecoming at the college Saturday.

Alumni of the School of Nursing will meet from noon to 1 p.m. in the faculty lounge of the Doyle Student Center. Following a business meeting there will be a 2:15 p.m. social hour.

Also at 1 p.m. will be a tea for persons who were in the vocational nursing program. Lasting until 3 p.m., the event will be held in Room 224 of Baker Hall.

GEORGE HURLEY, a teacher at Grant School, Petaluma, who recently returned from one year in Canada, will speak at the school's Parent-Teacher Association meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the kindergarten room.

Hurley was an exchange teacher in Ottowa last year and will make a slide presentation on his experiences. Hurley's former students and their parents may also attend.

THE NOVATO Stump Jumpers Square Dance Club will hold its "Third Saturday" dance at 8:30 p.m. Saturday at the San Jose Junior High School in Novato.

Guest caller will be Johnny Barbour. Hosts will be Messrs. and Mmes. Bernie Heare and Gary Condry.

October's Plentiful Food Buys

WASHINGTON (UPI) — USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service reports that food shoppers will find a fair supply of meats, fruits, and vegetables to choose from this weekend.

Best supplies of red meat will include beef roasts and steaks, and ground beef. Broiler-fryers will be in best supply at poultry counters.

Fruits in best supply will include apples, bananas, and dried prunes. Frozen concentrated orange juice also will be in good supply.

The Department of the Interior reports canned salmon, fish sticks and portions, and canned tuna in excellent supply.

Foods on USDA's plentiful foods list for October are fresh apples, applesauce, apple juice, pork, broiler-fryers, dry beans, canned peaches, canned salmon, onions, eggs, potatoes, and dried prunes.

Fruits and vegetables in best supply include apples, bananas, grapes, pears, cabbage, onions, potatoes, and tomatoes.

Marion Massara To Become Bride

Mr. and Mrs. Marco W. Massara of San Anselmo, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Marion, to Philip Bruccoleri, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bart Bruccoleri of Novato.

Marion is the sister of William Massara and the granddaughter of Mrs. Catherine Massara of San Anselmo. A graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School, she attended College of Marin and is employed by Fox and Carskadon, Inc., Realtors in San Rafael.

Philip was graduated from San Rafael High School and San Joaquin Delta College in Stockton. He is employed by the California State Department of Corrections at San Quentin. Christine Bruccoleri is his sister.

Ballot Measures B And C: The Painless Money Raisers

If an award is ever offered for the taxing agency that devises a method for raising the most money with the least pain to the rate-payers, Marin Community College District should get it.

Measures B and C, which the college district has put on the Nov. 3 ballot, combine a major money-raising program with a temporary tax cut.

They would finance a whole new college on the property the district has purchased in Novato and provide funds to staff and operate it — still with a tax rate which would (at least for the foreseeable future) not rise much beyond this year's.

MEASURE B would replace the district's present 35-cent operating tax and 35-cent special building tax with a 60-cent operating levy.

Measure C would finance construction of the second campus to handle 2,200 students, plus completion of facilities at the Kentfield campus, through a $16,920,000 bond issue.

Bond retirement and operating tax increase together would initially total less than the district's taxpayers have to pay this year.

The formula is complicated, but it appears to be as nearly fool-proof as any formula can be when based on projections of what will happen in the future.

PROJECTIONS of College of Marin enrollment up to now have proved highly unreliable. The 35-cent special building tax was predicated on enrollment growth less than half what has actually occurred.

While the district's assessed valuation has doubled in the last decade, the college's enrollment has quadrupled.

But the rapid increase has leveled off. This fall's enrollment is virtually identical with that of last spring. So the new projections may not be so far off.

The college district is committed to the second campus. The 35-cent special tax was voted in 1962 to finance it along with additions at the Kentfield campus. That it failed to do so was due to a combination of rapid monetary inflation and even more rapid enrollment growth.

FOR THE COLLEGE district to be able to make good its Novato commitment with a combination tax-and-bond package as painless as that it now offers is pleasantly surprising.

The tax measure requires only a simple majority. The bond issue requires two-thirds — despite a recent contrary ruling by the California Supreme Court.

Both must pass to make the program work. Both deserve overwhelming support from residents of Marin Community College District.

We do not hesitate to recommend "yes" on Measures B and C.

"For once I can vote 'yes' on a school bond without raising my taxes!"

AFFAIRS OF STATE

By JACK COOPER

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — When the State Department of Water Resources awarded a $27 million contract to build the Perris Dam at the southern end of the State Water Project, it included work on recreational facilities around the future 100,000 acre-foot reservoir.

This seems like a sensible way of operating, and director William R. Gianelli says that while it increases the cost of the contract, it will mean savings on the recreational facilities over the long haul.

YOU MIGHT BE surprised to learn, however, how long and fruitlessly some of our legislators, including Sen. John F. McCarthy of San Rafael, have argued with various state agencies that this is the way to operate.

The alternative, which appeals to those who confuse the size of the cash outlay with true economy, is to let the construction contract at the lowest figure possible and, sometime after completion, advertise for bids on the subsidiary facilities.

Meanwhile the cost index will have gone up, a new contractor will have to mobilize equipment and get it to the construction contract at the lowest figure possible and, sometime after completion, advertise for bids on the subsidiary facilities.

Meanwhile the cost index will have gone up, a new contractor will have to mobilize equipment and get it to the scene, and the original apparent saving will have vanished to be replaced by extra expense.

There is a third choice, which applies to susidiary facilities which are expected to be financed by local agencies. That is that the subsidiary facilities, usually for recreation or conservation, will simply not get built.

What would have been a moderate extra expenditure when the prime original contractor was on the scene with all his forces has now become a new and expensive item that the local agency simply cannot afford.

A LOT of Californians do not know that one of the reason's for the plenitude of attactive and useful parks along Oregon's highways is that the highway contractor, while he was on the scene with his equipment, was given the additional job of doing the heavy work in preparation for the park.

As a result, Oregon has one of the lowest unit costs for parks of any state.

It would be a wrench to California conservationists to learn that this park construction, and in fact the whole park activity in Oregon, comes under the jurisdiction of the Oregon Highway Commission.

This has worked well in Oregon because it has avoided the California situation of having two agencies with two philosophies at each other's throats, and it has resulted in utility having equal weight with beauty in that state's parks and beaches.

HERE IN CALIFORNIA we stumble over the question whether a park is to be used and enjoyed or merely contemplated with reverence.

Humboldt County is the location of many of California's more contemplative parks and untouchable beaches.

Humboldt County folks, however, have a great tendency to head for Oregon when they want to take the family to enjoy a camping trip in the forest or on the beach.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Fringe Benefits Should Be Added

The Independent-Journal has recently published a list of salaries of county and district employees. Your paper stated that it would continue to do so for public information.

I appreciate this effort to keep the public informed.

I personally object to the fact that fringe benefits for these positions are not listed. Pension funds and both health and dental benefits can amount to a substantial amount of money, especially in the tax dollar saved, included in the total salary received. Your published salary schedule definitely does not reflect these figures.

May I ask you to revise these figures and publish the corrected schedules?

MRS. A. H. BOYER
Bolinas

(The fringe benefits provided various classes of public employees are so complicated that the I-J despaired of being able to publish a correct list showing them. — Editor)

Series Of Questions On Laws, Justice

Instead of increasing security measures, would listening to the search for justice and democracy be a more effective way to peace?

It seems that the "innocent until proven guilty" bit of democracy is not always respected.

We hear of the "quota" that policemen are supposed to meet.

The courts are so overscheduled and backlogged that it is a disgrace to experience the time wasted and the mental anguish of waiting to be heard, and the continuance of cases.

How many of our laws are the result of money power and /or lobby power, not justice and freedom? If our laws are really for the safety of the citizn, let's enforce the necessary ones and abolish those that are really over-legality measures.

How can we urge our youngsters to respect authority when many times they (our young) are not shown respect?

How can we teach our youngsters honesty when they hear how persons can flash a badge or ID and be released from a citation for speeding, etc.?

Let's really get down to facts and figures and do something about living freedom — freedom for everyone.

People will be law-abiding if laws are abidable. Let's work at making them so.

Marin Deputies' Conditions Easier?

An open letter to Supervisor John McInnis:

In a recent Marin County Board of Supervisors meeting, the Marin County Deputy Sheriffs Association confronted you and your colleagues with their salary requests. In an attempt to justify their demands, they cited, as one of their reasons, the salaries of the other eight Bay Area counties. At this time you related to the deputies association that the conditions in Marin County are not the same as the other counties and did not warrant the equal salary requested.

Apparently, Mr. McInnis, you are oblivious to incidents of crime, which have occurred in your own office building — let alone the rest of the county. In the last two months there has been a shoot-out in which a superior court judge was killed, a condition which is unlike the other Bay Area counties or anywhere in the United States for that matter, and a bomb explosion which occurred within 100 yards of six deputies.

As a result of those two incidents alone, the deputies are working 12-hour shifts at regular pay to protect you and the other Marin County citizens who use the Civic Center.

In closing, I request you reconsider the deputies' salary demands and recognize the dangerous job they perform.

Kettenhofen Land Sale Questioned

Last week the Sacramento Bee carried a lead story about the purchase of a huge tract of land at Lake Tahoe for a new housing development by the Perini Corp. More of the natural beauty of the lake will go the way of all commerce in the name of progress!

Perini purchased this land for $7 million from one Ernest Kettenhoffen. Why were the Marin County newspapers so strangely silent about this major land transaction? Is this not the same Ernest Kettenhoffen who is running for public office that regulates taxes and assesses valuation on land? Is this another one of those wheeler-dealer land deals?

WILLIS TAYLOR
San Rafael

(Ernest N. Kettenhofen's sale of 700 acres to Perini Corp. was reported under a two-column headline in the Independent-Journal of Jan. 6, 1969. Kettenhofen has long been a major land holder in the Lake Tahoe area, as has been mentioned many times in the I-J. Far from there being any secrecy about these investments, Kettenhofen's own campaign literautre identifies him as "owner-operator of recreational property at Lake Tahoe." — Editor.)

Kudos To Board For Bus Support

Congratulations to the Marin County Transit Directors for approving a contract with Marin Transit Systems to provide a badly needed bus system link for Northern and Central Marin.

Hopefully the proposed public service will also meet with the approval of the Golden Gate Bridge District and the PUC, providing a vital need to those Marin residents without transportation and inducing those with automobiles to leave them at home.

Cold War Renewal Threatens Chances For Peaceful Coexistence

WASHINGTON — The cold war warriors are beginning to beat the drums. They foresee an end to negotiating for coexistence with the Soviet Union and the renewal of the old war of tensions and angry rhetoric. This has gone so far already, it is suggested, that the strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) may not be resumed at Helsinki next month as had been agreed when the session at Vienna ended.

These views are held passionately by men who reject any and all efforts of the two superpowers to arrive at a standoff. "You can't trust the Russians and now it's being proved once again." This is their theme repeated in many variations.

So fast is the reversal taking place from what had seemed six months or even three months ago to be a movement toward a limited understanding, at least on nuclear arms limitation, that even those normally rated hard liners are disturbed.

THE INCIDENT of the reported Russian nuclear submarine base under construction at Cienfuegos in Cuba is a convincing illustration of the trend. Word of the base was surfaced by the Pentagon, although two months earlier the House Foreign Affairs Committee had heard witnesses discuss the submarine potential in the Caribbean and the possible construction of a base. The White House came through with a loud warning linking Cienfuegos to the Cuban missile crisis of 1962.

Sen. Frank Church, chairman of a foreign affairs subcommittee on Latin America, called witnesses from the Pentagon's Defense Intelligence Agency to try to get the facts. They could say only that apparently barracks were being built at Cienfuegos and several barges had been brought into the harbor. There was no evidence of any start on submarine pens or the kind of construction essential to a nuclear submarine base.

Russian naval vessels in considerable numbers have operated in recent years in the Caribbean. Investigating the rate of Russian submarine construction, the joint atomic energy committee had this to say: "We know they (nuclear subs) are patrolling in areas off the coast of the United States, presumably each with a battery of 16 missiles targeted on our cities."

ALTHOUGH it was never reported, the Russians at the SALT talks in Vienna raised the question of the closeness to the respective borders of the two superpowers of their offensive nuclear missiles. They were saying, in effect, that U.S. missiles are poised close to Russian borders, and also that American aircraft carriers with planes with a 600-mile range are off Russian territorial waters.

Was not proximity of the forces of annihilation a subject for negotiation? Is it not possible that the Caribbean is tit-for-tat in America's positioning of nuclear striking power? Whatever reasonable hope there may be in such an approach, the shrill cries of the cold war warriors are likely to drown it.

IN THE RAPID trend toward a renewed cold war, the nonaggression treaty between Bonn and Moscow may be a casualty, and with it Chancellor Willy Brandt's Social Democratic-Free coalition government. Coming here in an effort to sound opinion, Horst Ehmke, one of Brandt's ablest lieutenants, was disturbed to find both in and out of government strong currents of opinion opposed to the treaty. This opposition may diminish if the Big Four ambassadors meeting in Berlin reach a solution on the status of that city. But the American position is now to go slow on the Berlin negotiation and the Germans fear that prolonged delay may in itself defeat the treaty.

The most dismaying fact contributing directly to chilling the atmosphere is the continuing Soviet-Egyptian cheating in the cease-fire zone along the Suez Canal. This is now scarcely concealed or denied. It has aroused the deepest concern not only in Israel but also in this country.

Two recent incidents threatened interruption of traffic in the air corridors to Berlin, and this is the stuff the cold war feeds on. The steady drumbeat has begun that will end no one knows how or when.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Wind From East Chills Negotiations On Berlin

By PHIL NEWSOM, UPI Foreign News Analyst

The "blow hot, blow cold" technique is a built-in quality of Russian dealings with the west, and in Berlin the Russians are blowing cold.

After encouraging western ambassadors early in September with a remark that it was time to "get going" on Berlin issues, Soviet Ambassador to East Germany Pytor A. Abrasimov caught them by surprise on Oct. 9 with a stand which suggested neither compromise nor concessions.

And yet, of all the issues dividing east and west, Berlin would appear to be one subject easier than most on which to compromise.

FIRST OF ALL, the new West German-Soviet non-aggression pact signed in mid-August would seem to make a normalization of relations over Berlin a natural next step.

Next, West German Chancellor Willy Brandt had made an improvement in Berlin access rights a condition for parliamentary approval of the new accord, a condition known to and apparently accepted by the Russians. On another level, France had made the question of Berlin a condition of her own approval of a Russian-proposed European security-conference. And finally, regardless of the past, the German question as a whole seemed as peaceful and as amenable now to compromise as it was likely to become in the foreseeable future.

SEEMINGLY well grounded reports said Walter Ulbricht's East German regime would issue the first holiday passes to West Berliners to enter East Berlin since 1966.

It also was predicted telephone links between the two parts of the city would be restored.

The West Berliners want day-to-day rights to cross over to the east, just as West Germans and non-Germans may do now. They also want firmer guarantees of access routes by land and water.

WEST BERLIN Mayor Klaus Schutz declares there are forces at work "seeking to hinder settlements in and around Berlin."

Refusing to accept communist military exercises as an excuse for interference with access routes to West Berlin, he declared that in September the Communist prevented 21 travelers from using transit routes through East Germany, turned back 23 in August and 28 in July.

The western allies could do little else but applaud Brandt's move toward the east. But they are not so anxious as he for quick approval of the Bonn-Moscow treaty. And in current delays they only see more of the same thing that has been going on in dealings over Berlin since 1944.

Commission On Rhetoric Finds Agnewography Harmless To Adults

WASHINGTON — The Commission on Obscenity and Pornography has just released its controversial report on the effects of pornography on the American people, particularly children. While this commission was getting all the publicity, another commission was studying the effects of political rhetoric and invective on Americans. The conclusions of this latter commission may have a much more lasting impact on the country.

The Commission on Political Rhetoric and Invective studied speeches by many candidates, but made the most use of those given by Vice President Spiro Agnew. In a footnote on the first page, the commission said it was not picking on Mr. Agnew, but since most people had been exposed to Agnew's rhetoric, it was easier to study reactions to his words than a politician running for a minor office.

Most people were not permanently affected by exposure to one of the vice president's speeches, though many are titillated by him. Only a small minority admitted to having any lascivious thoughts after reading one.

The majority of Americans interviewed said they believed that adult people should be allowed to hear Agnew's speeches if they wished to. But many of those interviewed said they didn't believe the speeches should be made available to children.

The commission revealed that, surprisingly, those interested in what Agnew has to say are not just people looking cor cheap thrills. Many come from fine middle-class homes and are considered by their neighbors to be pillars of the community.

There is a double standard in this country toward Agnew's talks. Many people who criticize Agnew publicly commit political invective in their own bedrooms when the shades are drawn.

THE COMMISSION hired participants for a laboratory experiment. It put couples in rooms and showed TV films of Agnew speeches. In almost all cases the couples denied the speeches had excited them. And while some admitted to becoming highly agitated by hearing words they had never heard before, most respondents claimed they had forgotten what he had said in an hour.

"We found," the report continued, "that Agnew's bite is worse than his bark. The permissiveness of his political rhetoric, while condoned by this commission, does not merit any censoring at this time. There is no evidence that anyone has committed a crime after listening to one of the vice president's speeches. Indeed, the opposite has proved true. Those thinking of committing a crime have lost interest after hearing him talk.

"Therefore, Agnew is a safety valve for those who harbor antisocial fantasies."

THE COMMISSION refused to judge the taste of Agnew's speeches because it had nothing to measure them against.

"It would be wrong for this commission to say what is good taste or bad taste, in politics particularly, since the public's appetite seems to be changing all the time. Things a vice president of the United States wouldn't or couldn't say two years ago now seem to be acceptable to large segments of the population.

"Those who claim that Agnew is polluting the air with his rhetoric may find it morally acceptable a few years from now."

The commission's report was not unanimous. A minority report, written by the law firm of O'Brien, Bayh, Kennedy, Muskie & Goodell, denounced the report as a declaration of moral bankruptcy in the country. The dissent said: "Our children are being exposed to more and more Agnew every day. Unless it is curtailed, we're going to have some very emotionally disturbed people on our hands. Anyone who supports Agnewography in this country is sick, sick, sick."

Bond Issue, Cut In Tax Rate On College Measures

Marin Community College District has come up with what looks like a fiscal miracle: a bond issue and operating tax increase which, combined, not only would not raise the district's tax rate but would reduce it. (See editorial, opposite page)

This piece of legerdemain is embodied in Measures B and C which will be on the ballot Nov. 3 in the college district.

Measure B calls for a reduction in the district's maximum tax rate from 70 cents to 60 cents per $100 assessed valuation, with the new rate to prevail for an indefinite period.

Measure C calls for a $16,920,000 bond issue to complete enlargement of facilities at the Kentfield campus and build the first phase of a second college on district-owned property in Novato.

If both are approved, the college district's tax rate for next year, including bond redemption, is estimated at 80.7 cents. If neither passes, the rate will be 93 cents.

There is, of course, a catch. The college district has not found a way to create money.

In 1962, voters of the district authorized a 35-cent special tax levy for 10 years, to finance enlarged Kentfield facilities and the second campus in Novato. That special levy will expire next year, if Measusre B does not win majority approval.

Measure B, however, provides that a 60-cent rate could be levied for college operations, while canceling out the last year of the already-approved 35-cent special capital improvements levy. The operating tax has been at 35 cents in the district since 1937.

Thus, there will be no "pay-as-you-build" tax for capital improvements on next year's tax bills if Measure B passes. But there will be a 60-cent operating levy, not only next year but indefinitely thereafter.

Measure C would replace the money raised by the 35-cent special tax — plus a great deal more — through a bond issue calculated as sufficient to complete campus improvements at Kentfield and build a college for 2,200 students in Novato. The bonds would be sold in "batches" through 1975, and the last of the issue would be retired in 1999.

Cost of the bond issue in its first year is estimated at 5.5 cents on the tax rate, based on 7 per cent interest.

This would mean that a 60-cent operating tax rate and a 5.5-cent bond redemption rate would replace the 35-cent operating rate and 35-cent capital improvements tax next fall — a reduction of 4.5 cents.

The reduction actually could be greater than that, however. Besides the operating and capital expenditures taxes, the district's tax rate includes several "overrides," not subject to voter approval. This year's total rate is 93 cents. Next year's total, if Measures B and C pass, is estimated at 80.7 cents — a 9.3-cent reduction. The additional reduction would come about because the bond issue would cancel a special override used for construction under terms of a state law passed in 1937.

At the highest point during the bond retirement, the rate for paying off the bonds would be 17 cents, according to projections by the county auditor. This would be in 1975-6.

The college district thus is offering a current tax saving with a deferred tax increase as a means of financing its expansion onto two campuses.

Norman Bird, college business manager, admits the 60-cent operating rate will be "very close" when the second campus opens. However, the plan is to accumulate balances for the next two years to cushion the one-time-only expenses of expanding to two campuses.

Measure C carries a pledge by the college district to use at least half of the bond issue proceeds in Novato. The percentage may be higher than that, depending on the relative demand for schooling in Kentfield and Novato. Passage of the measure would leave the district free to build for more than 2,200 students in Novato, but preclude it from building for fewer.

When the 35-cent special tax was authorized in 1962 for "pay-as-you-build" expansion, state Department of Finance projections were for 2,299 students in the college this year. Rapid enrollment growth soon made the calculations obsolete.

This year's enrollment is 5,723. The latest state projection, made this year, is for enrollment totaling 6,162 in 1973-74, when it is planned to open the second campus. But even this figure already appears obsolete, for the state had projected only 5,383 students this year — some 450 below the present total.

The bond-and-tax package was worked out by the college district's staff. If the measures fail, the district can still build a second campus — but at an astronomical tax rate increase.

Under the 1937 legislation a community college can levy an override tax, without voter approval, to provide matching funds against state and federal allocations and repayment of state loans.

But to carry out the building program by that method, according to the college district's calculations, would require an override tax of about $1 per $100 assessed valuation — and the college would still be without sufficient operating funds if the operating tax rate remained at 35 cents.

Part-Time Doctors Omitted From List

Part-time payroll figures for Marin General Hospital District reported Oct. 6 in the Independent-Journal omitted the names of 13 physicans who work part-time in the hospital's emergency room.

Dr. John W. McGaughey takes pleasure in announcing his association with Dr. John E. Jansheski in the General Practice of Dentistry.

Dr. McGaughey graduated from the University of California Dental School and was recently discharged from the Army after one year tours in Texas and Viet Nam.

Air Force Agrees To Alter Lights

The Air Force has agreed to modify four bright security lights on top of Mount Tamalpais so they don't shine into Mill Valley, an Air Force official said yesterday.

Maj. William R. Edwards, commander of the radar station on the mountain, said bids and specifications are being prepared and should be complete by Nov. 1. Work should commence Nov. 15 and be finished by the end of the month.

The work, which engineers estimate will cost $1,500, involves moving four of the sodium vapor lights from buildings at the station to points outside the fence so they will shine back into the compound and not down into Mill Valley.

The announcement was a victory for Jeffory S. Morshead, a Mill Valleyan who waged a six-month campaign to have the lights altered or dimmed .

200 Volunteers To Canvas For Petaluma Crusade

More than 200 volunteers will canvass Petaluma Saturday and Monday on behalf of the Petaluma United Crusade.

The volunteers will accept contributions and provide forms for residents who have donated in other counties and want to assure that their funds return to the Petaluma agencies.

Other section chairmen are Mrs. Sol Fishman, Mrs. Louis Cubba, Mrs. William Croxton, Mrs. David Brainerd, Mrs. Troy Fortner, Mrs. Harry Cook, Mrs. Lee Lofton, Mrs. Mervin Waters and Mrs. William Heath.

Baby sitting services will be provided for volunteers on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Monday from 3 to 6 p.m. at Bernard Eldredge School and the Camp Fire Hut, 510 English Street.

Pollution-Free Engine Asked

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI)—The American Automobile Association Wednesday urged the government and auto industry to "take whatever actions are necessary" to develop a pollution-free engine by the end of the decade.

Delegates to the 68th annual meeting of the AAA adopted the policy statement, which did not recommend any specific kind of engine.

The group said it could be an improvement of the internal combustion engine, a steam or gas turbine engine or "some radically new power source."

To Attend Gathering

Rep. George E. Brown Jr. of Los Angeles, unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination in June for U.S. Senate, will attend an open house for Dr. William M. Kortum of Petaluma, Democratic nominee in the First Congressional District, from 2 to 4 p.m. on Sunday at Novato Democratic headquarters, 959 Front Street.

WHAT'S A HUNGRY BUG TO DO?

Employees of Jennings Tree Services and Pest Control Co. of Menlo Park spray a new plastic substance, Inslite, on telephone cables along Lincoln Avenue in San Rafael. According to Donald R. Graham, deskman for Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., the coating will prevent bugs from eating through cable insulation and exposing the lines to water and weather. While John Burke (above) applied the plastic, the firm covered cars in the area with plastic sheeting to prevent splattering. (Independent-Journal photo)

Hours At Library Are Changed

Anyone borrowing or returning books at the Marin County Library in the Civic Center, must do so between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

Because of a security clampdown, the library at the Civic Center will be closed on weekends and after 5 p.m. weekdays, County Librarian Bruce D. Bajema announced. The book drop at the entrance to the Civic Center has been closed permanently.

To compensate partially for the shortened hours at the Civic Center library, the Ross Valley branch library at Bon Air Shopping Center in Greenbrae will be open additional hours as follows:

Monday through Thursday — 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2 to 9 p.m.

Friday — 9 a.m. to 1 p.m and 2 to 6 p.m.

Saturday — 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2 to 5 p.m.

A series of story programs for pre-school children between 40 months and 5 years of age will be offered at the Civic Center library on Mondays at 11 a.m. The program will start next Monday and continue through Nov. 30. Children's librarian Barbara Rauhala will be the storyteller.

Battle Flares Again Over Cost Of Patrols

The long-standing battle between cities and the unincorporated areas over the sharing of sheriff's patrol costs flared again last night at a meeting of the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission.

Discussion of a proposed county service area for police services drew about 40 persons to the Civic Center.

City representatibes, including Mayors Edward W. Colthurst of Corte Madera and Frank J. Egger of Fairfax, argued that unincorporated areas should pay a bigger share of the sheriff's patrol costs because cities are now paying double — once for the sheriff's services and again for their own city police services.

Speakers from unincorporated areas like Lucas Valley, Sleepy Hollow and West Marin countered that cities are benefiting from big sales tax revenues contributed by residents of unincorporated areas who shop in cities.

If a county service area for police services is established in the unincorporated areas, any community which wanted more police protection would pay extra for that added service. At present, the entire cost of the sheriff's department is borne equally by all taxpayers of the county.

The commissioners delayed a decision and called for a special meeting to be held at 8 p.m. Nov. 4. Commissioners asked executive officer John F. Barrows for a detailed report on the cost of the sheriff's services and the revenues (both property taxes and other income such as sales taxes) received by cities and by unincorporated areas.

Barrows said he will try to find a meeting place for the Nov. 4 session because the Civic Center has been closed to night meetings for security reasons.

The Local Agency Formation Commission Also:

FIRE PROTECTION — Unanimously approved the formation of a county fire protection district in all areas not served by cities or special fire districts. This was approved in July of last year, but was reapproved last night to include commercial timberland in the district.

TERRA LINDA — Asked that a reorganization committee be appointed to discuss the proposed merger of the Terra Linda Recreation and Park District and the Terra Linda Community Services District. That committee, to be composed of two representatives from each district, will report to the commission within 90 days.

ANGRESS — Approved the annexation of the 108-acre ranch owned by Herbert Angress north of Marshall to the North Marin County Water District.

WILSON AVENUE — Reduced the size of a 24-acre parcel on Wilson Avenue near Vineyard Road that was annexed to Novato last July. Because several property owners do not want to be within Novato, the annexed portion was cut to 14.5 acres.

NOVATO ANNEX — Approved annexation to Novato of 1.90 acres at the end of Fourth Street and Carmel Drive, where the 40-unit Marin County housing project for the elderly has been built and is ready for occupancy.

ELECTION — Unanimously reelected chairman Hugh G. Marchant to serve as chairman for another year.

Guilty Pleas In Deer Hunting

According to court clerk Stella Phillipscheck, the four are Robert L. Ferry, 23, of 11 Joan Avenue, Patrick N. Gingher, 23, of 980 Ignacio Boulevard, John P. San Filitto, 23, of 770 Sun Lane and Michael P. Kircher, 18, of 100 H Lane.

They were sentenced yesterday by Judge David R. Baty to one year of probation and fined $50 each, Mrs. Phillipscheck reported.

Study Of Bay's Pesticides Killed By Budget Cutback

A budgetary cutback soon will force the end of research into the effect of pesticides on Bay wildlife, a Marin biologist said yesterday.

Russell B. Earnest, biologist in charge of the Fish Pesticide Bureau at the Tiburon Marine Laboratory, said the six-man operation will move to the Great Lakes about Nov. 15.

The switch will leave the Bay Area without any program for studying how common agriculture pesticides affect marine life, particularly the striped bass and chinook salmon, two important game fish.

The only pesticide research will be conduced by the California Department of Fish and Game, which monitors levels in oysters and other shellfish.

"I feel there's a great need for this kind of work here," Earnest said. "The heaviest concentration of agriculture in the world is in the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys, which drain through the Bay. This is the perfect place to study pesticides and organisms."

Duties performed by the Fish Pesticide Bureau include determining the tolerance of saltwater creatures to various compounds routinely used in agriculture, Earnest said, and monitoring fish caught around the Bay to determine pesticide levels and how they vary from month to month.

Work at the Great Lakes will concentrate chiefly on monitoring fish for their mercury content, he said.

"At this time of crisis in pollution, we should be expanding our knowledge about pesticides, not cutting back because of tighter budgets," Earnest said. But, he added, "We have no control over budgets."

Attorney Question Still Unclear For Ruchell Magee

San Quentin inmate Ruchell Magee, 31, sole surviving convict from the Aug. 7 Hall of Justice shoot-out and accused along with Angela Y. Davis of the slaying of Judge Harold J. Haley, made another appearance yesterday in the prison courtroom.

Although Marin judges have decided that trials will not be held within the prison, preliminary proceedings involving inmates are still being held there.)

An attorney appointed by Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court for Magee, Clinton White of Oakland, appeared in court yesterday, but it was still unclear whether White will represent Magee.

Magee has insisted from the outset that he wants to act as his own attorney but has been ruled not competent to do so.

Yesterday White offered to act in an advisory capacity to Magee, who would then handle his own case, but Judge Joseph G. Wilson, who heard yesterday's session, said he could not allow that.

He gave White one week, however, to research the question of whether Magee could act as his own attorney, with White as an adviser.

White indicated he does not want to act as Magee's lawyer unless Magee wants him. Magee has repeatedly said that he feels any court-appointed attorney would be part of a plot to "railroad" him.

Spectators supporting Magee again filled the 50-seat courtroom yesterday. They remained quiet until Judge Wilson left the bench as Magee was being led from the room. Cries of "power to the people" and "right on" then rang out.

Coroner Names Bridge Jumper

A man who leaped from the Golden Gate Bridge Sept. 20 was identified yesterday by the San Francisco Coroner's Office as Larry Gordon Ware, 36, of no known address.

A witness had told the California High Patrol a man walked to the railing and jumped over at about 10:25 a.m. His body was recovered shortly after by a coast guard cutter.

Identification was made by Ware's fingerprints, the coroner's office said.

ENTIRE COMMUNITY MISSED

Census Bureau Can't Explain How Dillon Beach Got Missed

To the Census Bureau today, it is zero.

The entire community was not counted in the census and that includes the new Oceana Marin development north of Dillon Beach.

Residents of the area, and no one knows for sure just how big the area is, are patiently awaiting officials to pick up their census questionnaires so the community's population can be counted, said Helen Martin, a resident of the area.

"This will be corrected within a week. I'll have someone in there to pick up the questionnaires," said Leonard C. Isley, regional director for the census bureau in Los Angeles.

Isley was at a loss to explain how an entire community was missed. He said that urban areas were counted by mail but the rural areas were counted by enumerators. Enumerators were responsible for at least half of Marin County, he said.

Marin, Sonoma, Napa and Solano counties were handled out of the Santa Rosa office, which has been closed, he said.

"This is the first time that such a thing has come to my attention," Isley said.

Mrs. Martin said questionnaires received by area residents were supposed to have been picked up by a local resident, John Novicky, but he moved away.

Jean Nuckols, a resident, called the census bureau office in San Francisco and was told it had finished its business and was closing.

William M. Purvis, who writes the Dillon Beach news for the Petaluma Argus-Courier, put it in his column on Aug. 12.

Purvis, known as the unofficial mayor of Dillon Beach, said television stations carried the news of the lack of a count last week.

Isley saw it on national television Tuesday night in Los Angeles.

"I immediately started checking with our headquarters in Jeffersonville, Ind.," Isley said.

Ruth Mellon, who runs the post office at the Dillon Beach store, said about 50 families received mail there.

Dillon Beach is not the only community missed in the census. Purvis recieved a letter yesterday from Mary Older of Isleton in Sacramento County, telling of areas there that were missed.

Novatan Arrested In Pot Growing

Mark Robert Topper of 668 Olive Avenue was released on his recognizance and was scheduled to appear this afternoon in Marin Municipal Court.

Police reported that they found 25 plants thought to be marijuana growing in Topper's corn patch, in pots and in the bird bath. They also found cigarettes and a plastic bag of vegetable material thought to be marijuana.

Middle School Before Board

The Mill Valley School District board will hold a special meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at Park School to discuss the Middle School project and possibly to award a contract for construction to Dickman Construction Co. of Mountain View.

Also on the agenda is discussion of an anti-Rubella campaign and consideration of a resolution supporting the Tamalpais High School District's opposition to a state requirement that unfication elections be held every four years.

After the open meeting, the board will meet in closed session to instruct its negotiating team on contract discussions with teachers.

Caretaker, 77, Is Found Dead

The 77-year-old caretaker of the Big Trees Camp six miles from Alpine Dam along Fairfax Bolinas Road was found dead in his bed yesterday.

According to the Marin County coroner's report, James Drohan had been complaining of ill health for several days before being found dead in his cabin by Marin Municipal Water District employee John Monty Marzetta.

Drohan was born in Ireland. He leaves no immediate family, according to the coroner's report.

The body was taken to Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo where an autopsy was to be performed.

England and France declared war on Germany Sept. 3, 1939.

IN LEADING ROLE — Film star Myrna Loy will portray Elizabeth Barrett in "Dear Love," which will open a two-week engagement Monday at the San Francisco Geary Theater. Co-starring will be Jerome Kilty, who is also the playwright.

Drugs Getting The Attention, But Alcohol Still Main Killer

WASHINGTON (UPI)—"Drugs are the fair-haired child. They are getting all the gold. Yet there are more than 10 times as many alcoholics as there are drug addicts."

That complaint happened to come from Willard O. Foster, coordinator of alcoholism programs in the state of Maryland. But it might have come from any one of hundreds of federal, state and private authorities on alcoholism.

They don't begrudge the attention politicians, legislative bodies, the press and the public are giving to the drug menace.

But they can't understand how a nation that gets so wrought up about heroin and marijuana can be so complacent about alcohol.

"It is incredible that we cannot face realistically the alcoholism epidemic in this country, which costs us more lives each year than the Vietnam War," says Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, a former alcoholic who now heads a special Senate subcommittee on alcoholism. "If we were willing to spend a tenth of what we spend on Vietnam to save people from this controllable disease, we could accomplish miracles."

The American Psychiatric Association estimates at least 9 million Americans are afflicted by alcoholism in the sense of being so dependent on alcohol they are ruining their careers and wrecking their homes.

Reports from coroners indicate more than half of the nation's highway deaths result from drivers trying to handle a car after drinking. There are more than 50,000 highway deaths a year, so the toll from drunken driving alone is upwards of 25,000 lives annually.

Excessive intake of alcohol is the main (though not the only) cause of cirrhosis of the liver, an ailment that ranks as the third most common cause of death among young and middle aged adults.

Many alcholics do not wait for the disease to complete the slow destruction of their bodies. Studies show the suicide rate among alcholics is about 50 times greater than that of the general population.

Aside from its cost in wrecked lives, alcholism is a serious economic problem. The National Council on Alcoholism estimates that U.S. industry loses more than $4 billion a year through employe absenteeism resulting from excessive drinking.

The American Medical Association has waged a vigorous campaign in recent years to get practicing physicians and general hospitals to treat alcoholism as "an illness that can and should be treated." But thousands of doctors still look upon "drunks" as a character problem rather than a health problem. And a recent survey showed that only one third of the nation's general hospitals will admit patients for treatment of alcoholism.

In 1966, with much fanfare, the federal government created a National Center for Prevention and Control of Alcoholism, under the aegis of the National Institute of Mental Health. But the center's impact on the alcoholism problem has thus far been minimal, because it has relatively little money to spend. While Congress votes hundreds of millions for research into cancer, heart disease and other "respectable" ailments, only $10 million a year is available for federal grants to support alcoholism research.

In August, the Senate passed a bill, sponsored by Hughes, authorizing an outlay of $395 million over the next three years to launch nationwide programs for prevention and treatment of alcoholism, including research into its causes and rehabilitation of its victims.

This legislation now awaits action in the House.

Alioto Recounts Use Of Police

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mayor Joseph Alioto said Wednesday the use of massive police power at the San Francisco State College disturbances "stabilized violence without doing violence to dissent."

The mayor said "when dissent deteriorates into violence, we will use whatever police power we consider necessary to put it down —fast."

By "we," he said, he meant the mayor and the chief of police, though he said the views of the college president would carry much weight in cases where a decision must be made to put lawmen onto a troubled campus.

Soviet Workers Support UAW

MOSCOW (UPI) —Workers of Likhachev automobile plant, the biggest in Moscow, expressed solidarity Wednesday with United Auto Workers (UAW) strikers at General Motors in the United States.

Tass news agency said the solidarity vote was taken at "a huge meeting at the factory as a gesture of proletarian internationalism."

"We automobile workers entertain feelings of warm sympathy for the striking workers of America, who are upholding their class interests and fighting for their rights," the Soviet workers said.

A $600,000 Deficit For Symphony

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Symphony Association announced today its anticipated deficit for the 1970-71 season will be more than $600,000.

Accordingly, President Philip S. Boone said the symphony will seek a 25 per cent increase in contributions from all donors to match the deficit.

At the same time, Boone praised the results of the fund drive for the 1969-70 season. He said for the first time in several years, total season income was about equal to expenses.

Boonesaid the symphony is seeking the same achievement this year, warning that anything less will jeopardize the orchestra's survival.

He said among the reasons for the projected $600,000 deficit is an increase in musicians' salaries to a minimum of $250 per week per player in the forthcoming 37-week season, one week more than last year. Another reason is increased operating expenses. But the "greatest single problem," he said, is the expiration of the $100,000 yearly subsidy provided by the Ford Foundation during the five years of the symphony's successful matching fund drive.

Major Crime Drops In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The incidence of major crime in the first nine months of 1970 in San Francisco was 10 per cent less than that of the similar period last year, according to police chief Alfred Nelder.

Nelder said Wednesday there was a 13 per cent drop for September of this year as compared to September of 1969.

DRAMA, ART, MUSIC

'Dear Love,' About Brownings, To Open

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

"Dear Love." Jerome Kilty's play of England's most romantic poet-couple — Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning — will arrive Monday night at the Geary Theater in San Francisco for a special two-week engagement.

The play will feature Myrna Loy, a leading screen actress since the 1930s as Miss Barrett and Kitty as Browning. As part of a national tour prior to a Broadway opening in January, it is being presented in connection with the American Conservatory Theater.

ACT also announced this week arrival on Nov. 2 of "Will Rogers' U.S.A.," at the Marines' Memorial Theater, featuring James Whitmore. The evening is adapted entirely from Rogers' own words.

OPERA

A new production of Mozart's "Cosi fan tutte" will have its first performance Saturday night at the San Francisco Opera House. Featured in the cast will be Teresa Berganza, Margaret Price, Graziella Sciutti, Ryland Davies, Alberto Rinaldi and Renato Capecchi.

The new production is designed and directed by Jean-Pierre Ponelle, who was responsible for last season's highly successful "Cenerentola." Mozart specialist John Pritchard will make his debut as conductor.

DRAMA

Tonight will mark the first six months of "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," at the Little Fox Theater in San Francisco. (See other attractions for nightly showings.)

MUSIC

A group of young musicians will present a classical recital in the Oakland Museum's Gallery of California Art Sunday afternoon. It is the first of four recitals planned at the museum this fall and winter.

Other attractions:

Encore Theater — "The Ofay Watchers," Tuesday through Friday, 8:30 p.m.; Saturday, 7 and 9:45 p.m. and Sundays, 7 p.m.

Curran Theater — "Promises, Promises," 8:30 p.m. except Sundays; also 2:30 p.m. eWdnesdays and Saturdays.

Little Fox Theater— "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," nightly except Monday at 8:30 p.m. and Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Orpheum Theater — "Hair" Tuesday through Friday, 8:30 p.m.; Saturday, 6 and 10 p.m.; Wednesday and Sunday, 2:30 p.m.

Geary Theater — "Dear Love," opening Monday, 8:30 p.m. for two-week engagement. Closing Saturday, "Hamlet."

M. H. de Young Museum — "Paintings From the Abe Collection," through Oct. 25, and "John Marin" through Nov. 8.

California Palace of the Legion of Honor — "Eleanor Bloomfield — Sculpture," through tomorrow; "Drawings and Etchings by Telpolo and his Circle," through Nov. 15; and "The Imaginary Prison, by Piranese," through Nov. 15.

Food Bombing Of Reds Asked

LAWRENCE, Mass. (UPI)— A former newspaper executive says he's come up with a novel idea on how to bomb North Vietnam—with kindness.

"Instead of dropping bombs, we should drop food packages," said John P. S. Mahoney Jr., former publisher of the Lawrence Sunday Sun and Lawrence Telegram. The Vietnam War represents a "needless, senseless slaughter of American youth," he said.

"It would cost a lot less than one real bomb," he added. "And it certainly would do good for the United States in the eyes of the world."

War Dead Figure

AMMAN (UPI)—A total of 3,440 persons were killed in the Jordanian civil war last month, the Palestine Red Crescent Society said Wednesday.

Safeway Plans To Date Goods

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Safeway Stores is going to put dates on the perishable products it manufactures or processes.

Louis A. Bianco, vice president-manager of the grocery chain's San Francisco division, said Wednesday the program would apply to packaged meats, dairy products and bakery goods.

"Briefly, the dates—they are not codes—indicate the day on or before which we sell the product in order to ensure its freshness and wholesomeness for a reasonable time after it is purchased by our customers," he added.

New Mexico claims 42 per cent of the country's uranium reserves.

TV REVIEW

Relevance, Idealism And Wow!

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — I have an idea for a contemporary new video series. It is called "The Young Storefront Television Executives," and it is very relevant.

The trouble with most television series aimed at the middleaged, as everyone knows, is that they are so conformist. All the characters are familiar and predictable. So mine will be different.

The principals will be three budding television executives who are out to change the network system: Two young men and a girl. One of the young men is white, the other black. If you want to attract the under-30 audience, you have to give it something nonconformist and excitingly original.

For this reason, the white young man might even have lots of curly black hair, long sideburns and a big mustache.

There is also an older adviser to the trio — a veteran television executive who, now that he has made his pile, is looking for inner absolution and seems to have found it in this idealistic trio.

The series is set in New York, because, as everyone knows, there is more idealism there than in Hollywood. After all, Hollywood only produces video shows. New York approves and chooses them.

As proof of the trio's idealism, each show will begin with them running arm-in-arm across Sixth Avenue in New York, and up the steps of a television network. They will beam at each other as they run, and look skyward wtih significance, but never watch the traffic.

Although all three youngsters have offices at a network, their real passion is a storefront office in a crumby part of town where they can help people who come in off the street with television problems that no one else in the industry will listen to.

Because of this realistic, idealistic, contemporary, relevant,c youthful approach, we can deal with significant video issues never before aired by the middleaged conformists.

For example, one episode will concern a television executive who is a narcotics addict and has become involved with a go-go dancer who gets him the stuff through the Mafia, which threatens to tell his wife unless he quietly transfers his large block of network stock to gangsters who want to manipulate the company.

Another episode will deal with a television executive who leads an anti-pollution fight against a factory in his suburban home town, but has unfortunately become involved with a go-go dancer who threatens to tell his wife unless he quietly turns over his big block of network stock to gangsters who want to infiltrate the company. The go-go dancer is a corporate spy for the polluting factory.

Anyway, I could go on and on with more episode outlines dealing with significant television issues. But you get the message. It's important to get fresh ideas and young blood into video. And it is good that idealism and relevance are finally being given a chance.

Auction Of Art Brings $2.6 Million

LONDON (UPI) — Fifteen impressionists and modern paintings from the collection of the late American movie producer William Goetz brought $2.6 million in 34 minutes Wednesday at the auction firm of Sotheby & Co.

World record prices for five artists were set with Toulouse-Lautrec's "La Poudreuse," bought by a New York dealer for $336,000, making the highest for the artist's works.

The highest price of the evening was $432,000 paid for Cezanne's "La Maison et L'Arbre." Another Cezanne, "Paysage de l'Ile de France," was withdrawn when bidding stopped at $360,000. The asking price had been $480,000.

Joseph E. Levine, the American film producer, bidding by telephone from New York, bought two of the works. He paid $148,000 for a Picasso pastel of the Rose period, entitled "Fillette au Chien," a record for a Picasso pastel and also bought a small Dufy, "l'Ensemble, Le Petit Orchestre" for $19,200.

An anonymous buyer paid $252,000 for Matisse's "Interieur a La Follette." Derain's "The Pool of London" brought $192,000 from another anonymous buyer and $172,800 was paid for a flower piece by Odilon Redon.

No Decision Made On Insurance Plan

Kentfield Fire Protection District directors last night reached no decision after discussing hospital insurance plans for district staff, according to Fire Chief Kenneth T. Kamp.

The board voted to overhaul the Greenbrae siren used to alert volunteers, called for bids to complete air conditioning in the new fire house and ordered engine work on the aerial truck.

President Gets Bill On Fishing

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — The Senate yesterday approved a tough new stance against fishing intrusions in o American waters aimed at Russian trawlers along the Northern California coast.

The measure would hike the fine for illegal fishing from $10,000 to $100,000 if approved by President Richard M. Nixon. Yesterday's senate vote sent the bill to the president.

Also called for in the measure passed by voice vote are a $5,000 reward for information leading to the capture and conviction of a violator and seizure of the catch of any boat caught within the 12-mile limit claimed as American waters.

Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, a cosponsor of the legislation, said the measure "is designed to help keep the Russians and other foreigners off the backs of American fishermen."

The bill came in the wake of a summer of friction between American and Russian fishing boats along the west coast. One Russian boat was seized in July, but released.

The legislation would also allow the Coast Guard to ask any federal agency for surveillance help.

Cotati Man Hurt In 2-Car Crash

A 28-year-old Cotati man was reported in critical condition today at Community Hospital of Sonoma County with head injuries suffered in a two-car accident in Rohnert Park.

Alan Budinsky, 501 East Cotati Avenue, suffered a severe concussion and internal injuries in the crash at 9:13 p.m. yesterday, according to hospital spokesmen.

Police said a car driven by Edgar L. Lancaster, 48, of 407 Alta Drive, Rohnert Park, apparently failed to heed a stop sign and struck Budinsky's car at the Rohnert Park Expressway and Snyder Lane.

Gift To Marin City Boys' Club

A $100 check has been donated to the Marin City Boys' Club by the MacDonald's hamburger chain to mark the opening of the chain's new branch at Seminary Road near Highway 101 in Mill Valley.

A spokesman for MacDonald's said the gift was presented Saturday as part of the chain's community service program.

According to the spokesman, the money will be used by the club for a photographic laboratory or a motor mechanics training center for club members.

Many New Innovations Reported In Treating Severe Burn Cases

Van Dellen

In many parts of the country serious burns are treated in centers specializing in these injuries. The war in Vietnam also has increased the number of burn cases, and there is no doubt that our fighting men receive the finest care. Many new remedies and innovations are being tried to lessen the distress and improve the outcome of severe burn injuries.

Burns are extremely painful, and when 50 or 60 per cent of the body surface is involved, it is difficult to move or cleanse the victim without creating distress. Researchers are testing special beds in which the burned person is suspended by jets of air escaping from narrow passages between inflated pockets. In this way the sufferer remains high and dry.

ANOTHER DEVICE keeps the victim floating in siliconized open mesh. The bed is a fiberglas tub mounted on a metal frame over which silicone mesh is suspended. By turning the frame, the physician can work on both sides of the patient.

Burns are open wounds, and it is important to cover the denuded areas and to avoid infection. Extensive skin grafts may be needed and at present, cadaver skin and pigskin are used most often. Work also is being done on artificial or synthetic skin. These grafts are temporary but last long enough to serve their purpose.

IN SOME centers the burn area is exposed to the air.. The Apollo shield serves as a blanket. It consists of two curved pieces of plexiglas separated by a layer of vaporized metal. An electric current through the metal creates radiant heat which is thermostatically controled.

Oxygen administered under increased pressure within a hyperbaric chamber is being tested. The results are encouraging in that eschars form more rapidly, and there is less risk of infection and swelling. However, hyperbaric units are expensive and in short supply.

UNCOORDINATED

H. D. writes: How does a person act when he suffers from locomotor ataxia?

REPLY

In this condition, there is loss of balance and coordination. Some victims walk as though they did not know where their feet are; others reel about as though drunk. The arms behave in an equally bizarre fashion. Vision and bladder control may be affected when the nerves leading to these structures are involved.

SUMMER TEMPERATURE

R. E. writes: Does the temperature of the blood rise somewhat in hot weather?

REPLY

Not when the person is resting. The body has an efficient heat regulating mechanism that maintains the temperature on an even keel in winter and summer. On the other hand, it will increase on exertion or when the cooling system fails because the sweat glands are overfatigued and fail to function properly.

RODENTS AND GERMS

V. M. writes: After a rat bite, what kind of germs are passed to the victim?

REPLY

Whatever germs are in the rat's mouth. These might be ordinary staphylococci, streptococci or those that produce rat bite fever or encephalitis.

HEART WEIGHT

C. Y. writes: What is the actual weight of the heart?

REPLY

At birth the heart of a baby weighs less than an ounce. In a healthy adult woman it weighs 9 ounces whereas in a man it is 10½ ounces.

Minority Hiring

I-J Special Report

LOS ANGELES — Minority employment at UCLA has increased by more than 500 persons during the past year, according to Vice Chancellor James Hobson. Of 1,258 employees hired during the year, 514 were members of minority groups. Minorities now make up 22.6 per cent of the total UCLA work force, Hobson said.

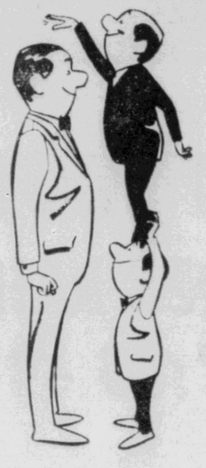
New dimension to the news



Are you aware of it? The new journalism which reports not just the facts but also their meaning? This is the new dimension of "depth" which heightens your understanding. Daily in the I-J.

More important than any event is its meaning. Especially today when the news involves dynamic changes in our society.

To bring you new perspectives on events the I-J presents a continuing train of articles, special reports and features which explore today's issues in depth. They go behind the "what" to the "why" . . . reports on ecology, revolutionary tactics, education, college unrest, the drug scene, the political spectrum, to name a few.

This kind of investigative reporting is the new dimension to the news . . . an attempt to go beyond the "shock" of events to their meaning. When you understand what you know you've gained perhaps the finest "dimension" of all—wisdom.

And who is overburdened with that?

AIRBORNE RESCUE FOR FREEWAY ACCIDENTS

In an innovation similar to the helicopter's use in ferrying wounded soldiers from the frontline, the Los Angeles County Fire Department is planning to use an 120 miles per hour Jet Ranger helicopter-ambulance to pick up freeway accident victims and whisk them to the nearest hospital. The experimental use of the helicopter will cover a 450 square mile area in northwestern Los Angeles County. The pictures at left, from top to bottom, show a similated accident on a remote freeway; the the accident "victims" loaded aboard the flying ambulance; the "victims" being flown away from the scene of the accident.

Risks Seen In Some Fords, Mercurys

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Transportation Department has advised the owners of four million Mercurys and Fords built from 1965 to 1969 to have the wheel control arms inspected for possible defects, especially on cars that have suffered severe front end impacts.

The department's National Highway Safety Bureau said its investigation did not produce evidence of an "outright safety defect," but there was "a potential risk in the operation" of the cars.

Ford in August recalled 85,000 of the same model cars used in police work for replacement of the control arms because they sometimes cracked under the strain of police use. However, Ford said in a statement after the bureau warning Wednesday that there was no defect in the control arms on vehicles used by the public, and the cost of any inspection and replacement would have to be borne by the owner "as would be the case with any accident damage."

Ford said it had instructed its dealers to give special attention to such inspection requests.

"We repeat what we have stated before: that there is no defect in the control arm," the statement said. "But we believe that when any vehicle is subject to abuse or accident damage such as that specified by the DOT, it should be inspected before being driven."

The Highway Safety Bureau statement said any owner whose Ford or Mercury "has suffered impacts so severe as to blow out front tires or dent front wheel rims are advised to seek immediate inspection or to have the control arms replaced."

The bureau said that of the affected cars in the hands of the public, there "is a possible failure rate of one in every 100,000."

The function of the control arm is to hold the wheel assembly to the frame of the car. A government official said that if the control arm breaks, "the wheel falls off." The Safety Bureau said the Fords involved in the warning are the Custom 500, the Galaxie 500, the Galaxie 500 XL, the Galaxie 500 LTD, the Country Sedan, the Country Squire, the Ranch Wagon, the XL, the LTD, and the Custom Ranch Wagon.

The Mercury models are the Monterey, Montclair, Parklane, Commuter, Colony Park, Brougham, Marquis and the Park Lane Brougham. The Bureau said the advisory also included the 1968 and 1969 Thunderbird.

Candidates' Night Slated At Fairfax

The Hit That Really Counted

May's Blast Gives Cincinnati New Hope

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Cincinnati first baseman Lee May has an impressive .428 average in the 1970 World Series, but the only hit that really counts is the one that gave him the chance to try to improve that average today.

That three-run homerun off losing reliever Eddie Watt in the eighth inning Wednesday put the Reds ahead 6-5 and kept them alive in the Series.

SINKER

The pitch May hit was the first Watt threw after he relieved Jim Palmer with two men on base. It was apparently supposed to be a sinker.

"I'm sure he didn't want to get the ball where he did," May said of the hip-high throw. "The ball was down the middle and I swung."

The ball went in to the stands and the Series went into an unexpected fifth game.

Watt was replaced in the ninth and was not around to answer questions about that pitch by the time reporters were let into the Orioles' dressing room.

May said he walked up to the plate trying to figure a way to get the ball past Golden Glove third baseman Brooks Robinson, and presumed Watt would try to get him to hit in that direction.

PITCH LOW

Oriole pitchers had been told at a special pre-game meeting on May to pitch him low.

"I figured he would try to get me to hit it down to Hoover at third base," May said. "That's right — Hoover — that human vacuum cleaner who sucks up everything around third," May said.

As Watt was warming up, May walked back to the dugout and asked Reds' skipper Sparky Anderson what Watt threw. "The book" (scouting report) said Watt threw a sinker and a flat slider.

The game-winning pitch either slid flatly or didn't sink. Oriole manager Earl Weaver didn't care what it was. He didn't even bother to ask.

"What was the point? It didn't really matter," Weaver explained. There's no way we can change it anymore."

May's success with Watt was something of a turnaround, according to Weaver. "Up until today (Wednesday), we had been hitting their relief pitchers. Today, they hit our relievers."

The Reds — down three games to one — hoped the turnaround is not confined to relief pitching.

May's homer off Watt "brought the whole team back," explained Wednesday's winning pitcher, Clay Carroll. "We were a little down, but tomorrow we're going to be really up," he added.

DOUBTS

Anderson echoed Carroll's newfound optimism. "I had a lot of doubt about the middle of the game," he said.

"My ball club is still the best team here," he remarked after the game. "Our chances are still as good as they were when we started."

CHOW TIME AT THE OLD FISHIN' HOLE

Most everyone has heard his share of fishermen's tales, but this one tops most. It seems that Ollis Andrews of Wendell, N.C. has always wanted to have his very own pet bass in his lake and, well, he does. As a matter of fact, Ollis has been hand feeding this large mouth bass for eight years. It all started when he noticed that the bass hit at bait in the water close to his hand. Ollis decided if he would come that close he might eat out of his hand . . . he did and still does.

WORLD SERIES FOR THE BIRDS

Outfielder Tony Conigliaro, traded this week by Boston to California, had a portable TV set with him during golf tournament at Reno this week to keep up on the World Series. Playing in the Harrah's Invitational Golf Tournament, Conigliaro said he was pleased with the progress of the World Series, with Baltimore leading, he being a true American Leaguer.

Things Even Out For Mr. Brodie

To me the most dramatic picture from last weekend's 49er victory over the Rams was San Francisco quarterback John Brodie racing 12 yards to a touchdown, then gleefully tossing the ball high in the air.

After watching Brodie "eat" the ball so much during his professional career, it was refreshing to finally watch him throw it up.

Funniest occurrence in that game, however, was the referee walking over to the sideline to the phones in the middle of the game. Now, all the wire dispatches said he was trying to determine what down it was by conversing with an associate in the press box.

But don't you believe that propaganda. I'm a lip-reader and when the ref went over to the phones in the middle of the hectic battle I distinctly saw him say: "Dammit, I told you not to call me at work!"

No Victory Dinner This Time

Price Hall said television announcer Ray Scott sounded like he had a scheduled date with a starlet at the Rams' victory dinner. "He kept getting sicker and sicker," said Price, former president of the 49er Goal Rushers of Marin.

TWO TAMALPAIS High School grads are going great guns on the collegiate football scene.

Dartmouth's senior defensive tackle, Barry Brink of Mill Valley has been selected to the East Coast Athletic Conference Division I star squad for his outstanding play in a 27-0 victory over Massachusetts.

Brink made seven solo tackles while assisting on three others for the Big Green. Barry, a two-year starter for the Indians, won All-Ivy and All-New England mention last year.

Honor Is Going Strong

Meanwhile, across the continent in the metropolis of Stockton, Tam and College of Marin alumnus Honor Jackson has become the nation's 12th leading pass receiver with 29 catches for 451 yards. His latest effort was 5 catches in a 34-0 loss to Louisiana State U.

THE PEOPLE who make Gatorade are rooting for the Cincy Reds in the World Series.

According to the thirst quencher's statistician, the Reds cooled off this year by consuming 1,128 gallons of the yellow liquid while Baltimore consumed only 200 gallons of Gatorade.

The Reds may not be thirsty, but so far they've been strictly from hunger.

Coaches' Views Differ

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Are NFL coaches Dick Nolan and Tom Fears talking about the same team?

Nolan says that New Orleans has better balance than the team that won a wild 43-38 victory over his San Francisco 49ers in 1969. The two teams clash here Sunday.

"They're a lot like Los Angeles and Atlanta," says Nolan. "They come on tough. The backs do a lot of option type running. It's an explosive offense. Wide receiver Dan Abromowicz has great hands ... tight end Dave Parks can go deep."

But Fears says his Saints are "desperate for healthy running backs. We only have one, Tony Baker. We'll probably have to start Elijah Pitts and he has just joined the club."

The offensive statistics would seem to favor Fears' pessimistic analysis. The Saints have averaged only 223 yards per game and rushed for only about 92 per contest. Bill Kilmer and Ed Hargett, who will start Sunday, are passing at only a .463 pace.

But the defensive statistics might bear out Nolan. New Orleans has surrendered only a few more yards than has been gained by the offense and the defense has kept New Orleans in every game it has played this season.

Both Nolan and Fears agree that the one healthy and experienced Saints' back, Baker, is a good one. He was obtained by the Saints as a free agent but still rushed for 682 yards last year while leading the NFL with a 4.8 average.

He had 98 yards in 17 carries against St. Louis last Sunday.

FOOTBALL SLATE

Novato Facing Double Whammy

Novato High School's Hornets will be up against a double whammy tomorrow night when they challenge the Terra Linda Trojans in the first of three Marin County Athletic League football games on tap this weekend.

First, the defending champion Trojans will have the momentum of a two-game win streak going for them and, secondly, it's their Homecoming Game. Coach Don Lucas' Terra Lindans always play well before the old grads.

Other games in this third week of the MCAL schedule are Saturday affairs — Drake (1-1) vs. San Marin (0-1) at Novato, 1:30 p.m., and Tamalpais (1-1) at San Rafael (1-0), 8 p.m.

There are six other attractions on this weekend's Marin-Southern Sonoma County high school and college grid schedule, starting tomorrow, 3 p.m., with the San Rafael Military Academy hosting John O'Connell High of San Francisco.

Elsewhere tomorrow it's Petaluma at Napa in a North Bay League game and Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park hosting Analy of Sebastopol at Petaluma High, also at 8.

Saturday games find independent Marin Catholic High hosting St. Elizabeth of Oakland in Kentfield, 2 p.m.; College of Marin Tars in a Camino Norte Conference game against West Valley Junior College of Campbell at 1 p.m. on Marin's new Kentfield turf; and Sonoma State College at University of California at Davis, 8 p.m.

BROWNS' RON SNIDOW

Ex-Marin Star, Mates To Face Lions Sunday

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Cleveland Browns Defensive end Ron Snidow said Thursday the main ambition of every defensive line is "to have all four men meet at the quarterback."

"This is how we are immediately rewarded," said Snidow. "It gives you a feeling of exhilaration that cannot be fully described.

Snidow was an all-Northern California player from San Rafael High School who went on to stardom at University of Oregon.

"You have to liken a pass rush to four individual battles going on simultaneously on the line," said Snidow. "And if you beat an individual, or a pair of individuals, you've made the other team waste a down and lose yardage."

This week the quarterback Snidow and his teammates will be after is Bill Munson of the Detroit Lions.

It has taken Snidow, however, several years to develop into an effective pass rusher.

"I noticed his pass rush coming along very well from the start of training camp," said Defensive Line Coach Dick Medzelewski. "He worked hard on it and he's diagnosing plays better, too. In fact, his whole performance has been pretty consistent."

Snidow said he has improved his pass rush because he was being pushed for his starting assignment by Bob Matheson and then Joe Jones.

"I can take a great deal of pride so far, but Jones has been responsible," said Snidow. "He'll probably be a fine defensive end next year and he should become one of the great ones in Browns history."

"The one edge I've had from the start is experience and that's a very important thing," said Snidow. "It gave me the opportunity to do many things a younger man can't accomplish right away."

Raider Running Game No Laughing Matter

OAKLAND (UPI)—A lot of people laughed last season when mention was made of the Oakland Raiders' running game, but Coach John Madden says it's a different story this year.

Added experience for Charlie Smith, Hewritt Dixon getting over his shoulder miseries and an over-all improvement of the line have added to a better Raider ground game.

But an unexpected bonus has come in the form of rookie Ray Chester and Jacque MacKinnon.

"We're getting excellent blocking from our tight ends," Madden said Wednesday as Oakland prepared for Monday night's encounter against the Washington Redskins.

He was particularly impressed with Chester. "We knew Chester was a good blocker," Madden said. "That's one reason we drafted him. It doesn't do much good to have a tight end who can only run patterns and catch passes, if he can't block. Or, going the other way, it's not much good to have a guy who can block but can't catch passes."

Statistically, the figures show vast improvement indeed. Going into this weekend's games, Smith is third in rushing in the American Football Conference and Dixon eighth.

That doesn't mean that Oakland's passing attack isn't functioning. Daryle Lamonica leads the AFC with 72 completions in 133 attempts (54.1 per cent) for 1,050 yards and eight touchdowns.

And Warren Wells is second in receiving with 19 but has the most yards (402) and is tied with Roy Jefferson with four touchdowns.

Cal Loses Six Frosh Gridders: Deficient Grades

BERKELEY (UPI) — It's going to be a skimpy University of California freshman team that takes the field for its opener Saturday against the UCLA frosh.

The Cal squad was reduced to 26 Wednesday when six players were declared ineligible because of deficient grades—either low Scholastic Achievement Test scores or a high SAT score, but low high school grades.

The most publicized loss is that of George Fraser, a highly sought quarterback from Anaheim. In his case, Fraser failed to take the SAT test and it won't be given again until November.

Cars Start Warmups For Monterey Race

MONTEREY, Calif. (UPI)—More than a dozen of the teams which will participate Sunday in the $76,000 Monterey Grand Prix took warmups today over the tricky 1.9 mile Laguna Seca Raceway course.

Official trials for the next to last of the Can-Am sports car races of the year are scheduled for Friday but today there were to be secret trials for those wanting to take them. The track was to be open for a brief period with spectators barred from watching.

NEW CARS

This year's Monterey race has drawn a record 10 foreign entries with the standings taking a secondary role, simply because a flock of new cars are among those which will shoot for the lap record of 114.898 set a year ago by the late Bruce McLaren of New Zealand.

McLaren died last spring but the car in which he set the lap record, the same one he won the race in two days later, will be back. This time Denis Hulme, also of New Zealand, will be at the wheel. Hulme, who leads the Can-Am standings, can clinch the title with a high finish.

England's Peter Gethin, who took McLaren's place on the team which sits third in the standings, is another hot favorite, as is Lothar Motschenbacher, the German born mechanic who is enjoying his finest year as a pro driver.

TITANIUM CARS

A new sports car driven by Japan's Hiroshi Fuschida, a titanium car to be driven by England's Jackie Oliver and new Andy Granatelli and Jim Hall machines, to be driven respectively by Chris Amon of New Zealand and Vic Elford of England, have produced a lot of speculation.

Hall's car is a "vacuum cleaner" Chaparral while Granatelli calls his car the STP March.

Flood Says He Can't Sign Same Contract

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Curt Flood, former star outfielder for the St. Louis Cardinals who sat out the past season while challenging baseball's reserve clause, says he would like to play again, but not under a contract containing the controversial clause.

The Washington Senators have obtained from the Philadelphia Phillies, who acquired Flood from St. Louis just before he began his legal fight against the reserve clause, the right to negotiate with Flood for a possible return to the majors.

Flood is in Denmark pending outcome of his appeal of a federal judge's ruling rejecting his suit to overthrow the clause that binds a player to one club. In a telephone interview with William Gildea of the Washington Post, published today, he said he intended to pursue to the end his fight against the contractural provision.

"If I signed a contract with that clause I'd be making a big farce of my case," Flood was quoted.

NHL ROUNDUP

Kings Again Whipped By Bruins

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

There would be no stopping Phil Esposito and the rest of the Boston Bruins if they could play every game against the Los Angeles Kings.

Esposito, who has scored more goals against the Kings than any other National Hockey League player, added three more to his total Wednesday night in leading Boston to an 8-5 victory over the Kings. It was the Bruins' 12th straight game without a loss against Los Angeles in a streak dating back to Oct. 17, 1968 when the Kings last beat Boston.

HAT TRICK

Esposito, in becoming the first player to score the three-goal hat trick of the young season, rammed home two of his tallies in the second period when Boston scored five times to insure its second win without a loss this year. Ken Hodge added two goals to the Bruins' attack while Derek Sanderson, Fred Stanfield and Wayne Cashman accounted for the other Boston goals.

Elsewhere in the NHL, Chicago drubbed Vancouver 8-2, Toronto downed St. Louis 7-3 and New York shutout Buffalo 3-0.

Rookie Dan Maloney and Lou Angotti each scored two goals for Chicago as the Black Hawks won their second straight game. Maloney, the Hawks' No. 1 draft pick from the amateur ranks, opened the scoring only 50 seconds after the start of play when he beat Canuck goalie George Gardner on a short flip. Maloney got his second goal at the 30 second mark of the middle period. Bobby and Dennis Hull, Gerry Pinder and Brian Campbell also tallied for the Hawks.

EASY TIME

Toronto used four first period goals to cruise to its victory over St. Louis. Paul Hendersn, Mike Walton, Jim Harrison and Garry Monahan scored for the Leafs in the opening period. Blues' center Red Berenson notched two of his team's goals, his third and fourth of the season.

Stanford Picked By 20

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ohio State, the nation's No. 1 football team, is secure in its position at the top for at least another week according to the oddsmakers.

The oddsmakers declined to make a line for the Buckeyes' game on Saturday against the Minnesota Gophers. Two other teams in the top 10 also were off-the-board choices — fifth-ranked Mississippi against Southern Mississippi and sixth-rated Air Force against Navy. The two ranking Southwest Conference powers—No. 2 Texas and No. 10 Arkansas — are both idle.

HEAVY PICKS

None of the other teams in the top 10 were favored by less than two touchdowns, either.

Third-ranked Notre Dame was picked by 14 over Missouri and fourth-rated Nebraska by 24 over Kansas. Michigan (No. 7) was 17 over Michigan State, Auburn (No. 8) 17 over 15th-ranked Georgia Tech, and Stanford (No. 9) 20 over Washington State.

Georgia Tech was the only underdog among the second 10. Eleventh-ranked Arizona State was not listed against Brigham Young, Southern California (12) was 17 over Washington, Colorado (13) was 10 over Oklahoma, and South Carolina (14) was 15 over Maryland.

Houston, Tennessee and UCLA—all tied for 15th with Georgia Tech—also were favored. Houston was 18 over Oregon State, Tennessee six over Alabama and UCLA two over California.

West Virginia (19) was 6 1-2 over Pittsburgh and San Diego State (19) was off-the-board against San Jose State.

In other games, Virginia one over Army, Wake Forest four over Clemson, Duke 6 1-2 over North Carolina State, Princeton 14 over Colgate, Yale 15 over Columbia, Harvard-Cornell pick 'em, Georgia 13 over Vanderbilt, Illinois even with Indiana, Wisconsin one over Northwestern, Kansas State seven over Iowa State, Purdue five over Iowa, LSU 17 over Kentucky, Texas Tech five over Mississippi State, Tulane three over North Carolina, Southern Methodist three over Rice, and Texas A&M five over Texas Christian.

PRO ODDS

In Sunday's pro games, the New York Giants were 2 1-2 over Boston, Baltimore one over the New York Jets, Miami seven over Buffalo, Detroit three over Cleveland, St. Louis eight over Philadelphia, Denver-Atlanta pick 'em. Minnesota eight over Dallas and San Francisco 10 over New Orleans.

Ace Might Win Sports Editor A New Ferrari

INCLINE VILLAGE, Nev. (UPI)—Hack Miller may become one of the flashiest sports editors in the country within the next day.

Miller, of the Salt Lake City Deseret News, scored a hole-in-one in the Harrah's Hotel first Reno Invitational Golf Tournament Wednesday to become eligible to win a $20,000 Ferrari.

If no one else shoots a hole-in-one, Miller will win the new car. If there is another hole-in-one, the winner will be determined by a roll of the dice at tonight's awards banquet.

Warriors Reach 12-Man Limit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Pat Foley is finding being 13th is bad luck indeed. For the second time in two seasons, the former University of Pacific basketball star was released as the San Francisco Warriors cut down to the National Basketball Association's 12-player limit.

"Pat has only one flaw," said Warrior general manager Bob Feerick Wednesday. "And that's that he is really not a shooter."

Mexico's Pedro Rodriguez and Canada's George Eaton are the BRM driver choices for Laguna while Porsche hopes rest with Tony Dean of England, the only man to beat the McLaren team this year.

Peter Revson, in the L&M Lola, carries America's hopes. Revson, who showed great promise in the Indianapolis 500, has qualified well throughout the Can-Am series but has been plagued by minor problems in almost every race in which he has competed.

There will be additional Grand Prix trials Saturday to by followed by some amateur races. The big race Sunday goes off at 1 p.m.

Owners To Sell Saints; Jets Pick Up Vet Mercein

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The John Mecom family plans to sell its 74 per cent majority interest in the New Orleans Saints to two easterners who are part owners of the Boston Patriots, sportscaster Wayne Mack said Wednesday night.

Mack said Houston oil millionaire John Mecom and his son John Jr., had agreed to sell their majority holdings in the Saints to David McConnel and Robert Whittenhall of Boston.

McConnell and Whittenhall owns 34 per cent of the Boston club and the agreement would have to be approved by the National Football league, Mack said in his nightly sportscast over WDSU-TV.

SPORTS SHORTS

Golf

NASSAU, Bahamas, (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino and Australian Bruce Crampton are among early-entries signed to compete in the Bahamas Islands Open golf tournament at Freeport, Dec. 9-13.

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI)—Ron Howell, an American golfer now living in Sydney, and Australian Bruce Devlin both shot four-under-par 68s today to share the first round lead in the Wills Masters golf tournament.

Basketball

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Nets of the American Basketball Association Wednesday traded Walt Simon, the last original team member, to the Kentucky Colonels for an undisclosed draft choice.

In three years with the Nets, Simon averaged 16.3 points a game.

Football

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Jets Wednesday announced the addition of veteran running back Chuck Mercein to their taxi squad.

There was a good chance that the 6-foot-2, 222-pound former Yale star would be activated for Sunday's game against the Baltimore Colts.

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Forward Gary Gregor may be lost to the expanionist Portland Trail Blazers of the National Basketball Association for the next two weeks with a severely pulled thigh muscle.

Gregor, was drafted by Portland from the Atlanta Hawks with whom he averaged 8.1 point last season.

ATLANTA (UPI)—The Atlanta Hawks of the National Basketball Association Wednesday released Dave Newmark, their 7-foot reserve center, on waivers.

The Hawks acquired Newmark from the Chicago Bulls prior to last season. He averaged only 4.8 points per game for Atlanta.

The Warriors' Formal Debut

Pro basketball makes its formal 1970-71 debut day night at the Cow Palace when the warriors et the Detroit Pistons in their National Basketball sociation season opener.

he debut will be very formal courtside where a 6 p.m. mpagne dinner will precede 8 o'clock tipoff.

LADIES WILL wear long wns or pajamas. Pajamas? anklin Mieuli looked tolerantat the sports writer who ght him out for corroborain about the optional dress for lies.

'Pajamas have been very 'in' some time at formal funcns," the president of the Warrs informed the ignorant reorter whose knowledge of omen's fashions is limited to e current mini and midi conoversy.

There will be no option in the rmal attire of men attending e courtside affair. "Black e," read the order on Mieuli's nner invitations. He means it, o.

WHEN MIEULI inaugurated e courtside dinner several seaons ago for the benefit of the an Francisco Ballet Guild at 0 per couple, a reporter coverng the Warriors showed up at the press table in sports clothes.

Mieuli didn't call him an oaf but the look he gave him did. The unsuitably garbed reporter didn't know whether he was covering a basketball game or ballet after Mieuli's withering look. But the reporter knew his sports editor would never understand an expense account that listed a rented tux to cover a basketball game.

Thereafter, Mieuli arranged an alternate press table for reporters who felt uncomfortable in black tie dress and rented tuxes. Mieuli is a diplomat when it comes to solving delicate problems.

MIEULI, ALSO is a showman, too, although when he announced his first courtside dinner there were some who thought he was a showboat. Then, they found out that he was turning over all of the proceeds of the dinner to the Ballet Guild.

Mieuli actually sees basketball as a form of ballet. "It is ballet on a court," he insists.

Maybe so. But watching a basketball game in pajamas? It may sound silly. But some of the pajamas that will be on display Friday night are guaranteed to be as intriguing as minis or even micro minis.

Plunkett's Magic Number Is 214

PULLMAN (UPI) — "We'll give Jim Plunkett two footballs if he'll just stop at 214 yards," Washington State University football coach Jim Sweeney said Wednesday when asked if Saturday's game with Stanford might be halted if Plunkett makes 214 yards.

Sweeney's retort was in response to a request by Stanford officials, who asked if the game could be halted to give Plunkett the football if he hits 214 yards—the number needed to break the all-time collegiate total offense mark.

The record of 6,568 yards was set last year by Steve Ramsey of North Texas State.

"We'd be pleased to do this," Sweeney said. "I'm not anxious to see Plunkett break the record against the Cougars, but records are made to be broken and Plunkett is a great athlete.

"If we can hold him to 214 yards," Sweeney added quickly, "We'll win the ball game."

Three New Indictments; Dean Sues

DETROIT (UPI)—A federal grand jury which already has indicted 10 persons in an alleged nationwide sports gambling ring returned three more indictments naming five new defendants Wednesday.

At the same time in Phoenix, Ariz., baseball Hall of Famer Dizzy Dean, named as a co-conspirator but not charged in the first 10 indictments, filed a $14 million libel suit against Phoenix Newspapers, publishers of the Arizona Republic and the Phoenix Gazette.

The suit charged Dean was libeled by an article published in the Republican last Feb. 24, the same day the grand jury handed down the 10 indictments. It asked $5 million for general damages or "compensatory pain suffering," $2 million for special dagames for loss of business opportunities and $7 million for punitive damages.

Named in the three new indictments were: Elain Dixon, Detroit, wife of Howard Dixon, 61, indicted in February; Edward Aranosian, 46, Dearborn Heights, Mich.; Ernest Anastas, 42, St. Clair Shores, Mich.; Maron (Butch) Thomas, 51, Detroit, and Peter V. Cavataio, 40, St. Clair Shores.

NBA HIGHLIGHTS

'Old' And 'New' Knicks Triumph

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The "old" Knicks won Wednesday night and so did the "new" Knicks.

The New York Knicks, the defending National Basketball Association champions, cruised to their second straight triumph by thumping Cincinnati 128-104 while the expansion Buffalo Braves, playing with four former Knicks on their roster, began their NBA existence by downing the Cleveland Cavaliers 107-92.

Cazzie Russell, starting for the injured Bill Bradley, pumped in 29 points and Willis Reed, last year's Most Valuable Player, added 23 and pulled down 16 rebounds as New York never trailed after the opening minutes. The Knicks fashioned a 68-54 halftime lead thanks to the hot shooting of Dave Stallworth, another "sub," who hit on all eight of his shots from the floor and tallied all 18 of his points before intermission.

Don May, one of the former Knicks on the Braves' roster, led Buffalo with 24 points, a career high for the former Dayton University star. Other one-time Knicks who helped in the Braves' attack were Nate Bowman with 12 points and Em Bryant with seven. Also on the Buffalo team is former Knick Bill Hosket but he was held scoreless in the Braves' opener.

The Cavaliers, another expansion team, were led by Bobby Smith with 21 points while John Warren (yet, another former Knick) collected 14.

Rookie Bob Lanier, the $1.5 million hope of Detroit, made an impressive debut in helping the Pistons beat the Seattle SuperSonics 123-117, while Philadelphia topped Chicago 110-107 and Baltimore bounced San Diego 123-105 in other NBA action.

Lanier, playing a little more than half the game while he continues his recuperation from knee surgery, scored 22 points. Dave Bing led the Pistons with 25 and Jimmy Walker added 22 while Bob Rule of Seattle led all scorers with 37. The Pistons, trailing 66-59 at halftime, took the lead for good midway through the third period with 12 straight points.

Philadelphia, sparked by Billy Cunningham's 24 points, opened a 19 point lead early in the fourth period but then had to fight off the rallying Bulls who closed to within three points in the final minute. Wally Jones tallied 18 points for Philadelphia while Chet Walker led Chicago with 30.

Eddie Miles pumped in 16 points in the first period as Baltimore took a 35-21 lead over San Diego and the Bullets were never threatened the rest of the way. Jack Martin paced Baltimore with 28 points and John Trapp led San Diego with 20.

ALMANAC

Today is Thursday, Oct. 15, the 288th day of 1970.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

Those born today are under the sign of Libra.

On this day in history:

In 1917 the most famous spy of World War I, Gertrude Zelle, known as Mata Hari, was executed by a firing squad outside Paris.

In 1928 the German dirigible Graf Zepplin arrived in the United States on its first commercial flight four and a half days after leaving Germany.

In 1964 Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev was ousted by Kremlin leaders and replaced by Alexei Kosygin and Leonid Brezhnev.

A thought for today:: Irish-American poet John R. O'-Reilly said, "The wealth of mankind is the wisdom they leave."

Bank Sets Award For Scholarships

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Bank of America today announced a new $85,000 cash award program to honor outstanding students at community colleges in the state.

Mrs. Carol Kirtley, the bank's school awards officer, said the new program would extend the scope of recognition by including more areas of academic endeavor.

During the 1970-71 year, she said 372 outstanding community college students will share the $85,000 in cash awards, top winners receiving $2,000 each.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

Every Player Should Know All About The Murphy Law

Every bridge player should know Murphy's Law: If anything can go wrong, it will. When your contract looks unbeatable, it is your job to see that it remains so — that nothing can go wrong. Profit by the experience of South in today's hand.

SMALL CLUB

West led the seven of clubs, and South counted his tricks: five diamonds, two clubs and two spades even if the finesse lost. The hand was unbeatable. So South relaxed by taking the first trick with the ace of clubs in order to lead the queen of spades for a finesse.

West played a low spade very casually, and South thought his finesse was working. He led the five of spades from dummy and played the ten from his hand. This time West produced the king of spades ("I didn't see it last time," he explained) and led the queen of clubs to drive out South's king.

Now South couldn't get to the dummy. When the diamonds failed to break, he got only three diamond tricks and the opponents took the rest. Down two.

TEST DIAMONDS

South should win the first round of clubs in his own hand with the king and should test the diamonds by leading the ace and king. When West discards a heart on the second round of diamonds, South knows that he must lead the next diamond from the dummy in order to take a finesse through East's jack.

Declarer abandons the diamonds, leading the ace of spades followed by a low spade. West takes the king of spades and returns a club to dummy's ace.

Now declarer is in position to lead a diamond for a finesse through East. He gets his five diamonds, two clubs and two spades, making the contract.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ -A 10 4
♥ Q 4
♦ - A K Q 10 5
♣ -K 5 2.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one diamond.

The hand is too strong for an opening bid of one no-trump. If your opening no-trump promises 16 to 18 points, beware of bidding one no-trump with a full 18 points and a five-card suit as well, or with one or two extra tens. You want your partner to pass comfortably with seven points or less, and he cannot do so if you may have an exceptionally powerful 18-point hand for your no-trump bid.

Man Bound Over In Burglaries

Robert Earl Davis, 34, of Novato, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on charges of burglary and possessing marijuana.

He is to be arraigned Monday.

Davis was arrested March 23 when Novato police who stopped his car in a routine traffic check said they saw car parts valued at $1,530 which had been stolen from Dervin Ford. They also found a plastic bag of green vegetable matter.

Needy Widow Told: Sell N. American

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I hold shares of North American Car bought several years ago. You have probably read about management and other changes there recently. I am a widow and need income rather than growth. What is your advice on these shares? P.A.

A. The unresolved situation between North American Car and Flying Tiger Corp. injects a sharply speculative element for shareholders of the former company. A successful tender offer this summer by Flying Tiger increased that company's ownership of North American Car common to 45 per cent.

A newly elected board of directors, with FLY holding a majority position, then voted to seek dismissal of North American's suit against FLY and petition to the CAB. If, as seems probable, North American is consumed by Tiger, a revision in the dividend policy may follow — last year FLY distributed 5 per cent in stock but no cash dividend. Shares should be sold on any rallies and funds reinvested in equal dollar amounts of Central Maine Power and Reynolds Industries for an average return of 6.4 per cent.

Q. I am interested in Massey-Ferguson because of its $1.00 dividend. The stock has recovered from a July low of eight and is still improving on a high rate of trading. Would you consider Massey a sound investment, regardless of the unfavorable industry conditions? W.B.

A. Strikes, reduced sales and higher costs resulted in Massey reporting a substantial ($0.63 a share) loss for the fiscal quarter ended July 30. Despite this, directors declared, on July 29, the regular 25 cents quarterly dividend, a bullish sign.

Massey derives only about 40 per cent of its sales from Canada and the United States, with France, the United Kingdom and Latin America being heavy buyers.

The company has a strong and expanding position in worldwide markets. More than 36 per cent of the company's products are for nonagricultural industries, offsetting somewhat reduced agricultural shipments. While these shares are at the present time a speculation, they do have above-average recovery potential for the next few years.

Stocks Finish On Firm Note On Exchange

NEW YORK (UPI) —Stocks finished on a firm note Wednesday.

Analysts generally said the upswing was not the result of any single news factor, but rather from encouragement that the market has been able to hold firm in the face of some disappointing economic news, including a report by the Federal Reserve Board noting a sharp drop in industrial output last month.

Shortly before the close, the Dow Jones industrial average of 30 selected blue chips was up 5.25 at 768.00.

Of the 1,590 issues on the tape, 710 pointed higher, while 567 declined.

Volume of around 11 1-2 million shares compared with 9,920,000 shares Wednesday.

Closing prices included American Telephone 44 1-8, Bethlehem Steel 22 1-8, Chrysler 25 1-2, DuPont 117 3-4, Ford 51 3-8, General Electric 84 1-2, General Motors 72 1-4, IBM 293 and Southern Pacific 32 7-8.

Among the day's most active issues were Middle South Utilities, Uniroyal, Weyerhaeuser, Westvaco, Telex Corp., A. H. Robins, Natomas, Texaco, and Penn Central.

IBM was a firm spot among the electronics. A number of the oils added a point or so, while most other major stock groups generally traded in fractions, including steels, motors and chemicals.

Airlines and rails showed scattered strenght. Louisville & Nashville Railroad was on the plus side, although it reported a lower nine-month net.

Communications Satellite attracted demand. Comsat said it expects to report higher third quarter earnings. Also, Comsat and American Telephone agreed on a joint domestic satellite plan.

In the news background, the government reported a 1.4 per cent increase in the nation's Gross National Product in the three-month period ended Sept. 30. It was expected to be cited by Nixon administration officials as evidence the economy is throwing off some sluggishness.

Indiana Standard To Participate In Africa Concession

CHICAGO (UPI) — Standard Oil Co. of Indiana has announced it will participate through its subsidiary, AMOCO Minerals Co., in an international group undertaking exploration for copper and other minerals in the Katanga province of the Democratic Republic of the Congo.

The group will conduct exploration in a concession area bordering the copper complex of the Congo government-owned mining Company Gecomin and will also undertake confirmatory drilling and a commercial viability study of known copper deposits in other areas.

Other participants in the group are Charter Consolidated, Ltd., Leon Templeman Son, Inc. and the Democratic Republic of the Congo. Expected to join the group are Mitsui & Co. Ltd. and the Bureau De Recherches Geologiques Et Minieres, Indian Standard said.

Bank Of America To Open Tiburon Office, Also Plans New Building

Although Bank of America has announced it will open a Tiburon office about the first of the year in a temporary location at 10 Main Street, its permanent quarters are expected to be further north opposite the junction of Tiburon Boulevard and Beach Road.

Working plans are now in progress by San Francisco architect William Rand for a new two-story, 10,000-square foot building which Fred Zelinsky intends to have constructed at this point. But the job won't go out for bid for another four mnths — add construction time and other details and Bank of America may not take occupancy for a year.

The bank will not occupy the entire building, so there probably will be some space on both floors to be leased.

ZELINSKY, incidentally, has had approval to expand accommodations at Tiburon Lodge by 32 more rooms. But here again, construction may be quite a distrance away.

THERE HAS BEEN a change of ownership at the Netboy Shoe Salon on downtown Fourth Street, San Rafael, but it is not likely to affect the operation of the store and there will be no change in the name.

Leon J. Netboy has retired and sold to Henry Sachsman, a Southern California shoeman. Appointed store manager is Earl H. Foley of San Francisco, who was a San Rafael resident for many years. He was with the former Albert Department Store here and continued working after it became Macy's. He was also with Macy's in San Francisco for a number of years.

GENERAL NUTRITION CENTERS, INC., a national chain that is out to select store locations in several regional shopping centers, is reported to have chosen the Northgate Mall in Marin for one of its health food outlets. Occupancy isn't likely to occur much before next spring.

DR. JOHN MCGAUGHEY of Terra Linda, recently discharged from the U.S. Army after service in Vietnam, has become associated in the general practice of dentistry with Dr. John E. Jansheski in the Eagle Rock Medical-Dental Building at Tiburon Boulevard and North Knoll Road, near the Alto Wye in Southern Marin. Before going in the army he was a resident of Marin for several years.

ALAN S. WARFIELD, new resident of San Rafael, has joined the investment securities firm of Gardiner, Gries and Co., San Rafael as an account executive. He has had extensive experience in the investment field and was previously with Reynolds and Co. in the East Bay.

Warfield

Miller

JOCK MILLER, who has owned and operated Interior Systems on the Northgate Mall for about four years, has expanded into another area.

He has opened a second store at the Sun Valley Mall in Concord. Grand opening will be celebrated by both stores next week with special sales. A wall of furniture components valued at $500 will be given away as a grand opening prize. Registration may be made at either store.

ROBERT C. BURGEE, a new resident of Kentfield, has been named regional manager of the Wilson Learning Co. in San Francisco. A former Bay Area resident, he was transferred from corporate headquarters in Minneapolis. The company is involved in sales training systems and management and personal development programs.

JAMES R. ULRICH is new regional sales manager for Marvelene Extrusions, Inc. Sausalito and Torrance producer of polyethylene bats, liners and covers. Formerly with Cello Bag Co. in Seattle, he will cover the Northern California, Oregon and Washington areas.

SLOW DEATH ON INVERNESS BEACH

Richard Tanner, 10, and Leslie Plant of Inverness worked yesterday to keep a beached whale alive by pouring water over the animal's exposed skin. The whale, tentatively identified as a California Gray Whale, swam ashore Tuesday at Inverness. It was towed to sea but returned yesterday and was aided by Inverness residents who tried to prevent sunburn. Report today said the 30-foot whale died last night.

Angela Arraigned For Murder

I-J Special Report

NEW YORK — Black militant Angela Y. Davis was arraigned today on a Marin County warrant charging murder and kidnapping and held without bail for a Nov. 9 extradition hearing. (Related stories, page 6).

Her lawyer, John J. Abt, announced that his client, an avowed Communist, would fight extradition.

The arraignment, which took place shortly after midnight, followed a day of legal maneuvering which at one time found the Marxist revolutionary a prisoner of the federal government and later in the custody of New York City police.

Miss Davis, 26, was arraigned about noon yesterday on a federal fugitive charge and ordered held on $250,000 bail by U.S. Commissioner Earle N. Bishopp.

When the California warrant arrived some eight hours later, the former philosophy instructor was again brought before Bishopp who immediately revoked the bail and released Miss Davis in her own recognizance. The move was only technical, however, because a city detective immediately stepped forward and said "Miss Davis, you're under arrest."

(Marin Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said that the complaint and warrant from Marin Municipal Court were handed over to a Federal Bureau of Investigation agent early yesterday and the agent flew them to New York.)

The midnight arraignment was held before Criminal Court Judge Morton Tolleris who, in a brief hearing, set the Nov. 9 extradition date. Bail was not permissible because of the capital nature of the alleged crimes.

The Marin warrant charges the tall, slender woman with murder and kidnapping in connection with the slaying and the abduction from the Hall of Justice of Judge Harold J. Haley.

Three other persons, including two prisoners, were killed in the shoot-out which followed the kidnapping of five persons in an alleged attempt by a black teen-ager to free two Negro convicts.

Although Miss Davis was not present when the slayings and abduction took place, authorities alleged Miss Davis bought the guns used by the persons involved. Under California law an accomplice who purchases weapons subsequently used in a capital crime is guilty of the primary crime.

Also arraigned and held in $100,000 bail Wednesday was David R. Pointdexter Jr., charged under federal law with knowingly aiding a fugitive.

Asked where Miss Davis will be held when she is brought to California, Bales said, "The county jail. There is no place else."

U.S. WARNS RUSS CRISIS IS NEAR

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A series of charges and countercharges by the United States and the Soviet Union today dashed hopes that any quick settlement of the Middle East crisis could be worked out at the current meeting of the United Nations in New York.

An official of the Nixon administration accused the Soviet Union today of helping Egypt violate the Middle East cease-fire that is the basis of a U.S. peace initiative there. The Soviets accused the United States of ignoring a Soviet master peace plan and of encouraging Israel to sabotage peace efforts.

The American charge was made by Joseph J. Sisco, assistant Secretary of State for Near Eastern Affairs who had a major hand in drawing up the U.S. peace plan. He said the Russians had reneged on a clear understanding to abide by the standstill and cautioned that the risk of a U.S.-Russian confrontation in the Mideast was still "very, very real."

Israel has charged repeatedly that the Egyptians with Russian aid introduced more Russian-built surface-to-air — SAM2 and SAM3—missiles into the truce zone along the Suez Canal and moved some of them closer to the canal in violation of the standstill order of the cease-fire agreement.

Sisco said today the moves could not have taken place without Russian knowledge and assistance and said Secretary of State William P. Rogers would be armed with evidence of the violations when he meets with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko at the United Nations on Friday. It was Rogers who negotiated the cease-fire agreement.

The Soviet "master plan" was circulated unofficially by the Russian Novosti agency last month and was published officially for the first time today by Pravda, the most authoritative newspaper in the Soviet Union.

The plan calls for the establishment of demilitarized zones on both sides of the border, for the introduction of United Nations troops into a number of points and for direct guarantees by the four permanent members of the Security Council (Russia, the United States, Britain and France) or

Defeat Reds, 9-3, In Final

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Baltimore Orioles, blasting six pitchers for 15 hits, stormed to baseball's world chamionship today by drubbing the Cincinnati Reds, 9-3, to win the World Series, four games to one.

Southpaw Mike Cuellar pitched a six-hitter to win the title game, giving up all three Cincinnati runs in the first inning and then shutting out the National League champions the rest of the way.

Home runs by Frank Robinson and Merv Rettenmund paced the Orioles' assault on a hapless parade of Red pitchers. Fittingly, Brooks Robinson, who was voted the "Most Valuable Player" of the Series, came up with still one more spectacular play in the ninth inning.

The Orioles had added two runs in the last half of the eighth inning against reliever Ray Washburn for their final margin.

Cuellar, after his first-inning trouble, held the Reds without a hit for the next five frames.

The Reds, who stayed alive in the Series by winning the fourth game Wednesday after three losses, struck against Baltimore starting pitcher Mike Cuellar for three runs in the first inning.

But the Orioles came back with two in the first inning on a homer by Frank Robinson and then drove out Reds' sore-armed starting pitcher Jim Merritt with two more runs in the second inning to take the lead.

Viet Reds Reject Nixon Peace Plan

PARIS (UPI)—The Vietnamese Communists today rejected President Nixon's five-point peace plan for Indochina but the United States urged them to reconsider.

In Washington, the State Department refused to consider Hanoi's bitter rejection of President Nixon's Indochina peace plan as final, declaring it was simply a North Vietnamese bargaining maneuver.

Department officials said the North Vietnamese were merely trying to detract from "the world-wide appeal" of Nixon's five-point plan, unveiled Oct. 7, in a nationwide broadcast.

The chief delegates of North Vietnam and the Viet Cong further condemned the Nixon proposals on their arrival at the Paris peace talks center for their 88th session. They denounced the proposals as a "psuedo peace" plan aimed at allowing the Americans "to pursue their aggression."

U.S. chief representative David K.E. Bruce ignored the attacks on the Nixon plan and called on the Vietnamese Communists to give him a "more considered and constructive response."

"This is not a time for bitterness and sterile debate," Bruce said. "It is not a time for rehashing old allegations and refurbishing old preconditions. It is a time to examine how best to arrive at a settlement which can meet the reasonable concerns of both sides."

Viet Cong negotiator Madame Nguyen Thi Binh said the Viet Cong's provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam "has severely criticized and forcefully rejected the pseudo peace-plan" along with the government of North Vietnam, the Pathet Lao and government-in-exile formed by ousted Cambodian leader Prince Norodim Sihanouk. "Let there be no illusions in public opinion on this subject," she said.

Madame Binh called on the Nixon admnisitration to "reply clearly and directly" to the Viet Cong eight-point peace plan proposed Sept. 17 which she described as "reasonable and realistic."

South Vietnam's Pham Dang Lam —despite Communist rejection of the Allied plan —said its five points, including a cease-fire in place throughout Indochina, and a political settlement based on free elections in South Vietnam, offered the only "logical, reasonable and realistic basis" for a solution to the conflict in Vietnam.

The comments were the first official categorical rejection by the Communists of the cease-fire plan set forth by Nixon Oct. 7. The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese at the Paris peace talks had indicated they would not consider the proposal but had left it to top officials in Vietnam to issue an official rejection.

Lynch Kills Proposal On Bay Developments

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — A precedent-setting development proposed for San Francisco's waterfront was dead in the water today under a ruling by Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch.

The precedent, ruled invalid by Lynch, could have opened up vast areas of the bay to developments previously barred by the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

At issue was a proposal by BCDC's staff to allow bay development "for any purpose, whether or not water-related," provided the proposed fill or area to be covered by pilings were matched by an equivalent amount of fill or pilings removed by the developer.

The proposal was the basis for the controversial $120 million Ferry Port Plaza just north of the Ferry Building, which would replace several piers but extend out into the bay by the length of four football fields. And coming up was an application by U. S. Steel for a high-rise on pilings and fill just south of the Ferry Building.

The two projects include offices, stores and a hotel, uses not allowed under the restriction of fill for "water-related" purposes.

Joseph E. Bodovitz, executive director of the BCDC, told the Independent-Journal that the ruling itself did not rule out the possibility that the Ferry Port Plaza still could be approved. But he said it now would have to be justified as a "water-related" project.

Bodovitz emphasized that he never had recommended the "rule of equivalency," but had proposed it for commission consideration "in case anyone wanted to approve it." He said he made the proposal because it seemed to be the only way to tackle the problem of improving public access and shoreline appearance in areas where the bay is inaccessible and the shoreline

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — The Nobel Prize for Medicine was awarded jointly today to an American, British and Swedish scientist for nerve research that could lead to remedies for nervous and mental disturbances.

The $78,400 prize was divided among Prof. Julius Axelrod, 58, of the National Institute of Mental Health at Bethesda, Md., Sir Bernard Katz, 59, of Britain, now a guest lecturer at the University of California at Berkeley, and Prof. Ulf von Euler of Sweden.

It was the fifth consecutive year an American has won or shared the Nobel Prize for Medicine.

The award by the Nobel committee of the Royal Caroline Institute said the men were honored for "their discoveries concerning the humoral transmitters in the nerve terminals and the mechanisms for their storage, release and inactivation."

Translated into laymen's English it meant their studies had explained the mechanism guiding the transmission of impulses between the nerve cells in the human body.

Prof. Bengt Gustafsson, the new secretary of the Caroline Institute, said the three scientists' discoveries "have greatly stimulated the search for remedies against nervous and mental disturbances."

Gustafsson said the three

Woman Killed In First Soviet Plane Hijack

ISTANBUL (UPI)—A Lithuanian truckdriver and his 19-year-old son, armed with seven guns and three grenades, hijacked a Soviet airliner today and forced it to fly to Turkey. An airline hostess was reported killed in a battle aboard the plane and two pilots wounded.

It was the first known successful hijacking of a Soviet plane, although three abortive attempts were reported earlier. The 46-year old Lithuanian and his son surrendered to Turkish gendarmes at Trabzon and asked for political asylum.

The Russian plane, identified as a twin engine turboprop similar to a Fokker F27 Friendship, was on a domestic run between the Soviet Black Sea coastal cities of Batumi and Sochi with 46 passengers and five crewmen when it was forced to turn toward Trabzon.

Officials said the hijackers carried five pistols of various sizes, two sawed off shotguns, three homemade hand grenades and "a substantial amount" of ammunition.

Their names were withheld but officials said they lived in the Soviet Uzbekistan Republic in central Asia.

Unofficial reports said both men forced their way with drawn guns into the pilot's cabin shortly after takeoff from Batum.

The hostess tried to block their way and they shot her dead on the spot, the reports said. A few minutes later they wounded the pilots, one of them seriously, Turkish officials said.

The plane arrived at Trabzon at noon (6 a.m. EDT), firing flares to demand permission to land, Trabzon assistant Governor Haluk Hergok told UPI.

He said the passengers were put up at a hotel in Trabzon and the two wounded pilots hospitalized.

Turkish air force headquarters and political police slapped an immedite ban on all flights in and out of Trabzon as an investigation got underway.

Soviet officials in Moscow had no confirmation or comment on the Istanbul reports.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Three A-Blasts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission says Russia and Communist China exploded large nuclear devices an hour and a half apart Wednesday.

The United States also chose Wednesday for a relatively small underground nuclear test.

The three-megaton Chinese explosion was set off in the atmosphere. The six-megaton Soviet blast was underground. A megaton is the equivalent of one million tons of TNT.

The AEC said the Russian blast was the largest since the "doomsday bomb" tests of 1961-62, which were reported to have measured up to 58 megatons. The Chinese blast was about the same strength as the previous largest efplosions.

Bridge Collapses

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) —A $47 million bridge under construction collapsed today on Melbourne's outskirts, plunging scores of workers more than 100 feet into the Yarra River.

The Civil Defense Office of the State Premier listed 22 dead, 19 injured and 27 missing.

Phase 4 Ends

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. spokesmen today announced the official completion of President Nixon's phase 4 troop withdrawal program and the U.S. Air Force completed its pullout from the Tuy Hoa Air Base in Central South Vietnam.

U.S. military sources said the phase 4 withdrawal had actually exceeded Nixon's goal of a reduction of U.S. military strength to 384,000 men by the beginning of this week. Official figures of how far the goal had been passed would not be available until next Monday, they said.

The Phase 4 program was aimed at a withdrawal of 50,000 "troop spaces" between May and mid-October, pulling down the total of U.S. servicemen in Vietnam from the 434,000 mark last spring. Nixon said earlier this week a reduction of another 40,000 men would be made by Christmas.

Ky Visits Pope

An official Vatican spokesman gave no details of the meeting, which sources said lasted about 20 minutes.

It was the first time a Pope had conferred with a major Vietnamese government official.

Police Law Asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Policemen from 44 states massed 2,000 strong on the marble steps of the nation's Capitol Wednesday to demand stronger laws to halt attacks on lawmen.

The policemen, members of the 120,000-member Fraternal Order of Police (FOP), applauded congressmen who promised assistance in meeting their demands. The policemen came to Washington to lobby for bills making it a federal crime to kill a policeman and providing federal assistance in solving assaults on officers.

Congress will pass the bills "by the time the snow falls on the Capitol in December," Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., told the rally. He was one of the sponsors of the demonstration, held at the site of numerous demonstrations by student groups and anti-war forces in the past.

Opinion Of Agnew

WASHINGTON (UPI) — On Nov. 20, 1969, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said, "The time for naive belief in (the press's) neutrality is gone." Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex. has made a survey of 98 newspapers and found a "healthy diversity" of editorial opinion.

Agnew has implied an Eastern-dominated press "conspiracy." But Eckhardt said his survey showed 68 per cent of the papers supporting President Nixon in the 1968 elections, meaning they were "on his (Agnew's) side" too.

"The newspapers may be Republican oriented, but they are not a slave to the party and its leaders' policies," he said. "They may not be neutral but they afford a platform for diversity of editorial position on questions of important national policy."

Capote Plans To Surrender

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)— Truman Capote, author of "In Cold Blood," will surrender to Superior Court Monday on charges of contempt of court in a murder trial, authorities said Wednesday.

Capote was subpoenaed as a witness in the penalty retrial of Joseph Morse, 25, who was convicted of killing an inmate in San Diego County jail.

Capote, who visited Morse in prison, was called to testify. When he failed to appear June 22, a bench warrant charging contempt of court was issued with $5,000 bail.

PRESIDENT SNIFFS MARIJUANA

President Nixon sniffed a package containing marijuana yesterday during a Customs Bureau demonstration of how agents detect contraband drugs in the mails. Thirty packages were picked at random from the Washington post office and laid out on the front lawn of the White House. The marijuana package was planted among them and a German Shepherd guided by Harold Witt of San Francisco found it immediately. The dog also found one of the "innocent" packages, mailed from Spain, contained $1,200 worth of hashish.

School Desegregation Decision Coming Soon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nine justices of the Supreme Court who must now decide the educational future of many black school children voiced a variety of sentiment in the three days of arguments they heard this week.

But there is no way to tell when they will reach sufficient agreement among themselves to hand down a major opinion on how to dismantle dual school systems.

Tied up in the test cases from Charlotte, N.C., Clarke County, Ga., and Mobile, Ala. were such questions as: Does a black child have a constitutional right to attend a racially mixed school? What is an appropriate black-white ratio? Must a school board bus children several miles to achieve a racial balance?

What are the rights of a black child in an all-black neighborhood which did not become so by law? Is there in fact any such thing as this type of neighborhood? As time goes on, will the court constantly have to "reapportion" schools racially?

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger has already said there is a critical need for guidance to school boards faced with these and other questions arising from the court's 1969 "desegregation now" ruling. For this reason as early a decision as possible seems likely. But it could take weeks or months to formulate a majority position. Perhaps several justices will want to express themselves separately.

Burger, 63, a burly Minnesotan selected by President Nixon as a "strict constructionist" of the constitution, was concerned with whether a specific racial balance is required in schools and for how many years courts will be monitoring the situation. "If there isn't substantial room left for play in the joints, aren't you bound to have a constant problem of reapportionment?" he asked.

Justice Hugo L. Black, 84, an Alabaman and long the court's senior member, asked as to busing: "How can you rearrange the whole country? . . . You want to haul people miles and miles and miles in order to get an equal ratio in schools. It's a pretty big job you assign to us, isn't it, to try an rearrange areas in the United States where people have congregated?"

On the other hand, Justice Thurgood Marshall, 62, the only Negro on the high court, was incensed at a school board attorney's objection to busing.

Did you bus children "of tender ages" of both races past both black and white schools solely to maintain segregation?, he asked. Then, 'What's wrong with busing for the purpose of integation."

Justice Potter Stewart, 55, an Ohioan, who usually casts his vote for governmental authority, asked an NAACP legal defense fund lawyer whether he claimed it is the "personal, individual, constitutional right of a Negro child to attend throughout his school career a school not racially identifiable." A ruling to this effect would apply both north and south.

Justice Byron R. White, 53, asked whether a school board may decide for educational reasons to "educate blacks and whites together."

Justice John M. Harlan, 71, the anchor man for the conservative wing, asked, "Has a child any right to go to a particular school under the North Carolina (anti-busing) law?"

No Welfare Aid For Earners Above $7,200

OAKLAND (UPI)—No welfare aid will be given to any person earning more than $7,200 a year, the Alameda County board of supervisors has voted.

Board members also decided Tuesday that recipients must present positive identification before being granted aid and that parents must give written consent before food stamps are issued to single persons less than 21 and married persons less than 18.

Terrorists Bomb U.S. AID Mission

SAIGON (UPI)—Viet Cong terrorists set off a bomb that blew out the windown of an apartment house occupied by U.S. civilian workers today but there were no injuries. Viet Cong and North Vietnamese gunners wounded 19 Americans in shelling attacks.

Military spokesmen said 10 pounds of C4 plastique explosives went off beside an electrical generator at a building rented by the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID) for civilian employes in Saigon's main residential area.

Officials said many windows of the building were smashed and there was some damage to the generator building, the terrorists escaped.

Communiques from Phnom Pehn said the Cambodian military command sees the current lull in fighting as a possible prelude to a new Communist offensive as monsoon rains subside.

The U.S. Command reported today that 46 Americans were killed and 513 wounded in action last week. It was the second lowest weekly death toll of the year. It brought to 43,821 the U.S. deaths in Vietnam since Jan. 1, 1961.

Among the American outposts shelled overnight were a unit of the 101st Airborne Brigade 19 miles northwest of Da Nang and a position of the 1st Marine Division, 12 miles south-southwest of Da Nang. Specific casualties at each camp were not listed for security reasons.

Nixon Signs Anti-Bombing Bill Into Law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today signed into law a major link in his anti-crime program—a bill aimed at organized crime and terrorist bombings.

Long sought by the administration, the bill was approved in its final form by overwhelming margins in the Senate and House.

Separate sections of the bill deal with the wave of bombings around the nation and the long-standing war against organized crime.

The measure provides stringent new provisions to deter terrorist bombings, including the death penalty for anyone convicted of a fatal bombing.

In addition to tightening control on the interstate transport of explosives and increased penalties, the measure broadly expands the power of the federal government in the field of bombings.

It permits FBI agents to investigate and federal attorneys to prosecute bombings and arson on college and university campuses and every institution or organization which receives financial help from the government — such as publis schools and hospitals.

Two of the key provisions in the section dealing with organized crime permit judges to impose additional sentences of up to 25 years on certain "dangerous adult special offenders" convicted of crimes which carry lesser penalties; and allow special grand juries to indict or issue reports on non-criminal misconduct by appointed government officials.

Weathermen Girl Put On FBI's Most Wanted List

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Another woman was added to the FBI's Most Wanted list after Angela Davis was captured. Bernardine Rae Dohrn is wanted for advocating terrorist bombings in an attempt at domestic revolution.

The FBI said Miss Dohrn, 26, is a reputed underground leader of the "violence-oriented Weatherman faction of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS)."

She was described as 5-foot-5, 125 pounds, medium build, light olive complexion, brown eyes and dark brown hair.

Miss Dohrn, a native of Chicago, who holds a Ph.D. in law from the University of Chicago, is sought for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for mob action, violation of federal antiriot laws and conspiracy.

Experiments With 'Fright Drug' Told

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Two state-owned hospitals have experimented on violent patients with a breath-stopping and paralyzing "fright drug" aimed at literally scaring them almost to death.

Use of the drug called succinycholine and "aversion therapy" was made public Wednesday through a medical journal story although the practice has been stopped, partly because of a lack of volunteers.

More than 100 persons were reated, without their consent being asked, at Atascadero State Hospital, a mental facility near Paso Robles, said the Medical World News, a weekly for physicians.

During the treatment, the wide-awake patient experiences a vivid fear of imminent death while a therapist sits at the bedside scolding him and urging him to think before he acts.

Paralysis resulting from the muscle-relaxing drugs lasts up to five minutes and breathing stops for up to two minutes. During treatments oxygen and respirators are kept handy in case the drug slows the patient's heart dangerously. "Some of the patients describe the sensation as one of suffocation or drowning," said Dr. Arthur G. Nugent, chief psychiatrist at Vacaville where convicted persons are taken for processing. "Even some of the toughest (inmates) hate and fear this," he added. "I myself wouldn't try it for the world."

All but five of the 68 who underwent the treatment at Vacaville since 1967 had given consent, said spokesman Philip Guthrie for the Department of Corrections.

Harpy eagles devour their prey completely, and will eat a porcupine, quills and all.

BOMBED COURTROOM CLEANED UP

Workman John Rubke shovels out debris left from the bombing of a Marin Hall of Justice courtroom and women's rest room last Thursday morning. Behind him is what was the restroom. He is standing where there was formerly a wall between the two rooms. Sheriff's officers, laboratory experts and Federal Bureau of Investigation investigators finished sifting the debris earlier this week and the area was turned over to maintenance men for the cleanup. Repairs will be made later.

Judges Say They Wear Guns In Court

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — At least two Sacramento County superior court judges are carrying guns for their protection because of recent violent attacks on judges, according to the Sacramento Bee.

"We don't know what to expect these days," said one of the jurists, who asked to remain anonymous. He sat in his chamber with a pistol strapped to his hip.

Another judge reported that his wife insisted on driving him to and from the courthouse on a holiday when he wanted to catch up on a backlog of work.

"She didn't want me working down here," the judge said. "There's no telling what's liable to happen."

Prompted by recent incidents of violence aimed at judges, Sacramento County judges have formed a special committee to recommend ways of increasing court security. The panel was created after Marin Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley and three others were killed in a shoot-out at the Marin County Civic Center August 7.

Office doors in the county courthouse are now locked during trials and new, heavier locks have been installed on other entrances.

The judges also are reported considering installing an alarm or buzzer system to enable them to summon security reinforcements when an emergency arises.

In addition, the jurists are studying the possibility of requiring all persons entering the courthouse to pass through a metal detector to find concealed weapons.

Presiding Superior Court Judge William Gallagher declined to elaborate further on the security measures being considered or already installed.

"It's confidential at this time," he said. "We're considering the lives of people coming into this building — including our own."

Nixon Signs $3.1 Billion Bill To Improve Commuter Lines

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today signed into law a bill providing $3.1 billion over the next five years to help the nation's urban areas improve their commuter services.

The new Urban Mass Transportation Assistance Act binds the federal government to make grants and loans up to the $3.1 billion figure over the five fiscal years ending June 30, 1976.

The measure restricts the grants and 10-year loans to local governmental agencies, but they in turn can funnel the money to private bus, subway or railroad commuter lines serving their area.

Most of the money will go to local agencies in the form of outright grants but on a matching basis in which the local government must provide one-third of the cost of the project it proposes for federal aid.

Grants would be used primarily for purchase of rolling stock such as railroad or subway passenger cars or buses and allied equipment. The 10-year loans, carrying the private market interest rate, would be mainly for land acquisition and station construction.

Jobless Benefits Are Ruled Out For Long-Haired Winery Workers

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The State Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board has denied jobless benefits to six Paul Masson vineyards workers fired because of their long hair.

On a 3-2 decision Wednesday, the board reversed a referee's ruling granting the benefits to the workers who were fired last February after reportedly receiving complaints from visitors to the winemaker's Saratoga plant.

In a statement to the board, attorneys for Paul Masson said the employees had received two warnings prior to dismissal. They said all six identified themselves "with a general protest movement" and insisted on wearing their long hair or beards "as political and social symbols."

When Paul Masson appealed the referee's decision, the six men said any denial of unemployment benefits "would be a direct infringement upon their constitutional rights."

In its decision, the board said the granting or denying of jobless benefits "has never been dependent upon the exercise of, or failure to exercise, constitutional rights."

"In fact, in almost every case that comes to mind in which a claimant has been denied benefits the claimant was exercising a constitutional right."

For example, the board said, a claimant has a constitutional right to strike yet the legislature has denied him benefits if he does take such action.

The board said the company has every right to fire the employees because "employees with long hair and beards, who appear to be 'hippies,' certainly destroy the image the employer is attempting to present" to the visiting public.

"In our opinion the employer's request that the claimants improve their grooming was reasonable and the claimants' refusal to do so showed a willful and wanton disregard of the employer's interest," the board said.

The two dissenting board members said the majority swept the issue of constitutionality "under the rug so to speak."

"We consider it extremely inappropriate for the majority to characterize these claimants as 'hippies.'

"While the term 'hippie' is not presently capable of precise definition, generally it is associated with individuals who are unclean, drug addicted, barefooted, bearded, long haired, nonproductive members of society.

German Farmers Won't Leave Land

GOETTINGEN, GERMANY — For years, West German officials have been stressing the need for vast structural changes in their country's agriculture. In a nutshell, they say ,the number of farmers is far too great — especially in view of West Germany's future in the Common Market.

But farmers are reluctant to leave their land, even with the promise of other jobs with better pay, a survey by Goettingen's Agrarian Social Society reveals. The society sent out 40,000 questionnaires to German farmers recently to learn more about their attitudes.

Only one in six with farms up to 250 acres said they would be willing to leave for a profession they felt equally productive in another area. Another 10 per cent said they would be willing to call it quits with farming if they were guaranteed a satisfactory income from a pension — for life.

Germans Focusing On Aviation Mergers

MUNICH, GERMANY (GF)— West German aviation officials are focusing on the possibility of European mergers to meet the stiff international competition of U.S. giants.

Under the most outspoken proponent of European marriages, Ludwig Boelkow, one move has already brought three large German aviation companies — Boelkow, Messerschmitt and Blohm — under a single hat. And last year, Bremen's Vereinigte Flugtechnische Werke (VFW) and Holland's Fokker joined forces in a major multi-national merger.

But these mark only the initial steps toward the ultimate solution envisioned.

German air firms, operating on their own, are financially unable to launch construction of jumbo passanger planes and similar costly packages.

Boelkow sees two European groupings that could one day achieve U.S. dimensions. One would be a linkup of his own Munich-based triumvirate with the British Aircraft Corporation (BAC), France's recently merged Nord and Sud Aviation and Italy's Fiat. These firms have cooperated in a number of projects.

Drawing Course Has Been Added

A course in mechanical drawing has been added to the Petaluma Adult Education Program.

The course instructed by Peter J. Pracchia meets Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7 to 10 p.m. at Petaluma Senior High School.

The class is outlined for both beginners and advanced students and includes instruction in drawing and designing with mechanical instruments and the reading of plans and blueprints.

Registration may be made at any class session.

Reservation Plan For Tennis Play

A trial reservation policy went into effect today at the Mill Valley tennis courts at Boyle Park, the parks and recreation department has announced.

Persons wishing to reserve the court facing East Drive may do so by writing their names on a reservation board installed on a fence near the court no more than 48 hours in advance.

The other two courts will remain on a first come, first served basis. If the experiment proves successful the system will be extended to those courts as well.

Keane Challenged To Prove He Paints Eyes

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Margaret Keane McGuire wants to settle, once and for all, the true identity of the artist responsible for the "eyes" of the internationally-known "Keane" paintings of children.

In a recent issue of Life magazine, Walter Keane likened himself to Rembrandt, El Greco, Michaelangelo and refused to concede that anyone of them could top him as a painter of eyes.

But Margaret Keane McGuire, in San Francisco to complete work on a lithograph series, said Wednesday it was she who did all the "eyes" paintings and issued a direct challenge to her ex-husband.

"Give us both paint and brush and canvas and turn us loose in Union Square in the heart of downtown San Francisco) at high noon and we'll see who can paint eyes," she said. "I'd like that."

She said her former husband had a genius for "marketing and publicity," but he had absolutely none for painting.

"I couldn't even teach him to paint," Mrs. McGuire said. "I did the paintings. Sometimes he painted a little of the backgrounds. He was the one who promoted the paintings and sold them. I can paint and he can't.

"I stayed home and painted and did the housework," said Mrs. Mcguire, now a resident of Honolulu, "and Walter sold them in the Hungry I.

MIDEAST

by the U.N. Security Council as a whole. (Russia does not consider Nationalist China a permanent member of the Council).

"While boasting of every one of its own maneuvers as a 'new initiative,' the United States ignored the concrete, detailed and feasible (Soviet) proposals for peace and security for all countries of the Middle East," Pravda said.

"If Israeli leaders, relying on help from the imperialist circles of the United States, did not thwart the Soviet proposals, a just and durable peace would long ago have been established in the Middle East," the newspaper said.

Government officials in Egypt, which had accepted the American peace initiative and the cease-fire, immediately accepted the new Russian proposals.

The Egyptians said the Soviet plan was based on the U.N. Security Council 1967 resolution, which Egypt has always supported. Foreign Minister Mahmoud Raid flew to New York earlier this week to lead a fight in the General Assembly to urge sanctions against Israel if Tel Aviv continued to ignore the resolution.

Egypt meanwhile was busy voting in a national referendum to confirm acting President Anwar Sadat as successor to Gamal Abdel Nasser. Nearly 8 million persons, many of them women who still wept over Nasser's death, voted today and it was generally conceded Sadat would win overwhelming acceptance.

In London, Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban said tension had lowered in the Middle East because of the end of fighting in Jordan and the "fact that there is a new opportunity in Egypt." But he said the situation still is grave.

Diplomatic reports in New York said Rogers would urge an Egyptian pullback of its missiles when he meets with Gromyko on Friday.

Arab diplomats at the United Nations offered little hope for

It looked as though the United Nations would be the scene of a noisy debate as well as "quiet diplomacy" on the Middle East. Egyptian Ambassador to the U.N. Mohammed H. El-Zayyat formally asked the General Assembly to schedule a full debate as soon as possible and U.N. sources said it might be set for Oct. 26, two days after the end of the commemorative session devoted to ceremonial functions.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Union in strong terms reaffirmed its support for the Arabs. "What are the Israeli leaders counting on, the surrender of the Arabs?" Pravda asked. "Or on a weakening of Soviet aid to the just struggle against aggression? Neither is possible.

"Perhaps the people in Tel Aviv or Washington think that the Soviet position will change after President Nasser's death? Wishful thinking."

Pravda said "The moment the final (peace) document, agreed upon through the mediator of U.N. envoy Gunnar V. Jarring, is presen tdeto the United Nations, the sides must refrain from actions contradicting the ending of the state of war.

"The dejure (legal) ending of the state of war and the establishment of the state of peace begins at the moment of the ending of the first stage of the withdrawal of Israeli troops —which can be carried out in two stages —from territories occupied in June, 1967."

unattractive because of obsolete wharves or other structures or fill.

The proposed rule also could have applied to Sausalito's waterfront.

Lynch ruled that the state law that created the BCDC did not give it authority to adopt a regulation allowing fill for non-water-oriented uses. His ruling was requested by the chairman of BCDC, Melvin B. Lane of Menlo Park.

Lynch listed as such permitted uses "ports, water-related industry, airports, bridges, water-oriented recreation and public assembly, water intake and discharge lines for desalinization plants and power generating plants requiring large amounts of water for cooling purposes or minor fills for improving shoreline appearance or public access to the bay."

Lynch also pointed out that fill for any purpose should be allowed only when no alternative upland location is available.

Lynch stressed that his ruling was general in nature, thus applicable to all of the shoreline in the bay.

The commission was to take up Lynch's ruling this afternoon. Voting on the Ferry Port Plaza application had been held up pending the ruling.

Germans Seek Aviation Mergers To Rival U.S.

MUNICH, GERMANY — West Germany's largest electrical engineering firm, Siemens of Munich, is looking for improved business with Communist East Europe.

Siemens has launched a special department for that objective and the department has already landed contracts from East Germany, the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Rumania worth $13.5 million.

The firm is seeking cooperation with Moscow in the field of electronic data processing, according to a Siemens spokesman. Initial talks have already been launched, he says.

For Siemens, East European business could account for a major share of its expected rise in orders this year to $220 million (1969: $109 million). The foreign share of those totals is about 30 per cent.

For the first time, Siemens moved into the overseas computer business last year by branching into Brazil.

Companies Attempting Deliveries

Company officials reported deliveries were sharply curtailed yesterday as pickets halted drivers at stores and key street locations and turned them back to their terminals. Some drivers were said by companies to have been threatened but police reported no incident.

Some trucking firms were refusing yesterday to send their trucks into central Marin for fear of harm to their drivers.

Four companies reached this morning said deliveries were being attempted, although officials of at least two firms, Alltrans Express of California in San Francisco and Willig Freight Lines of Berkeley, said some customers were coming to terminals to pick up goods which couldn't get through.

Said Cal Sorro, terminal manager for Associated Freight Lines in Cotati, "We've been attempting to go in and deliver. We're trying to get as much through as we can.

"My instructions are that I don't want my drivers to get hurt in any way. If there's any confrontation, I tell them to get the heck out of there."

Sorro reported one of his trucks successfully made its rounds yesterday but another was turned away.

Michael McMahon, assistant terminal manager for Alltrans Express, said he dispatched one truck this morning and had at least three others waiting to deliver if the first one got through. He said one of two trucks was turned back yesterday.

San Rafael police said pickets were stationed at the Highway 101 exit at Second Street today in an effort to halt trucks.

Although Teamster officials said yesterday no picketing has been authorized, some pickets have identified themselves as members of Teamster Local 70 of Oakland.

Experts Work On New Handwriting For Computers

HANOVER, GERMAN Y— A group of German experts here has embarked on a project to develop a new handwriting style, more appropriate for the computer age.

As the German and many other experts see it, the present handwriting of the West is sadly inefficient for computer comprehension and evaluation. At the same time, the quantity of required handwriting — filling out forms, signing checks, etc. — is steadily increasnig.

Computer systems based on storing data derived from handwritten forms frequently confuse letters and numerals of the present script — for example, ones and sevens and the numeral "0" from the letter "O" or "o."

Capital letters seem likely to form a basic part of the Hanover system — especially since many firms today ask for forms to be filled out in such letters for purposes of clarity.

rally by drawing a walk with one out and he moved to second as Andy Etchebarren singled. When Cuellar lined out to right field, Reds' manager Sparky Anderson decided his gamble on Merritt had failed and called in the Red's ace relief pitcher, Wayne Granger.

But Granger, who had given up a grand-slam home run to the Orioles' Dave McNally in the third game of the Series, quickly gave up a single to Mark Belanger that scored Johnson with the tying run and another single to Paul Blair that scored Etchebarren from second with the go-ahead run before retiring Frank Robinson on a fly ball to end the inning.

The Orioles knocked out Granger with another pair of runs in the third to boost their lead to 6-3.

Boog Powell opened the third with a double to the right field wall. Rettenmund singled to center to score Powell and went to second as Big Boog slid to score despite a strong throw by Bobby Tolan. Rettenmund moved along to third as second baseman Tommy Helms bobbled Brooks Robinson's hard grounder and finally threw him out at first. When Dave Johnson singled to score Rettenmund, Anderson yanked Granger and brought in 20-year-old Milt Wilcox, who ended the inning by getting Etchebarren on a fly and fanning Cuellar.

Cuellar, after his first-inning trouble, settled down and pitched brilliantly. He retired 11 straight batters from the first inning until he walked pinch-hitter Angel Bravo in the fifth inning.

Bravo was batting for Wilcox, who was struck in the side by a line drive off the bat of Frank Robinson in the last of the fourth, the ball bounding to third baseman Tony Perez who threw Frank out at first. Wilcox, who retired five straight batters in his brief appearance, went to the clubhouse for first aid after going out for Bravo.

Tony Cloninger, the third-game loser, came in to pitch for the Reds in the fifth.

Cuellar started well by striking out the first Reds' batter, Bobby Tolan. But then Pete Rose touched off the fireworks by looping a double over the head of first baseman Boog Powell.

OBITUARIES

Olive Wall Services Tomorrow

Funeral for Olive H. Wall, longtime San Rafael resident and member of the Marin Senior Association, will be held at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow in Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael.

Mrs. Wall died Tuesday in a local hospital after a brief illness. She was 80.

Born in Minnesota, Mrs. Wall lived in Marin County at least 40 years, moving briefly to Roseville, but returning to her home at 326 First Street, San Rafael, in 1958. Her husband was the late Fred Wall.

Mrs. Wall is survived by four daughters, Gladys Johnston of San Anselmo; Florence Wyle of Georgetown, El Dorado County; Helen Hiruneth of San Francisco, and Poppy Crosby of Encino, Los Angeles County; 22 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

She was also a member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles Auxiliary.

Rosary will be recited at 8:15 p.m. today at Keaton's Mortuary. Burial will be in Sylvan Cemetery, Roseville.

JOSEPH THOMAS

Joseph D. Thomas, assistant insurance commissioner for California and a member of the governor's automobile accident study commission, died yesterday in a San Francisco hospital after a short illness. He was 64.

Thomas of 215 San Felipe Way, Novato, was born in Pennsylvania. He came to California as a child with his parents.

He was admitted to the California bar in 1930 and practiced law in Van Nuys and Los Angeles. He was a professor of law at Southwestern University in Los Angeles from 1947 to 1950. He was appointed to the insurance commission in 1961, and in 1968 was appointed assistant insurance commissioner with office in San Francisco.

He lived in Novato the past five years.

He was a member of the State Bar of California, the Stanford Law Society, Blue Goose Club and Commonwealth Club of California.

He is survived by his wife, Marjorie Thomas; two sons, Dean Thomas of Novato and William J. Thomas of Los Altos and seven grandchildren.

The funeral will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at Keaton's Chapel of Marin in Novato. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery in San Rafael.

MRS. MAHONEY

Funeral for Alice E. Mahoney of Fairfax will be tomorrow at 9 a.m. at the N. Gray Mortuary at Divisadero and Post streets, San Francisco.

Mrs. Mahoney, who lived at 78 Bay Road, died Tuesday in a local hospital following a long illness. She was 73.

A native of Ohio, she moved to California 30 years ago and to Marin County 20 years ago.

She is survived by her husband, William P. Mahoney, two brothers, Arthur and John Embree and a sister, Mable Reder.

Burial will follow the funeral at Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

OLIVIA ROWLAND

Olivia C. Rowland, long-time Marin County resident, died yesterday in her Fairfax home after a long illness. She was 82.

A native of Brisbane, Australia, she had lived in California 60 years and 50 years in Marin County, residing at 21 Marielle Drive.

She was the wife of Philip J. Rowland, former deputy county assessor and past president of the Marin County Taxpayers Association. The Rowlands celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1967.

Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Rowland was a concert pianist and graduated from the London Conservatory of Music when she was 10 years old. She was a member of the Marin Catholic Social Services Auxiliary and was known for her work in arts and crafts.

Mrs. Rowland is survived by her husband; a daughter, Margaret P. Callahan of Fairfax; a son, Philip E. Rowland of Sacramento and five grandchildren.

A Mass of Resurrection will be offered Saturday at 10:30 a.m. in St. Sebastion's Church, Greenbrae. Private burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael. Recitation of the Rosary will be Friday at 8 p.m. in Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael.

LENA YATES

Funeral for Lena Yates of San Rafael will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow in the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

Mrs. Yates died yesterday in a local hospital after a brief illness. She was 87.

A native of Germany, she had worked more than 50 years as a housekeeper in Marin and San Francisco, returning to Marin two years ago to make her home at 1000 C Street.

She is survived by a son, Harley H. Yates of Jacksonville, Fla., and two grandchildren.

Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. today in the mortuary. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

have been working independently of each other but their discoveries have all contributed in solving principal questions concerning the neurotransmitters, their storage, release and inactivation.

Sir Bernard's discoveries concern the mechanism for the release of these transmitters and are considered fundamental to the understanding of what is going on in the cells.

Bagley, Forest, Bernd Air Views

The three candidates for state Assembly today aired their views on issues from conservation to taxes.

The incumbent, Republican William T. Bagley of Sleepy Hollow is being challenger by Democrat Joseph A. Forest of Novato and Glenn A. Bernd of Sebastopol, nominee of the American Independent Party.

Bagley cited his 10 years in Sacramento as having "established a good record," including bills guaranteeing public access to public records and meetings of state bodies, prohibiting oil and gas drilling in San Francisco Bay and on the coastline from Oregon to Monterey County, transferring Bolinas Lagoon from the jurisdiction of the defunct Bolinas Harbor District to the County of Marin, transferring 11,000 acres of state tidelands to Point Reyes National Seashore, eliminating discrimination in labor union apprenticeship programs, creating the Marin County Transit District and restructuring the Golden Gate Bridge District "to bring them into the 20th Century — which I think we did."

Bagley, an attorney, noted that last year he was cited as "the most effective assemblyman of the year" by both the Capitol press corps and the California Trial Lawyers Association.

Forest said that Bagley had failed to visit personally many communities in his district, which includes Marin and Southern Sonoma. Forest said that if he were elected he would visit all areas of the district regularly, and would set up community forums to discuss issues with the public.

Forest, a senior deputy county counsel, called for judicial reform, with emphasis on "professional administration" of the courts to relieve judges of administrative tasks.

He also favored creation of a single regional agency to handle environmental problems. He said, however, that controls on air and water pollution should be "confined to realistic boundaries."

Bernd, operator of a health club, argued that his party, formed to promote the presidential ambitions of former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, offered a choice to "millions of Californians looking for a party to represent them."

He described what he termed "court coddling of criminals" and "government-created inflation," and asserted that the "crushing burden of taxation grows larger each year regardless of whether we elect Republicans or Democrats." Both taxes and spending must be cut before citizens get real tax relief, he declared.

Bernd favored expansion of private schools "as healthy competition for tax-supported education bureaucracies."

The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be rebroadcast at 10.05 a.m. Sunday.

Abatement Of Weeds Ordered

A resolution to commence weed abatement proceedings against two Tiburon landowners was voted last night by the Tiburon Fire Protection District Board.

Secretary Wellman H. Topham reported the parcels are at 20 and 22 Raccoon Lane, owned by Juanita A. Aureguy, of 2475 Mar East Street, and a vacant lot at Vistazo West Street and Lyford Drive, owned by James E. Hutson of Lafayette.

Topham said Fire Chief Franklin J. Buscher has written to the property owners explaining that the weeds represent a fire hazard, but they have not complied with his requests to clean them up.

The resolution set a public hearing on the abatement for the board's next meeting Nov. 11 at 8 p.m. at the fire station. "I hope it rains before then so their houses don't burn down," Topham said.

The board also authorized Buscher to proceed with improvements to station 2. Refurbishing of the locker room and new cabinets in the kitchen are planned, Topham said.

Directors authorized extension of a fire main up Centro West Street and installation of a hydrant in the 1900 block. The work will cost about $9,300, Topham reported.

Compost To Be Made From Street Debris

A proposed operation to produce compost from street sweepings was approved last night by the Larkspur Park and Recreation Commission, which agreed to lend about half an acre of Piper Park for the operation.

Harlan Barry, recreation director, reported today that approval was granted after Henry Ziff of 52 Millard Road, Larkspur, and a member of the Marin Ecology Center, outlined plans for the operation.

Barry said Ziff told the commission the ecology center plans to grind materials gathered by the city's street sweeping crew, mix the leavings with organic materials and store the mixture in bins at Piper Park.

Barry said the mixture will be cured in bins for 14 days after which it will be given away by the center to anyone who can use it.

The composting operation will produce two tons of compost for every 448 cubic feet of street sweepings, according to Barry.

The commission, Barry said, provided for close city supervision.

Operation of the composting center, he said, will be completely financed by the ecology center with city involvement limited to supplying the Piper Park property.

The commission also agreed last night to recommend to the city council that marshlands adjacent to Piper Park be designated as wild life preserves.

Barry said the three acres of marsh on the eastern side of the park had originally been planned for a small boat harbor on Corte Madera Creek.

He said the commission last night decided that preserving the land was a more fitting use.

The Parks And Recreation Commission Also:

PARK PLANNERS — Approved recommending the Berkeley planning firm of Arbegast and Newton to the city council for development of a long-range park master plan.

CREEK FLOAT — Agreed to recommend to the city council that it budget between $200 and $300 next year for a float on Corte Madera Creek at Piper Park for launching canoes, sailboars and other small craft.

HILLVIEW PARK — Approved designating the landscaped park in front of the Hillview Garden subdivision on Magnolia Avenue as Hillview Park and accepted it as one of the city's parks.

OPEN SPACE — Continued discussion on an open space dedication ordinance until the next meeting Nov. 12.

APPLICATIONS — Will accept until November applications for filling two seats on the commission. The seats are to be filled by youths between ages 15 and 22. The new members will be given full voting rights.

TENNIS COURTS — Approved, pending an agreement with the Larkspur School District, resurfacing two tennis courts with city crews and equipment at the Larkspur-Corte Madera School.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to the next regular meeting, Nov. 12.

WOMAN SAYS THIEF TOOK HER GRASS

A Homestead Valley woman who called to report a burglary to sheriff's deputies complained that the main item missing was $5 worth of marijuana.

Deputies said that Nancy L. Ramey of 522 Pixie Trail told them that when she returned home Tuesday she found that the pot which she had stored on her top kitchen shelf was gone along with $1.75 in cash.

Screen Incident Brings Arrest

Benjamin Skippingday of 815 Mission Street was arrested after Donald Gregory Webb of 1356 Lincoln Avenue, Apt. 5, allegedly caught him trying to force open the apartment window behind the screen.

Webb told police Skippingday first knocked loudly on the door and yelled at him to open it, but had been ignored.

Defense Ready In Court Hearing

The Independent-Journal's efforts to prove that labor actions before and at the violent Feb. 14 rally outside the I-J plant constituted contempt of a court injunction, were expected to wind up this afternoon.

Gary T. Giacomini, attorney for the I-J, said the timing would depend on how long defense attorneys cross-examine I-J photographers testifying today.

The I-J action is against International Typographical Union Local 21, Periodical and Newspaper Drivers Local 921, the Marin and San Francisco labor councils and a number of officials of the organizations. At issue is whether there were violations of a 15-rule injunction signed Jan. 23 by Superior Court Judge Thomas F. Keating. He is hearing the case, now in its seventh day.

Yesterday, the I-J put another adverse witness on the stand — Claude Beagari, son of a local 21 member and former College of Marin student now working in San Francisco.

The youth said, "I helped to put a leaflet out" over the name of the Student Committee to Support the I-J Strike, before the Feb. 14 rally, but could not remember who were other members of the committee.

He said he "had talked to somebody at 21" about the leaflet, but could not remember who, and would not confirm previous testimony that the student committee said the bill for its printing should be sent to John DeMartini, Local 21 vice president, for payment.

Attorney Nathan R. Berke, also representing the I-J, pointed out that both Beagari and a preceding witness subpoenaed by the I-J, Lili Sommer of Woodacre, were brought to court by DeMartini and conferred with the labor lawyers before testifying. The labor attorneys said all they did was tell the two to "tell the truth."

Allan Howells, I-J circulation manager, spent most of yesterday testifying. He described the I-J's internal security, for which he was responsible, and identified labor rally participants shown in a long series of photos put into evidence.

Howells related being struck on the head with a stench bomb hurled into the plant, and the damage he saw when he toured the outside of the plant after the rally.

Larkspur Man Hurt On Bridge

A 34-year-old Larkspur man was treated at San Francisco General Hospital for cuts and bruises suffered in an accident at 11:35 p.m. yesterday on the Golden Gate Bridge.

The California Highway Patrol said Ronald E. Phillips of 96 Madrone Avenue was injured when his northbound car struck a stalled vehicle operated by Scott A. Harris, 24, of 2457 Mar East Street, Tiburon.

Harris and a passenger, Carole L. Sievers, 23, of Sacramento, said they would see their doctors for possible neck and back injuries, the patrol said.

Common-Stock Buy

NEW YORK (UPI) — Varlen Corp., maker of railway anchors and other metal specialties, has bought Stanlift Corp. of Agawam, Mass., distributor of materials handling equipment, for 266,688 shares of common stock.

Commission Can't Waive Fee For Bible Classes

A request for free use of the Kenilworth Recreation Center for Bible study classes was denied last night by the Petaluma Recreation, Music and Parks Commission.

Carol Blumbell of the Release Time Bible Classes requested use of the building during the school year, but said the group could not afford the fee of $5 per meeting.

Mrs. Clifford Durham said all instructors are unpaid and donate funds for materials and supplies.

The commission said that rental fates for the building are set by the city council and that the commission has no power to waive the fees. The women were advised to make the same request to the council.

The Petaluma Reccreation, Music and Parks Commission also:

LUCCHESI — Asked San Rafael Landscape architect Sidney M. Lewin to submit written cost estimates for designing drainage, contouring and tree landscaping of Lucchesi Park from Novak Drive to Lynch Creek.

FENCE — Approved American Little League construction of a four-foot cyclone fence around the outfield of the baseball diamond at Lucchesi Park to keep unauthorized vehicles off the field during the playing season.

LA TERCERA — Heard recreation director Richard W. Schollenberger report that plans for a proposed park at La Tercera School will include two new baseball diamonds for the new little league.

DANCES — Heard a report that Roost Club dances for teen-agers have been poorly attended and losing money. The commissions said school personnel should be contacted to promote the dances among students.

SWIMMING—Due to a lack of attendance, approved the closing of the swim center on weekdays beginning Monday. The pool will be open only on Saturdays and Sundays from 12:30-6 p.m.

Crash Kills Sausalitan

I-J Special Report

KINGSBURG — A 47-year-old Sausalito woman was killed yesterday when her car skidded out of control on the Kings River Bridge of Highway 99 and plunged over an embankment.

Kayla Schaian Golden, of 28 Bulkley Avenue, died instantly. She was on her way to Los Angeles to visit her son, Josh.

She also is survived by a daughter, Dayna Golden, of Japan.

Funeral will be Sunday in Los Angeles.

Utility Board Orders Parts

Purchase of 24 water meters, 600 feet of copper tubing and a suction hose for a sump pump was voted last night by directors of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District.

Clerk Jane Boyer said the items will cost $1,200.

The board also heard a report that plans for the district's sewage treatment plant, being prepared by Kennedy Engineers of San Francisco, are proceeding on schedule. The facility will be built in conjunction with the Stinson Beach County Water District.

Directors also voted to join the Association of Bay Area Governments.

Cycle Rider Injured In Crash With Car

A 17-year-old San Rafael motorcycle rider was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with a fractured right foot suffered in an auto-motorcycle accident at 9:27 p.m. yesterday.

San Rafael police said Jerry-Lynn Keelin of 515 D Street, Apt. 16, was injured when a car driven by Craig P. Martz, 16, of 7 Gloria Drive collided with his motorcycle at Welch and First streets.

Tamalpais Board Rejects Request Of Garbage Firm

Directors of the Tamalpais Community Services District last night refused a two-year extension of a contract with Henry's Service of Stinson Beach for garbage collection in the district.

President Glenn Lambacher reported a representative of the firm asked the board to extend the contract, which expires in 1973, to 1975.

"The request was denied because we could see no advantage to the district at this time," Lambacker said.

The board also endorsed Measure H on the Nov. 3 ballot, an $11.5 million bond issue for Marin Municipal Water District improvements.

Brush Arraigned For Stealing Radios

Donovan Dean Brush, 34, of Petaluma, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of stealing radios from a boat in a San Rafael harbor on June 22.

NEW IDEA FOR UNCLE SAM

Poindexter Is Linked To Crime Syndicate

CHICAGO (UPI) — David R. Poindexter Jr., the man arrested syndicate control of another militant Angela Davis, has connections with a firm associated with the crime syndicate, it was reported today.

The Chicago Tribune said City Hall records show that officers of a landfill company have identified Poindexter as being active in their firm, although his name does not appear on official documents.

The newspaper said it called the firm's offices and spoke with Vito DeStefano, identified by a Senate rackets committee as a member of the Chicago crime syndicate.

Asked if Poindexter had appeared at the landfill firm's office recently, DeStefano replied, "No, he never comes around here," the Tribune said.

Poindexter also attended hearings last year into suspected syndicat econtrol of another company which earlier ran the landfill operation, the Tribune said.

MURPHY VIEW

LONG BEACH (UPI) — Sen. George Murphy has cited the arrest of black activitist Angela Davis to renew his charge that Rep. John V. Tunney is soft on the law and order issue.

"Now that the FBI has caught Angela Davis, he'll probably suggest she be charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor," Murphy told a group of Republican women Wednesday.

Tunney, Democratic contender for the Senate, in turn, accused Murphy of "taking the low road at the last minute in a desperate attempt to win a few votes."

Murphy declared himself "shocked and surprised" when Tunney last week announced his opposition to President Nixon's proposal that the FBI be called in to investigate campus bombings and that another 1,000 G-men be hired for campus and airliner protection against hijackers.

Tunney issued a statement Wednesday saying the FBI should be called on "campus or anywhere else where federal laws are violated."

"But I am not in favor of creating a national police force or of giving the FBI responsibility for maintaining law and order at the local level," he said. "The local police are more attuned to community situations and can more effectively deal with possible violence."

'WRONG PERSON'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The arrest of Angela Davis is a governmental attempt to "kill her off before she could utter a word," says the Northern California Communist party's chairman.

Albert J. Lima, the chairman, told a news conference Wednesday the "attempts in the press to link her with the shooting in Marin two months ago is based solely on police-informer allegations and has no basis in fact."

"The arrest of Angela is the arrest of the wrong person," he said.

BAIL MONEY

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Money to free Angela Davis was collected Wednesday night at a seminar at Lewis and Clark, where the crowd and collectors apparently were unaware she was now being held without bail in New York City on a murder charge from California.

A total of $122.21 was donated by a crowd of about 600 persons attending the seminar, "Women's Liberation and Men's Freedom." Those collecting the money said it was to go to help pay the $250,000 bail, the amount she was originally held under in federal proceedings.

House Of Fabric Reports Robbery

Four bolts of material valued at $272 were stolen from the House of Fabrics at 941 Fourth Street, San Rafael, at 8:25 p.m. yesterday, police said today.

Definite Arson In Gnoss Field Fire

The $250,000 fire early Monday at Gnoss Field was definitely the work of an arsonist, Novato fire chief Jack Kidder said today.

Firemen found that one window to the cafe had been broken before the fire, an office pilfered and some flamable liquid spread around the cafe before the fire was set, Kidder said. A lock on one of the gasoline pumps had been broken.

The fire destroyed the Blue Yonder Cafe, damaged the offices and parts department of Spectrum Air Inc. and burned a $150,00 Cessna 421 plane parked between the cafe and gasoline pumps. The plane had been leased by Sen. George Murphy for his campaign.

Oil Development

NEW YORK (UPI) — Donaldson, Lufkin & Jenrette Inc. said it has organized Lewis G. Weeks participants to acquire and develop potential oil and gas properties. Partners include Lewis G. Weeks Associates, New Court Private Equity Fund, Sprout Capital Group and Alaska North Slope Oil, Ltd.

McNears' Historic Buildings Rescued By Park Commissioners

Century-old buildings at the south end of the county's newly acquired McNears Beach should be retained, at least until their full historic significance can be established, the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commissioners decided yesterday.

Park Planner Donald Rolph said he talked to heirs of the McNear family and learned that the red building was a former store, used primarily by the Chinese colony, and the white barn was a former warehouse. Both buildings were built by the McNears about 1870.

County Recreation Director Pierre W. Joske and his staff, who had originally recommended removing the buildings, yesterday agreed with Commissioner Helen E. Newman that the buildings have historic significance and should remain.

Future use of the buildings could be studied by the Marin Historical Society, suggested Mrs. Newman. "I'd like to involve them in some way. Maybe we can work out some method for joint maintenance or use."

Commissioners approved the concept of a general plan for McNears Beach, drawn up by Rolph. The plan calls for expansion of the park to the north toward China Camp, with family day use as the primary activity. Open areas, lawns, fishing and picnicking are planned, in addition to the existing swimming pool and two tennis courts.

MacMillan said his association members are concerned about a pier with boat berths in the master plan. "When you combine bathers and boats, you're going to have problems." In addition to the danger of bathers being hit, MacMillan said a marina will bring gas and oil spillage and effluent discharge.

Park Planner Rolf assured MacMillan that the pier will be primarily for fishing, with a courtesy dock for three or four boats to tie up at the end of the pier.

Marin Parks And Recreation Commission Also:

CREEK ACCESS — Set a public hearing for the evening of either Nov. 12 or 18 to hear arguments pro and con on allowing bicycle and pedestrian access to Corte Madera Creek banks between Bon Air Bridge and College Avenue in Kentfield. Mrs. Ellen Larkins, who owns property at 19 and 21 Stadium Way, has erected fences that block pedestrian and bicycle access for about 200 feet on the north bank of the creek, from Stadium Way eastward to the stilling basin.

FAIRGROUNDS — Approved a resolution asking the county supervisors to let the County Parks and Recreation Commission participate in the planning of the Civic Center fairgrounds area.

PARKS CONFERENCE — Appointed Albert J. Boro and Herbert C. Leney as a committee to work with Louis Stewart of San Anselmo on a countywide parks and recreation conference to be held next February. Stewart, who works for Pacific Gas and Electric Co., offered to take pictures of county parks and prepare a slide show for the conference without cost to the county.

BIKE PATHS — Voted unanimously to ask the county supervisors for a county ordinance banning motorized vehicles such as motorcycles from using the county's bicycle paths, and prohibiting the parking of cars on the bike paths.

PARK ACQUISITION COST — Received a report from County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell, which shows that acquisition and development of county parks in Marin during the past six years cost less than one cent per year on the county tax rate. This comes to 60 cents per year for the owner of a $30,000 home. The rest of the cost was borne by federal and state funds and private contributions.

Corn Blight Disaster Area Is Called For

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., has asked the Agriculture Department to declare the southeast states a disaster area because of corn blight damage.

Talmadge said some farmers in Georgia have told him their fields are yielding only 10 bushels an acre this year, compared to a normal yield of 70 to the acre. He said similar conditions may exist in Alabama, Florida, the Carolinas and Mississippi.

BOMB BLAST DAMAGE

Officials in Cambridge, Mass., inspect yesterday's bomb blast damage in a third-floor library room of Harvard University's Center For International Affairs. An anonymous woman caller said the blast, which did $40,000 damage, was "dedicated" to Angela Davis, a fugitive radical arrested a few hours before the early morning explosion.

Water Board, Meadow Club Closer To Rent Agreement

The Marin Municipal Water District board came close yesterday, but failed to end its seven-month controversy concerning the lease of 162 acres of land to the Meadow Club.

The board was informed by Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger that a district negotiating team had reached an agreement with the Meadow Club on the rental price of the land.

The club's 44-year-old lease, which runs until the year 20000, contains a clause allowing the district to review the rental price every 10 years. The club has been paying $40 a month.

After two appraisals and five months of discussion and public criticism, the board in August agreed that a fair rental price would be $700 a month plus either an annual review of the price or an escalation clause.

Seeger told the board yesterday that he, board president Robert G. Anderson and director Jordan L. Martinelli Jr. met with Meadow Club representatives Tuesday and that after two hours of discussion it was agreed that a fair price would be $700 a month with the condition that the price be modified annually in accordance with the appraised value of the land as established by the Marin County assessor.

The addition of the escalation clause would have dropped the district's right to review the price every 10 years.

The board appeared ready to approve the agreement yesterday when director-elect Eugene A. Miller warned against dropping the 10-year review clause from the lease.

"The board has been and will be the target of some very extreme criticism for leasing to a private club," Miller said as he urged the directors to make sure the district was getting "the best deal."

Director John M. MacPhail Jr. agreed with Miller and said he didn't like the idea of locking the district into a price for 30 years.

The district's attorney, Robert W. Elliott told the board that from a legal standpoint all the club had to agree to was a rental price.

Changing the terms of the lease, such as adding the escalation clause, was not required, Elliott said.

With Miller warning that "there are people mad enough about this they're threatening a taxpayers' suit," the board agreed to have the negotiating team meet again with the Meadow Club and attempt to get the club to agree to the $700 a month plus escalation clause plus 10-year review.

If the district and club cannot reach agreement on the price, the matter according to the terms of the lease would go to binding arbitration.

The club has been paying $480 a year for the land it uses for its golf course, and the new rental price, whenever it is agreed upon, will be retroactive to January 1970.

The Marin Municipal Water District Also:

SEWERS — Continued until Nov. 12 a hearing on the district's plan to form an improvement district to finance a preliminary study of a Southern Marin sanitary district. The continuance was requested by a district advisory board made up of representatives of the sanitary district which would be included in the new district.

BRIDGE — Awarded on the low bid of $29,859 a contract to Jorgensen-Davis Inc. of San Anselmo for construction of a reinforced concrete bridge at Pine Mountain Tunnel Road.

PIPELINE — Awarded on the low bid of $19,201 a contract to Soiland Co. of Novato for relocation of a pipeline at San Quentin. The work was made necessary by a proposed widening and realignment of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard East near San Quentin Prison.

TANK SITE — Awarded on the low bid of $7,798 a contract to Grover Wilson of San Rafael a contract for paving the Escalle tank site and access road in Larkspur.

VALVE — Approved purchase of a butterfly valve for 1,570 from the North Marin County Water District. The district has valves on order but the manufacturer cannot give a definite delivery time and one valve is needed immediately.

POSTAGE — Approved purchase of a postage machine for $969 plus an annual maintenance fee of $67 from the Friden Division of Singer Co.

FEE — Approved payment of a $640 fee to the law firm of Riede and Elliott of San Rafael for service in connection with a law suit involving the district.

LITIGATION — Approved retention of the San Francisco law firm of Landels, Ripley and Diamond for approximately $500 to represent the district in an antitrust suit for concrete meter box purchases.

EQUIPMENT — Approved rental for $889 a month of an International Business Machines Corp. magnetic tape typewriter and composer.

LANDSCAPING — Directed construction of a Fern Canyon storage tank continue, but put over approval of landscaping plans until they are submitted for comment to the Mill Valley Planning Commission.

AWARD — Presented an award from the California section of the American Waterworks Association to Eldon Halseth, the district's San Geronimo Valley area supervisor, for equipment innovations.

DEPRECIATION — Removed from he district equipment ledger $251,892 worth of equipment which no longer exists and approved a revised depreciation schedule to conform with the state's schedule. The revision removed $5,273,619 of paper value from the district's books.

PAYMENT — Approved filing of a notice of completion for construction of the San Geronimo Valley pump house and semifinal payment of $6,298 to Page Construction Co. of Novato.

REHABILITATION — Approved semifinal payments on two district rehabilitation program projects and final payments on two others for a total of $10,291 to Earl E. Gilson, of San Anselmo.

MEETINGS — adjourned to 1:30 p.m. Oct. 29, instead of the regularly scheduled Oct. 28 because there will not be a quorum that day.

A Legal Snarl In Tate Case

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The prosecution in the Tate murder trial Wednesday produced a letter Susan Atkins allegedly sent a former cellmate after the woman told police Miss Atkins had confessed to the slayings.

A legal hassle developed over whether the letter was admissible as evidence, since in it Miss Atkins implicates the other defendants as well as herself.

The same legal issue prevented the cellmate, Ronni Howard, 39, from telling the jury all the details Miss Atkins told her about the killings.

She was permitted to testify only to what Miss Atkins admitted doing herself, and she said the dark-haired defendant said she personally stabbed the pregnant actress.

Rodent Hairs Found In Butternut Bars

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration says it found rodent hairs in samples from a batch of 433,000 Hollywood Butternut candy bars, most of which already has been been sold.

It said consolidated Foods Corp. of Centralia, Ill., asked its vendors to return the candy on Sept. 16, but only an estimated 57,600 of the bars were unsold by that time.

Chain Collisions On Bridge Injure Two

A series of accidents on the Richardson Bay Bridge yesterday sent two persons to the hospital and damaged six vehicles, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Officers said the first accident occurred in the northbound lanes at 6:15 p.m. when a car driven by Michael D. Seeber, 32, of 17 Seadrift Landing, Tiburon, slowing for rush hour traffic, collided with another vehicle. He was treated at Marin General Hospital for multiple scrapes.

The other driver, Larry K. Holman, of 143 Jewell Street, Apt. 4, San Rafael, was uninjured.

Officers had just cleared away the wreckage at 7 p.m. when a car reportedly darted in front of an auto driven by Ralph E. McGlothlen, 64, of 21 Oakdale Avenue, Mill Valley, who said he had to stop suddenly.

The patrol said his car then was struck by one driven by Mattie R. Peterson, 64, of Sonoma, which then was struck by a car driven by William J. Ellwood, 58, of Oakhurst, Madera County, which was in turn struck by an auto driven by Robin L. Dunn, 19, of 332 Cardinal Court, Tamalpais Valley.

X-Ray Office Back In Business

The clinic was closed last Friday when the lone laboratory technician came down with flu.

Ursula Abee, health education secretary, said the X-ray clinic hours are: Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday — 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and 2 to 4 p.m.; Thursday — 1 to 6:30 p.m.

IT'S FOR RENT

An Indian Island Looks To Past

OLYMPIA, Wash. (UPI) — the ad may someday read:— "For rent, one 1,500-acre wilderness island. Comes complete with Indians and a variety of wild animals. Perfect for large outdoor gatherings of all kinds."

While the Squaxin Indians have not yet taken to the hard sell, they are renting the small Puget Sound island which bears their name to non-Indians who want to see how the country looked more than 100 years ago.

The rental package includes use of the island and a dinner of salmon, shellfish with all the trimmings cooked Indian style.

Squaxin Island, a narrow slip of land about four miles north of here is ideally suited as an out-of-the-way retreat. About 200 deer live among the towering Douglas firs and clams and oysters abound off the beaches.

The Indians acquired the island in 1855 in trade for land that is now part of the city of Olympa. Once on the island, they built paths instead of roads and have successfully resisted all attempts to link their island with the mainland by bridge.

But the isolation had its bad side and the last of the Indians moved to the mainland about 15 years ago so their children could attend public schools.

While the island has since reverted to its natural state, there have been small concessions to civilization.

The state got a toe-hold on Squaxin with the purchase of five acres which has been turned into a marine park. The Indians also sold large chunks of their island to whites.

However, there were a few important strings attached to the land sold to non-Indians. First, the Squaxin tribe retained ownership of all beaches and tideland. The Indians also require a special identity card for their own people and will not let non-Indians cross their land.

"Some white land owners can reach their property only at very high tide," said a state official who has worked with the tribe.

In addition to other restrictions, the Indians have taken it upon themselves to patrol the waters around the island to make sure unwanted visitors do not reach shore.

However, the pressure has been are afraid and tribal officials are afraid soaring land values may soon prompt individual Indians to sell island holdings to real estate developers.

It is here that the State Planning and Community Affairs Department entered the picture. Director Richard Slavin's staff has started a land use study for the island and staff member Ron Clark said $5,000 in federal funds should be available soon.

Clark said there is a "very good chance" the study would indicate the island should be left as much as possible in its natural state.

Coffee Tonight

A coffee for Esther Anne Smart of Larkspur, nominee of the American Independent Party for state Senate, will be held at 8 p.m. today at the Larkspur home of Raymond C. Kesner, 113 Sycamore Street.

Art And Garden Center Elects New Officers

Hugh Paterson has been elected vice president of the Marin Art and Garden Center.

He fills the vacancy left by John Dowling, who resigned due to business pressures. Paterson, a retired school teacher, has long been active in the Garden Society of Marin, a center founding group.

At a general meeting Monday, prior to the board meeting, Fred Herschleb of the Marin Society of Artists was elected a director and Carl Riznik of the Ross Valley Players was reelected for another term.

District Proposed To Study Combined Sewage Agency

The Southern Marin Sanitary District Advisory Committee last night reaffirmed its stand that a special assessment district be formed to study the feasibility of a combined southern Marin sewage agency, but temporarily sidestepped the controversial issue of who should administer such a district.

The committee last night said it felt the district should be formed to finance the $190,000 study of Southern Marin sewage needs and went so far as to outline the goals of such a study.

The committee stated:

"The major goal is to evolve a long-term plan for the treatment, reclamation and disposal of waste water in the Southern Marin area . . . the resulting report should be in detailed form sufficient to serve as a regional master plan for the southern Marin region and adequate to serve as a firm basis for request for funding from state and federal sources and/or bonding."

If the committee's recommendation is approved by the Marin Municipal Water District and the assessment district is formed, taxpayers within the district will be assessed approximately 12-cents per $100 of assessed valuation for one year to pay for the study.

The water district board recently came within an eyelash of shelving the proposal when major rifts among advisory committee members over who should administer a combined sewage district appeared.

It had been proposed that the water district act as the administrator of the combined sewage district, once formed. However, one member of the advisory committee, Douglas De La Fontaine, a director of the Richardson Bay Sanitary District, objected, saying he felt an elected body should govern.

The issue surfaced briefly last night but was quickly submerged again after members said such a decision could be made once the feasibility study was underway.

The members did tangle briefly last night on who should conduct and administer the feasibility study.

Both De La Fontaine and James MacNichols, who represents the Homestead Valley Sanitary District, said they felt an outside consulting firm should be used. Member Paul Stecher, of the Alto-Sewer District, opposed, saying the study could be handled by the Marin Municipal Water District staff as much as possible.

The members closed the meeting by agreeing that a project administrator should be hired or appointed to head the study, but left unsettled who should do the hiring and under whose authority such an administrator would fall.

The committee will meet again next Thursday at the water district office to discuss the advisory committee's role during the study in addition to further discussion of how the administrator should be hired and to whom he would be responsible.

Anti-Douglas Drive Slows

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, who will be 72 Friday, can relax for awhile. Congressmen who were after his scalp a few weeks ago have abandoned their campaign to unseat him for this year.

Conservative-minded leaders of the Douglas opposition admit there is no longer any possibility in this session of Congress of forcing his impeachment. They have accused him of associating with gamblers, advocating revolution and writing for a pornographic magazine.

They say they are now looking toward the 92nd Congress that convenes in January to mount a new campaign.

Cannon Holds Hand For A Third Term

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Oddsmakers in this gambling state say Democratic Sen. Howard Cannon holds a good hand for winning a third term, but he may need an ace in the hole against a blue-chip opponent carrying a "law and order" banner.

William Raggio, 43, a district attorney at Reno for 12 years, heads a "dream ticket" Republican chiefs arranged with the help of a telephone call from Vice Present Spiro Agnew.

Raggio wanted to run for governor, an office being vacated when Republican Paul Laxalt retires at the end of this term. Lt. Gov Ed Fike wanted to run for governor, too. Agnew's call broke a deadlock at the state GOP convention. He said Raggio was the man to beat Cannon and promised plenty of administration help.

Agnew led a parade of high administration officials who came to Nevada to boost both Raggio and Fike, who have stressed the "law and order" theme and put their opponents in the "ultraliberal" class.

They face heavily Democratic voter registrations, but Nevadans tend to ignore their party affiliation. Laxalt lost to Cannon by 84 votes after a recount in 1964 despite 2-1 Democratic registrations. He beat the same odds in 1968 to lead a Republican landslide felt over the entire ballot.

In mid-October, pollsters said Raggio was gaining although still some distance behind Cannon, while Fike struggled to hold his lead against a tough-spoken, one-legged ex-marine named Mike O'Callaghan.

Raggio, while accusing Cannon of "coddling" campus demonstrators, spoke out against "radical elements and revolutionaries." He took issue with the University of Nevada administration for dropping charges against an instructor accused of using four-letter words in his class. And he drew strong support when he said a state supreme court ruling that a condemned killer should have a new penalty trial, seven years after his conviction, was the "most shocking and outrageous" in the court's history.

Cannon, 58, shrugs off as "carpetbaggers" the Nixon officials who came to the state. He stresses the value of his seniority to this thinly populated state. To Raggio's charge that he has blocked administration social and anti-crime programs, Cannon replies he votes with the administration when he thinks it is right and against it when he thinks it is wrong. He blames the administration for inflation and unemployment, which is higher in Nevada than the national average.

Fike, 45, a businessman in Las Vegas where there has been racial stife in the schools, advocates outlawing the Black Panthers. One of his television commercials shows jail doors clanging shut after scenes of student demonstrators.

O'Callaghan, 41, former state welfare director and federal government official, uses the "common man" campaign technique with considerable success. When Fike invited wealthy individuals to $1,000 per plate breakfasts and luncheons, O'Callaghan countered with a 99-cent barbecue in a park.

The outcome of the race is complicated by two other candidates. Daniel Hansen of Reno is the Independent American candidate and Charles Springer of Reno, a former Democratic official who broke with the party, is running as an Independent. Democrats late in the campaign were attempting to block his candidacy in court.

Nevada's only member of the House of Representatives, Democrat Walter Baring, seems assured on a 10th term against J. Robert Charles, a former hotel-casino security man.

Headlands March Set For Sunday

An all-day hike through the Marin Headlands, with options for less than a full day's travel, will be conducted by the San Francisco Bay chapter of the Sierra Club Sunday.

Many city and county officials have been invited, and the public is welcome, according to Norton Meyer of Sausalito, one of the hike leaders.

The walk will start at 8:45 a.m. from the fire station at the top of Spencer Avenue in Sausalito, just off Highway 101, where there is ample parking space.

Hikers not wishing to go the full 11 miles may drop out at 10 a.m. or after lunch. The complete hike will end at 4 p.m.

The purpose of the hike, Meyer said, "is to give people a chance to see firsthand the land that conservation groups are trying to establish as the Golden Gate national recreational area."

Hikers will cross Wolfback Ridge, follow Marincello Ridge, pass the Witter Ranch and stop for lunch at Pirate's Cove on the Pacific south of Muir Beh.

The afternoon's route will be through the Wheelwright Ranch and Mount Tamalpais State Park lands to the tourist club off Panoramic Highway near the Mountain Home Inn.

Hikers wishing to end the walk at 10 a.m. should arrange to be picked up at the gate to the Witter Ranch on Tennessee Valley road just beyond the Marincello entrance. Those wishing to stay only through lunch should be met at about 2:30 p.m. on Highway 1 at Muir Beach Road.

Transportation will be furnished from the tourist club to the Mill Valley bus depot or back to the fire station on Spencer Avenue, Meyer said.

The terrain is rough and fairly steep in spots, so good hiking boots are a must. Hikers staying later than 10 a.m. should carry lunch and drinking water.

Danes Supporting Common Market Try

COPENHAGEN UPI — Denmark has the backing of its people in its application, along with Britain, Ireland Norway, for membership in Europe's Common Market.

A survey shows 68 percent of the population approves the application, although 49 per cent think there should be a national referendum on the matter.

Hub Measures Approval Would Fund Budget Cuts

Its general fund tax rate scraping the legal limit, the city of San Anselmo has two measures on the Nov. 3 ballot in hopes of funding items shaved from the budget in August.

A third, if approved, would reduce councilmen's salaries by $25 a month.

The first two measures call for a 9-cent special tax for two years beginning with 1971-72 to provide $52,000 for a new fire engine and $52,000 for upgrading city streets.

Pushing for a new fire engine that would be financed by voter approval of Measure E, Fire Chief Francis A Sousa notes in his argument that the city has 22-year-old and 31-year-old engines.

HARD SERVICE

"Due to excess years of continous and hard service these engines are undependable," he said.

"To keep San Anselmo's high class-three rating which provides us with the lowest fire insurance rates in the county, we must have dependable fire fighting equipment," the chief said.

Judy Emis of the San Anselmo Civic Action Committee of the Irate Taxpayers of Marin — who wrote the opposing arguments to all three propositions — countered by blasting the city council.

"The San Anselmo councilmen in placing the fire engine proposition on the ballot are attempting unfairly to force the voters to make a decision that they, the councilmen, although being responsible for, were either disinclined or unwilling to make," she said.

TOWARD MASTER PLAN

She suggested voting down the measure and forcing the city to allocate $17,600 set aside — but not to be used this year — toward a master plan.

Mrs. Emis of 27 Olive Avenue urged a like fate for the street repair measure, Proposition F.

"There is presently in the budget money for embroidered uniforms for street employees," she claimed. "We feel this item and others such as landscaping should be cut to bring our tax rate down during this critical year."

She admitted the streets need repair, but blamed the backlog of necessary work on the present council, which, she charges, delayed street repair for "certain favored projects which have now been completed."

Mrs. Emis didn't describe those projects.

Arguing for Measure F, Public Works director Charles R. Leitzell pointed out that many city streets that should have surface maintenence at least every seven years have never had any maintenence.

"As a result, if something is not done within the immediate future, several streets will have to be completely rebuilt resulting in increased cost to the taxpayer.

He blamed the disrepair on inadequate funds caused by the legal ceiling on the general fund and the predominance of local residential streets on which gas tax funds can't be used.

Measures E and F together would mean an increase of $621 per year to the owner of a $30,000 home, but Measure G would mean a slight reduction in the overall tax rate of $2.35 per $100 assessed valuation.

While telling voters in the argument against Measure F that "necessary items should have first priority and frills cut out," Mrs. Emis, nevertheless, opposed a cut in councilmen's salaries.

The measure, if approved would reduce the maximum salary from $75 per month to $50 — a total cut of $1,500 a year.

Favoring the salary proposition, Councilman Warren R. Perry said, "This reduction will not affect the city government as San Anselmo has traditionally been served by men and women who give their time and efforts as a civic contribution rather than as a means of supplementing their income."

He pointed out that councilmen were not paid prior to 1967 although state law permits a salary of $150 per month.

Mrs. Emis countered: "Councilmen occasionally have to give up an afternoon to attend meetings and a working man may not be able to afford to lose a half-day's pay without some sort of compensation. If it is repugnant for an individual councilman to accept his pay, he may quietly turn it back to the city like others have done in the past."

However, she said she doesn't want the council to turn into a "rich men's club."

"To cut $25 per month from each councilman's salary is only a drop in the bucket in comparison with the $1,473,341 currently imposed on the taxpayers for San Anselmo city government," she said.

The measures were placed on the ballot because the city had a general fund rate of $1.70 per $100 assessed valuation — 18 cents above the legal limit before street repairs and the fire engine were cut.

Buildings Cause Many Bird Deaths

TORONTO (UPI) — Two Toronto skyscrapers have caused the deaths of about 4,500 errant birds which fly full speed into them.

A maintenance worker at the 56-story Toronto-Dominion Center said that usually about 10 birds a day are killed, but on foggy days there have been as many as 350 victims. Toronto is in one of the world's greatest bird migration runs.

Electrical Tool Changes Are Used

FRANKLIN, Pa. (UPI) — To speed production of its coal mining equipment, Joy Manfacturing Co. here is using electronically-controlled tool changers, systems that contain and operate some 100 different tools that do everything from drilling to cutting.

Each tool goes to work automatically when needed, following a program prepared in advance on a role of perforated tape. The company says it saves time and space by being able to perform so many steps at one place and not having to move work about to various stations.

Milk Man Has New Counterpart

NEW YORK (UPI — The old-fashioned milk man has a modern counterpart — the man who goes from house to house to house delivering bottled water. So reports the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute, saying that sales of pure, fresh bottled water are booming in this pollution — conscious era.

More than 700 companies are now supplying water in glass bottles. While some deliver it to the consumer's doorstep, most sell through supermarkets. Large amounts also are used in factory and office water coolers.

Marin Transit Firm Drops Bid With PUC

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Marin Transit Systems' application to expand service in Marin County has been dropped by the California Public Utilities Commission in light of its pending lease for similar service through the Golden Gate Bridge District.

The Marin City-based company asked to withdraw its application, and the PUC staff agreed to the withdrawal as "in the interest of saving paperwork."

The company is about to operate an hourly service linking Novato and Kentfield, but the operation will not be subject to PUC jurisdiction because the lease is with a public entity. Public entities are not subject to the PUC's jurisdiction.

Jesse Hebert, vice president of the company, told the Independent-Journal that additional equipment for the North Marin service will be leased or purchased if needed.

16 Or Younger

The Junior 49er Minor Club, meeting today at 7 p.m. at the Mill Valley Community Recreation Center, is open to those 16 yearss old or younger, not 16 or older as reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

Injunction In Teacher Strike

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Claiming he was preventing "irreparable harm" to 290,000 school children, a judge has issued an injunction against a threatened teachers strike.

Judge Theodore L. Reimel Wednesday granted an injunction sought by the Home and School Council against the Philadelphia Federation of Teachers.

The Union, representing 11,500 public school teachers, had threatened to strike Friday. A 30-day cooling off period arranged by Gov. Raymond P. Shafer ended Wednesday, with no contract agreement.

Representatives of the teacher's union and the city Board of Education went to Harrisburg today to report to the governor on the continuing negotiations.

Union attorney Leonard M. Sagot said he would appeal the injunction order.

Missing Jewelry Value: $18,000

Police said the jewels were discovered missing from a locked cabinet in the residence of James A. Lill of Lagunitas Road when the Lills returned from a trip to Europe Sunday.

Friends of the Lills were staying in the home while the couple was away between Sept. 13 and Sunday, police said, adding that an investigation was continuing.

Guitarist To Play Sunday At Church

Classicial guitarist Phillip de Fremery of San Anselmo will present a concert Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael.

A native of Marin, de Fremery, 24, is a graduate of the San Francisco Conservatory of Music and is presently artist in residence at the San Francisco Theological Seminary.

Harrison To Be Installed Saturday

Michael J. Harrison will be installed as master councilor of the Novato chapter, Order of De Molay at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Druids Hall, Novato.

Allen Benelli will be installed as senior councilor and Brian Beverly as junior councilor.

Thena Maynard will be installed as the chapter sweetheart.

Harrison, 18, is a freshman at Santa Rosa Junior College, having graduated from San Marin High School last June. In high school he participated in cross-country running and played in the school band. Last spring he was awarded a special De Molay achievement award. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton E. Harrison of 1116 Olive Avenue, Novato.

Tamalpais School Officials On Tour

Tamalpais High School Trustee Bette Wallace and administrator Robert B. Falge are participating in a week-long tour of city school districts conducting education experiments in community action and technical and vocational training.

The two left Sunday and will visit districts in Dallas, Detroit, Minneapolis- St. Paul and Denver.

Law Against Noise Held Long Overdue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There ought to be a law—a law so simple that even lawyers and judges could make it work—against noise made by anybody that disturbs anyone else.

"It should," says Theodore Berland, "be an enforceable law which would be perfectly constitutional, would hold up in court, and which would be effective on a person-to-person level.

"It should be a law that allows you to take to court the person at the next desk who always shouts over the phone so loudly that you can't conduct your own phone conversation, or

"The next door neighbor who constantly makes annoying noise, or

"The operator of a jet which whines over your home every night at 1:30 a.m., or

"The hot rod driver who screeches his tires as his exhaust resonators roar down the street, obviously faster than safety allows . . ."

"How sweet," continues Berland, "it would be if we could instantly arrest noisemakers on the spot and take them to a magistrate who would ask them to defend themselves."

Nevertheless, something surely has to be done about the increasing din which threatens to turn us into "a shouting civilization that is hard-of-hearing, jumpy and nervous, and suffering from premature heart disease."

Berland, a Chicago science writer, has just published a book, "The Fight For Quiet," which tells in well-reached detail what noise is doing to us.

Noise is unwanted sound. It may be anything from the whine of a vacuum sweeper to rock music ("sonic mayhem") or the sonic boom ("that most devilish of all of aviation's noises").

Berland documents evidence that noise, even the sort of noise to which we think we have become adjusted, not only hurts hearing but also inflicts physiological and emotional damage. It can be a threat to life, as when it drowns out a shouted warning of danger.

"Noise annoys us; frightens us; makes our working conditions dangerous; imposes on our secret dreams at night; and interferes with our speech, our appreciation of music, our viewing of television at home, our whisperings in what we take for granted to be the privacy of our homes.

"All of these invasions and violations of our persons have effects on our efficiency and on our sanity."

Those who could afford it in times past took individual action against noise. The poetess Amy Lowell when she stayed in a hotel took the rooms above to insure against invasions by other people's noise. So did Joseph Pulitzer, the owner of newspapers.

The rest of us have to use other means. Berland's message to everyone who suffers from the effects of unnecessary noise is "make yourself be heard."

Assault the bureaucracy. Make it listen to the desire of the people for the "right" to quiet. Train your children to believe that "noisiness is the rudest behavior." Join anti-noise groups.

Political campaigns have been waged on many themes. Maybe it's time for a campaign pledge of "peace and quiet."

"Only by fighting," says Berland, "can we win the struggle for quiet. And we will win, or we will all drown in the rising area of noise . . ."

There are an estimated 83 million television sets in the United States.

Professor Would Legalize Grass

LOS ANGELES (UPI) Stanford law professor John K plan said Wednesday that tl only way to control the use marijuana was to make it lega tax it heavily, restrict sale those above 18, and supervis sellers.

Kaplan, 41, told a Town Hal audience that marijuana and alcohol should be treated essentially the same.

"The prohibition of alcohol didn't work and did more harm than good," he said. "The same will happen with marijuana. You have to have some kind of licensing system."

He said that marijuana has its dangers "but so does aspirin and cold tablets. Aspirin kills several hundred people a year in the United States."

Blacks Boycott Church Session

HOUSTON (UPI) — A controversial funding program sponsored by the Episcopal Church provoked a walkout Wednesday by a black caucus at the church's 63rd General Convention underway here.

The boycott move was ignored by Dr. John Morsell, an Episcopal layman from New York, who was substituting as a panel speaker for Roy Wilkins head of the NAACP.

The presentation was scheduled to air various views on the General Convention Special Program GCSP, a controversial funding program that has granted nearly $5 million to minority and powerless organizations in the past three years.

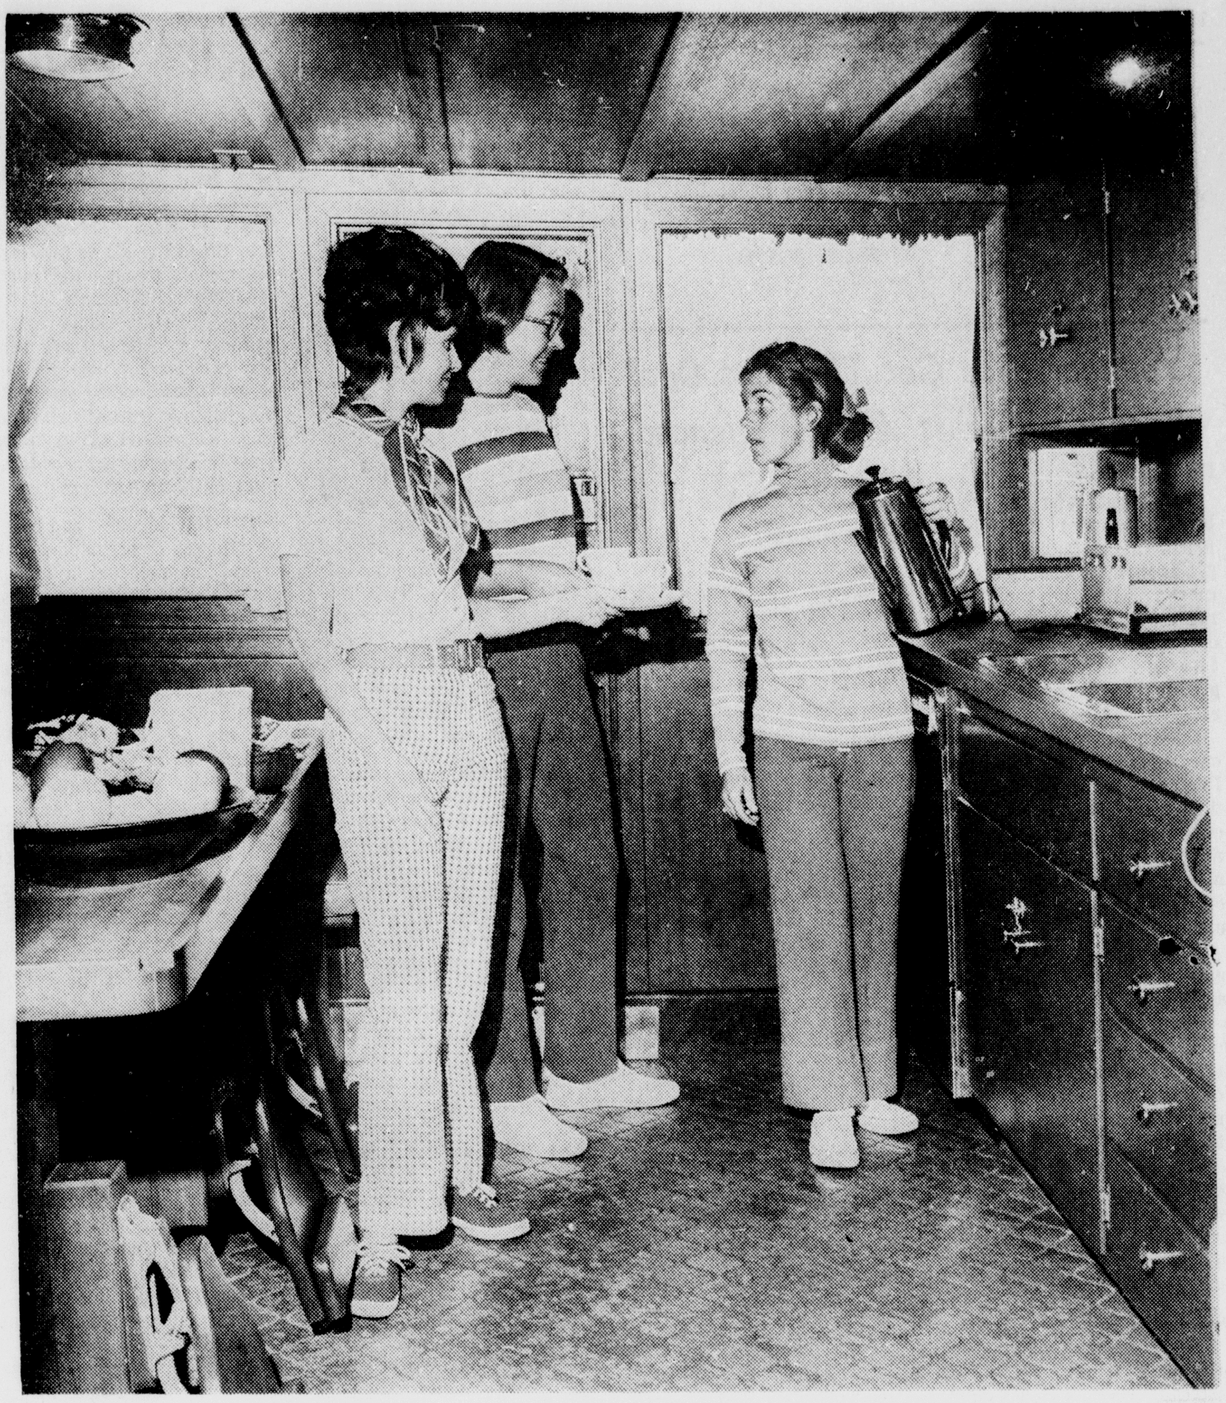
THE COMFORT and elegance of an older living room is available aboard the 96 foot power yacht "Principal" tied up in Sausalito, but being readied for the public tour in San Francisco Sunday. Visible at rear is the large fantail area which seats large groups of cruise guests.

(I-J photos by Alfred Arn)



IT LOOKS like a kitchen but it's the galley aboard the "Principia" which features a double brass sink with one sink set in deep, a garbage disposal and other electrical appliances familiar at home. The yacht also is fitted out with crystal chandelier fixtures in the deck salon, a carpeted engine room and a desalinization plant. Here tour committee members Mmes. James P. Costello, Tracey Van Voorhees and J. Stewart Lyons check the galley's equipment.

Yachting's Finest On Tour

With most of Marin bounded by sailing waters and a tremendous interest in yachting, Marinites will have a chance to see how 15 of the bay's famous yachts are fitted out and furnished when the Ross Valley Nursery School parents present a yacht tour Sunday on "millionaire row" at the St. Francis Yacht Club in San Francisco.

From 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. sneaker-clad tour-goers can fantasize about how it feels to command a luxurious power craft or sleek racing yawl, with proceeds from the day going to the non-profit parent-run nursery school located on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in Kentfield.

On the tour will be such racing yachts as "Athene," owned by James Wilhite and familiar to Marin yachtsmen; the "Andale," and the "Resolute," owned by Dr. W. R. Westerhoff of Larkspur.

Also open on tour will be the 78 foot brigantine "Rendezvous" and the historical "Yankee" built in 1906 and owned by Bob Ford of Ross; another Ford-owned vessel, the motorsailer "Adios II"; the fiberglass "Yellow Bird;" the "Arequipa"; "Rowena," "Cedallion" owned by Tracy Van Voorhees of Ross; the famous "Santana" which is readying to make a world cruise in June; Tom Short's "Tasco III;" "Nike," and the 96 foot luxury yacht "Principia" of Sausalito, as well as the classic "Electra" of Sausalito.

Yachting clothes will be shown by the parents' cooperative of the nursery school during the tour, which is headed by Mrs. J. Steward Lyons of Ross. Models and hostesses will be Mmes. Blaine Boyden, Richard Erickson, Tracy Van Voorhees, James Hadfield and Stewart Menist.

Mmes. Lyons and Robert Bos are ticket chairmen, and tickets will be available at the yacht harbor during the tour. Tour guests must wear tennis shoes, Mrs. Lyons advises.

Protect Trick-Or-Treat Children

BOSTON (UPI)—The National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) yesterday urged parents to give maximum protection to children in preparing the younger set for Halloween trick-or-treating.

The NFPA issued a series of safety tips parents should keep in mind when planning costumes and decorations for children and their parties.

Among them:

—Stay away from outfits with yards and yards of material in baggy sleeves and billowing skirts. Costumes should also be short enough so children won't trip on them and light enough to make them clearly visible to motorists.

—Children should never carry a pumpkin lighted by a wax candle. Don't set a candle-lighted pumpkin on a doorstep where it could be brushed by children's costumes and don't use them indoors where they could start a fire.

The NFPA also reminded parents masks shouldn't interfere with vision and recommended a "natural" mask of cosmetic make-up or charcoal applied to the skin.

More In 20s

In the next five years, the population of the 20 to 29-age group will increase by 8.5 million. The over 55-age group will add 4.5 million.

Mrs. Unruh Enjoys The Campaign Trail

By JOAN LISETOR

"People are like adrenalin to me," says Virginia Unruh. "I never get tired when I am around people; it's only when they leave that I get weary."

On the campaign trail for her husband, Democratic candidate for governor of California, she is on the go about 12 hours every day. She was in Mill Valley yesterday to attend a luncheon in her honor, hosted by the Marin County Democratic Women's Division.

This is the first of her husband's political campaigns in which Mrs. Unruh has taken an active part. In the past her political efforts have been concentrated on headquarter operations, fund raising and local Democratic activities.

"What an opportunity campaigning is to see California and meet the people," she says. "It is so much fun that everybody else should do it — meet each other without an excuse."

Born in Lincoln, Neb., the former Virginia June Lemon lived on a farm until she was 8 years old, when the family moved to California. She was reared in her husband's assembly district in Southern California.

The Unruhs, who met in Corpus Christi, Tex., where he was in Naval Air Corps training with Virginia's brother, will celebrate their 27th wedding anniversary on Nov. 2, the day before the California election. They have five children, Bruce, 23; Bradley, 21; Robert, 19; Randall, 18; and Linda Lu, 14.

Mrs. Unruh expressed her views at a press conference held prior to the luncheon.

WOMEN'S LIBERATION — She does not agree with everything the movement stands for, but she says some things are pretty good, especially the movement's stand on child care centers. The centers would help welfare mothers who could leave their children while they learned skills, then get into the work force and on the tax rolls. Getting them off welfare is important to the family's dignity and to raise the level of it's mental health.

DRUG PROBLEMS — We must treat the cause of the problem, which is often peer pressure. The problem is everywhere but mostly in upper middle income and depressed areas. Children don't want to be different than their classmates, and many parents would be surprised that their children have been pressured into using marijuana. Severe punishment is not the answer.

LEGALIZING MARIJUANA — Legalizing it wouldn't take the pressure off anymore than legalizing alcohol did. Alcohol is a health hazard, but we gloss over it because it is legal.

PRESSURES OF LIFE — We have to slow down and emphasize creativity. Life is too fast for many young persons to cope with and so they run away to drugs.

POLITICAL PARTICIPATION — Every American has the responsibility to make a contribution to politics. Everyone should become involved, but should inform himself first. It is a cop-out to say, "There isn't anything I can do about government," because letters to legislators are effective because politicians feel that each letter repersents five or 10 votes.

Just more of you to love

We have never believed that the human race (feminina) ends with size 14 or that fashion does either. Because it's true of neither. Which explains why at our place we refuse to be size-bound. In fact, we take the larger view . . . bringing even to size 20 the beauty, eclat and that personal "you-ness" which every woman desires. All part of our Women's Liberation Campaign to make fashion fit you, not you fit fashion. Best thing is to come in to our highly sensitive store - pants, suits, dresses in 20, galore. HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Younger Kids Get The Best Deal Because Parents Are Experienced

DEAR HELEN:

These girls who feel slighted because they're the third or fourth in the family, and don't get as many snapshots taken, or maybe have to wear hand-me-downs. I think that in many cases they're emphasizing little things and overlooking the greater benefits of being youngest.

I have two older sisters and one older brother. I know that I've gotten more privileges than they ever did because my parents sort of practiced on them and were relaxed when I came along. I got to date sooner, stay out later, and I was much more understood than they were.

Maybe the family album has more pictures of the first born, and maybe she got a few more wedding presents. She might even still be grandma's favorite, but she had to break ground for the others — and obey a lot more kind of stupid experimental rules.

DEAR HELEN:

I don't think you sympathized sufficiently with "Lonely and Left Out" whose parents didn't pay as much attention to her as they did to the older sisters and brothers when they were her age. You even admitted that you yourself were guilty of taking gobs of pictures of your oldest child, while the youngest only had a few in the album.

Only selfish, cruel and insensitive parents treat their children unjustly, and there is no excuse for it. It makes me boiling mad when I hear of parents who favor one child over another. — MRS. M. S.

DEAR MRS. S.:

My educated guess is that you either haven't started your family or it numbers no more than two children (which is plenty these days, of course.)

Our youngest is quite relieved that we only recorded her best moments, while our oldest will go down in history as the unclothed kid with spinach on his chin (plus being the subject of a hundred other embarrassing photographs, always dragged out at the wrong times!) — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I try to think I'm not left out, but Helen, for the past three years I haven't even received a card or a happy birthday wish, while my sister gets nice presents and sometimes even a party. She's two years older.

Last year for Christmas she got a brand new bike with a shift, and I got the old one she didn't want any more. Nothing else.

In lots of other ways I get the feeling I'm not wanted, and I don't know why because I don't cause a lot of trouble or fight or anything. What's wrong? — UNNOTICED

DEAR UNNOTICED:

Your parents are wrong, that's what. Perhaps they feel, because you are younger, you don't need equal recognition. By the time they wake up, they may have lost their second child.

Meanwhile, try not to brood about seeming favoritism. If you tell your folks how hurt you are, they may change before it's too late. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

The Midi Skirt Will Stay Through Spring Collections

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Anyone who thought the onslaught of the midiskirt was just a wintertime thing is in for a rude awakening. It goes right into spring, endorsed by some of the most influential designers in the nation's garment center.

Donald Brooks, an early exponent of the midi, continues it. Mollie Parnis, who wavered a bit in her last year's fall collection has come over to the longer length. So have Pierre Cardin in his American collection and Christian Dior-New York, who were among the designers opening their spring collections for the nation's store buyers and some press to see.

"IT IS OUR belief that the midi is the right way for ladies to look," Brooks had told UPI. "It's not a matter of forcing anyone to wear a certain look, just allowing her to look different than she did in other years. She can adapt it to her figure, enjoy it, or loathe it."

Yesterday's opening schedule was one of the heaviest days in this multi-billion dollar industry, with showrooms packed as buyers looked first and then made dates for returns to order.

And what were the women buyers wearing? Either the midi, or the Great Alternative, the pantsuit.

The buyer shows will continue through the first full week of November.

Coverup was the dominant mood with falling skirts, throughout the daytime collections. But some of the designers got right carried away with bareness for evening. Brooks, for one. The designer who's "dressed" several Broadway shows undressed his models through the middle for evening. Numbers of low-riding "hipster" pants for at-home or somebody else's home parties were topped with bolero-length (ending just under the bosom) blouses with full, long sleeves. Usually, these were in bright orange tones, solid or patterned.

BUT THE slinkiest and barest of all was his "bathing suit dress," nothing but a skimpy bra top with hipster pants, all in black crepe. Other Brooks pajamas for lounge or party were in bright oranges, slit all the way up the front to upper thigh.

EVERY DESIGNER showing offers a woman the alternative to the midi—the pants costume. Either it's coat and trousers coordinated or jacket and trousers. Brooks showed some of these with coats or jackets ruffled at collar, down the front and around the hemline.

Brooks' clothes retail from $200 to $1,000.

Designer Mollie Parnis wishes everyone would forget the hemline issue for a while. Her spring collection, covered by UPI's Carolyn A. Bowers, was a show of fabrics more than lengths.

"Ever since I've been in the business have I had so much difficulty obtaining fabric," Miss Parnis said. She didn't say why. All of her materials were imports, the lightweight wools, crepes and chiffons.

She kept the style of dresses simple and unconstructed looking. "When we could get shape and keep the dress or tunic without a waistline, we did," she explained.

Most pants were featured with shirt-styled tunic tops, long enough to be worn alone as a below knee dress.

Her prices ranged from approximately $100 to $300, about the same as last year, a spokesman said.

ONE FIRM believing that hemlines are a "seasonal affair" showed spring skirt lengths shorter than the ones featured for fall, which were mid-calf. Teal Traina said that "there is no reason why lengths can't be longer in fall and come up a little in the warmer weather." So saying, his models paraded daytime dresses hitting just below the knee or a few mid-knee.

The firm's prices remained the same as last season, from $125 to $300 retail. "This house very strongly believes in maintaining prices," a spokesman said. "It's not easy today ... but we find there is a big resistance at the retail level when you go too high."

Christian Dior-New York, with a new designer on the scene, showed maxi length coats, dresses and skirts. But there was a peek-a-boo touch to many, with slits in the front, back or sides so that when the models swirled the skirt petals flared out, showing thigh-high flashes of leg.

"THE MINI won't come back for a long while," the Dior designer, Francesco DeLeo, a graduate of New York's Fashion Institute of Technology, told UPI's Patricia McCormack. "Women are going to be very feminine again and that includes (wearing) hats and gloves."

The Cardin collection included what has become the midi "uniform"—ribbed turtleneck, long-sleeved sweater and long skirt with wide patent or vinyl belt.

Prices in the Dior collection ranged from approximately $275 to $1,150 retail. Cardin's started at over $100 and went to over $1,000.

Arthur Smiths Of San Anselmo Honored At A Surprise Dinner

By MOLLY MARIN

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith, longtme San Anselmo residents, were honored Oct. 3 at a surprise dinner party honoring their 25th wedding anniversary.

The party at Lin Fa Gardens restaurant in Terra Linda was hosted by the couple's children and their wives and husband, Messrs. and Mmes. Marcel Campredon of South San Francisco and Louis Campredon and George Carli of Terra Linda.

Married Oct. 7, 1945, at St. Anselm's Church in San Anselmo, Art and Alma had both been widowed for many years. For many years they owned and operated Art Smith's Variety Store in San Anselmo, retiring three years ago.

Among the many friends and relatives at the party were Henrietta Von Staden, Gladys Lowney and Louise Maschio, all of San Anselmo.

The Smiths' grandchildren are Gary Campredon and Matt, Mark, Mike and Christine Carli of Terra Linda and Mrs. Ron McGee and Dennis and Kim Campredon of South San Francisco.

THE TWO high school-age daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. Trow Cutter of Mill Valley, Kitsy and Karen Cutter, are spending a semester studying in Switzerland with the Foreign Study League. The two toured Europe for six weeks this summer prior to beginning their studies. Locally Kitsy is a senior at Sacred Heart High School in Menlo Park and Karen is a junior at Marin Catholic High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Cutter recently returned from a month's trip along the Spanish coast and to Majorca, with a stop-off to visit the girls. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Tomblane of Mill Valley near Seville, where Mr. Tombulane is working as an engineer on a mining project.

IMMEDIATE NEIGHBORS on Bay View Avenue were invited to tea yesterday at the Hal Kipps' home to meet Mrs. Robert Bernheim, who has just moved to Belvedere, although she has taught second grade for the past seven years at Belvedere School. Susan and Robert Bernheim were married on Aug. 2 at a small family ceremony in San Francisco.

MR. AND MRS. Charles A. Doll of Mill Valley are the grandparents of a son born on Sept. 24 to their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford E. Pehl Jr. in Pasadena, Tex. Mrs. Doll has just returned from a visit there.

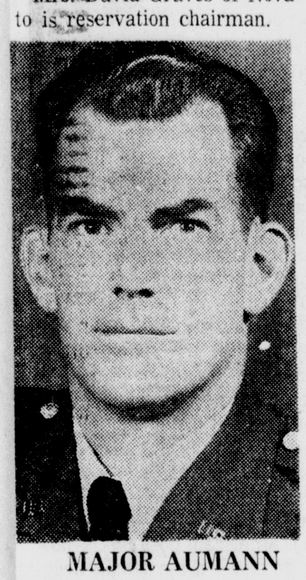
'Fox And Hounds' Car Rally Set On Sunday For Clipped Wings

Members of Clipped Wings and their husbands will dine at a restaurant Sunday if they can find it from the directions and clues given to them at the start of a "Fox And Hounds" car rally and race to the restaurant.

The husband and wife teams will meet at the Marin French Cheese Factory, near Petaluma at 2 p.m. for a tour of the factory and wine tasting. They will then be handed a list of directions and a sealed envelope with the name of the restaurant to be opened only if the couple gets hopelessly lost. Back country roads will be marked with washable paint clues and prizes will be awarded for the couple with the lowest mileage and the couple with the most correct clue answers.

Mrs. David Graves of Novato is reservation chairman.



MAJOR AUMANN

CAMBODIA: "A Soldier's Story," told by Major Rome V. Aumann is featured program on national defense for the Monday meeting of the El Marinero Chapter, Daughter of the American Revolution at the Greenbrae home of Mrs. Richard E. Mittelstaedt.

Major Aumann will talk about the war in Vietnam and pacification efforts there. Presently assigned to the Sixth Army, Presidio of San Francisco, he served in Vietnam as director of data processing at the 34th General Support Group at Tan Son Hunt Airfield near Saigon.

THE NATIONAL Organization for Women (NOW) Marin Chapter has announced that it has a new pamphlet available on NOW's purposes and national goals, as well as its local action priorities. The Marin Chapter is holding meetings twice a month, with emphasis on obtaining equal employment and business opportunities for all women, changing education institutions to offer courses on the study of women that expose historical biases against women, ending sex discrimination in textbooks, counseling, and on school faculties, and seeking quality child care facilities in Marin.

The chapter also will assist women in filing complaints of sex discrimination in employment. The pamphlet is available from NOW, P.O. Box 2924, San Rafael.

BYRON LEYDECKER, President of Redwood Bank, will address members of Central Marin's League of Women Voters at a luncheon on Monday at 12:30 p.m. at the Christ Presbyterian Church in Terra Linda.

Leydecker, a member of the League's Men's Advisory Committee, will officially open the League's annual finance drive by discussing contributions made to the community and to Marin County by the league.

THE PRESIDENTS Assembly of Marin will hold its autumn meeting on Monday at the Sausalito home of Mrs. Sally Stapp. An 11 a.m. board meeting will be followed by a luncheon.

THE PETALUMA Whirlers will host a hoedown for all square dancers at the Kenilworth Recreation Center from 8:30 p.m. to midnight Saturday. Guest caller will be Don Black of Daly City.

GRADUATES OF both the Santa Rosa Junior College School of Nursing and the vocational nursing program have special events planned to coincide with the 26th annual homecoming at the college Saturday.

Alumni of the School of Nursing will meet from noon to 1 p.m. in the faculty lounge of the Doyle Student Center. Following a business meeting there will be a 2:15 p.m. social hour.

Also at 1 p.m. will be a tea for persons who were in the vocational nursing program. Lasting until 3 p.m., the event will be held in Room 224 of Baker Hall.

GEORGE HURLEY, a teacher at Grant School, Petaluma, who recently returned from one year in Canada, will speak at the school's Parent-Teacher Association meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the kindergarten room.

Hurley was an exchange teacher in Ottowa last year and will make a slide presentation on his experiences. Hurley's former students and their parents may also attend.

THE NOVATO Stump Jumpers Square Dance Club will hold its "Third Saturday" dance at 8:30 p.m. Saturday at the San Jose Junior High School in Novato.

Guest caller will be Johnny Barbour. Hosts will be Messrs. and Mmes. Bernie Heare and Gary Condry.

October's Plentiful Food Buys

WASHINGTON (UPI) — USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service reports that food shoppers will find a fair supply of meats, fruits, and vegetables to choose from this weekend.

Best supplies of red meat will include beef roasts and steaks, and ground beef. Broiler-fryers will be in best supply at poultry counters.

Fruits in best supply will include apples, bananas, and dried prunes. Frozen concentrated orange juice also will be in good supply.

The Department of the Interior reports canned salmon, fish sticks and portions, and canned tuna in excellent supply.

Foods on USDA's plentiful foods list for October are fresh apples, applesauce, apple juice, pork, broiler-fryers, dry beans, canned peaches, canned salmon, onions, eggs, potatoes, and dried prunes.

Fruits and vegetables in best supply include apples, bananas, grapes, pears, cabbage, onions, potatoes, and tomatoes.

Marion Massara To Become Bride

Mr. and Mrs. Marco W. Massara of San Anselmo, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Marion, to Philip Bruccoleri, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bart Bruccoleri of Novato.

A February wedding is planned by the couple.

Marion is the sister of William Massara and the granddaughter of Mrs. Catherine Massara of San Anselmo. A graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School, she attended College of Marin and is employed by Fox and Carskadon, Inc., Realtors in San Rafael.

Philip was graduated from San Rafael High School and San Joaquin Delta College in Stockton. He is employed by the California State Department of Corrections at San Quentin. Christine Bruccoleri is his sister.

Ballot Measures B And C: The Painless Money Raisers

If an award is ever offered for the taxing agency that devises a method for raising the most money with the least pain to the rate-payers, Marin Community College District should get it.

Measures B and C, which the college district has put on the Nov. 3 ballot, combine a major money-raising program with a temporary tax cut.

They would finance a whole new college on the property the district has purchased in Novato and provide funds to staff and operate it — still with a tax rate which would (at least for the foreseeable future) not rise much beyond this year's.

For next year, the twin proposals even offer a tax cut of 9.3 cents per $100 valuation.

MEASURE B would replace the district's present 35-cent operating tax and 35-cent special building tax with a 60-cent operating levy.

Measure C would finance construction of the second campus to handle 2,200 students, plus completion of facilities at the Kentfield campus, through a $16,920,000 bond issue.

Bond retirement and operating tax increase together would initially total less than the district's taxpayers have to pay this year.

The formula is complicated, but it appears to be as nearly fool-proof as any formula can be when based on projections of what will happen in the future.

PROJECTIONS of College of Marin enrollment up to now have proved highly unreliable. The 35-cent special building tax was predicated on enrollment growth less than half what has actually occurred.

While the district's assessed valuation has doubled in the last decade, the college's enrollment has quadrupled.

But the rapid increase has leveled off. This fall's enrollment is virtually identical with that of last spring. So the new projections may not be so far off.

The college district is committed to the second campus. The 35-cent special tax was voted in 1962 to finance it along with additions at the Kentfield campus. That it failed to do so was due to a combination of rapid monetary inflation and even more rapid enrollment growth.

FOR THE COLLEGE district to be able to make good its Novato commitment with a combination tax-and-bond package as painless as that it now offers is pleasantly surprising.

The tax measure requires only a simple majority. The bond issue requires two-thirds — despite a recent contrary ruling by the California Supreme Court.

Both must pass to make the program work. Both deserve overwhelming support from residents of Marin Community College District.

We do not hesitate to recommend "yes" on Measures B and C.

"For once I can vote 'yes' on a school bond without raising my taxes!"

AFFAIRS OF STATE

By JACK COOPER

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — When the State Department of Water Resources awarded a $27 million contract to build the Perris Dam at the southern end of the State Water Project, it included work on recreational facilities around the future 100,000 acre-foot reservoir.

This seems like a sensible way of operating, and director William R. Gianelli says that while it increases the cost of the contract, it will mean savings on the recreational facilities over the long haul.

YOU MIGHT BE surprised to learn, however, how long and fruitlessly some of our legislators, including Sen. John F. McCarthy of San Rafael, have argued with various state agencies that this is the way to operate.

The alternative, which appeals to those who confuse the size of the cash outlay with true economy, is to let the construction contract at the lowest figure possible and, sometime after completion, advertise for bids on the subsidiary facilities.

Meanwhile the cost index will have gone up, a new contractor will have to mobilize equipment and get it to the construction contract at the lowest figure possible and, sometime after completion, advertise for bids on the subsidiary facilities.

Meanwhile the cost index will have gone up, a new contractor will have to mobilize equipment and get it to the scene, and the original apparent saving will have vanished to be replaced by extra expense.

There is a third choice, which applies to susidiary facilities which are expected to be financed by local agencies. That is that the subsidiary facilities, usually for recreation or conservation, will simply not get built.

What would have been a moderate extra expenditure when the prime original contractor was on the scene with all his forces has now become a new and expensive item that the local agency simply cannot afford.

A LOT of Californians do not know that one of the reason's for the plenitude of attactive and useful parks along Oregon's highways is that the highway contractor, while he was on the scene with his equipment, was given the additional job of doing the heavy work in preparation for the park.

As a result, Oregon has one of the lowest unit costs for parks of any state.

It would be a wrench to California conservationists to learn that this park construction, and in fact the whole park activity in Oregon, comes under the jurisdiction of the Oregon Highway Commission.

This has worked well in Oregon because it has avoided the California situation of having two agencies with two philosophies at each other's throats, and it has resulted in utility having equal weight with beauty in that state's parks and beaches.

HERE IN CALIFORNIA we stumble over the question whether a park is to be used and enjoyed or merely contemplated with reverence.

Humboldt County is the location of many of California's more contemplative parks and untouchable beaches.

Humboldt County folks, however, have a great tendency to head for Oregon when they want to take the family to enjoy a camping trip in the forest or on the beach.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Fringe Benefits Should Be Added

The Independent-Journal has recently published a list of salaries of county and district employees. Your paper stated that it would continue to do so for public information.

I appreciate this effort to keep the public informed.

I personally object to the fact that fringe benefits for these positions are not listed. Pension funds and both health and dental benefits can amount to a substantial amount of money, especially in the tax dollar saved, included in the total salary received. Your published salary schedule definitely does not reflect these figures.

May I ask you to revise these figures and publish the corrected schedules?

MRS. A. H. BOYER

(The fringe benefits provided various classes of public employees are so complicated that the I-J despaired of being able to publish a correct list showing them. — Editor)

Series Of Questions On Laws, Justice

Instead of increasing security measures, would listening to the search for justice and democracy be a more effective way to peace?

It seems that the "innocent until proven guilty" bit of democracy is not always respected.

We hear of the "quota" that policemen are supposed to meet.

The courts are so overscheduled and backlogged that it is a disgrace to experience the time wasted and the mental anguish of waiting to be heard, and the continuance of cases.

How many of our laws are the result of money power and /or lobby power, not justice and freedom? If our laws are really for the safety of the citizn, let's enforce the necessary ones and abolish those that are really over-legality measures.

How can we urge our youngsters to respect authority when many times they (our young) are not shown respect?

How can we teach our youngsters honesty when they hear how persons can flash a badge or ID and be released from a citation for speeding, etc.?

Let's really get down to facts and figures and do something about living freedom — freedom for everyone.

People will be law-abiding if laws are abidable. Let's work at making them so.

Marin Deputies' Conditions Easier?

An open letter to Supervisor John McInnis:

In a recent Marin County Board of Supervisors meeting, the Marin County Deputy Sheriffs Association confronted you and your colleagues with their salary requests. In an attempt to justify their demands, they cited, as one of their reasons, the salaries of the other eight Bay Area counties. At this time you related to the deputies association that the conditions in Marin County are not the same as the other counties and did not warrant the equal salary requested.

Apparently, Mr. McInnis, you are oblivious to incidents of crime, which have occurred in your own office building — let alone the rest of the county. In the last two months there has been a shoot-out in which a superior court judge was killed, a condition which is unlike the other Bay Area counties or anywhere in the United States for that matter, and a bomb explosion which occurred within 100 yards of six deputies.

As a result of those two incidents alone, the deputies are working 12-hour shifts at regular pay to protect you and the other Marin County citizens who use the Civic Center.

In closing, I request you reconsider the deputies' salary demands and recognize the dangerous job they perform.

Kettenhofen Land Sale Questioned

Last week the Sacramento Bee carried a lead story about the purchase of a huge tract of land at Lake Tahoe for a new housing development by the Perini Corp. More of the natural beauty of the lake will go the way of all commerce in the name of progress!

Perini purchased this land for $7 million from one Ernest Kettenhoffen. Why were the Marin County newspapers so strangely silent about this major land transaction? Is this not the same Ernest Kettenhoffen who is running for public office that regulates taxes and assesses valuation on land? Is this another one of those wheeler-dealer land deals?

WILLIS TAYLOR
San Rafael

(Ernest N. Kettenhofen's sale of 700 acres to Perini Corp. was reported under a two-column headline in the Independent-Journal of Jan. 6, 1969. Kettenhofen has long been a major land holder in the Lake Tahoe area, as has been mentioned many times in the I-J. Far from there being any secrecy about these investments, Kettenhofen's own campaign literautre identifies him as "owner-operator of recreational property at Lake Tahoe." — Editor.)

Letters to "What Our Readers Say" are welcomed. Only letters with signatures and addresses will be considered. Please keep them under 200 words. We reserve the right to cut letters.

Kudos To Board For Bus Support

Congratulations to the Marin County Transit Directors for approving a contract with Marin Transit Systems to provide a badly needed bus system link for Northern and Central Marin.

Hopefully the proposed public service will also meet with the approval of the Golden Gate Bridge District and the PUC, providing a vital need to those Marin residents without transportation and inducing those with automobiles to leave them at home.

Cold War Renewal Threatens Chances For Peaceful Coexistence

WASHINGTON — The cold war warriors are beginning to beat the drums. They foresee an end to negotiating for coexistence with the Soviet Union and the renewal of the old war of tensions and angry rhetoric. This has gone so far already, it is suggested, that the strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) may not be resumed at Helsinki next month as had been agreed when the session at Vienna ended.

These views are held passionately by men who reject any and all efforts of the two superpowers to arrive at a standoff. "You can't trust the Russians and now it's being proved once again." This is their theme repeated in many variations.

So fast is the reversal taking place from what had seemed six months or even three months ago to be a movement toward a limited understanding, at least on nuclear arms limitation, that even those normally rated hard liners are disturbed.

THE INCIDENT of the reported Russian nuclear submarine base under construction at Cienfuegos in Cuba is a convincing illustration of the trend. Word of the base was surfaced by the Pentagon, although two months earlier the House Foreign Affairs Committee had heard witnesses discuss the submarine potential in the Caribbean and the possible construction of a base. The White House came through with a loud warning linking Cienfuegos to the Cuban missile crisis of 1962.

Sen. Frank Church, chairman of a foreign affairs subcommittee on Latin America, called witnesses from the Pentagon's Defense Intelligence Agency to try to get the facts. They could say only that apparently barracks were being built at Cienfuegos and several barges had been brought into the harbor. There was no evidence of any start on submarine pens or the kind of construction essential to a nuclear submarine base.

Russian naval vessels in considerable numbers have operated in recent years in the Caribbean. Investigating the rate of Russian submarine construction, the joint atomic energy committee had this to say: "We know they (nuclear subs) are patrolling in areas off the coast of the United States, presumably each with a battery of 16 missiles targeted on our cities."

ALTHOUGH it was never reported, the Russians at the SALT talks in Vienna raised the question of the closeness to the respective borders of the two superpowers of their offensive nuclear missiles. They were saying, in effect, that U.S. missiles are poised close to Russian borders, and also that American aircraft carriers with planes with a 600-mile range are off Russian territorial waters.

Was not proximity of the forces of annihilation a subject for negotiation? Is it not possible that the Caribbean is tit-for-tat in America's positioning of nuclear striking power? Whatever reasonable hope there may be in such an approach, the shrill cries of the cold war warriors are likely to drown it.

IN THE RAPID trend toward a renewed cold war, the nonaggression treaty between Bonn and Moscow may be a casualty, and with it Chancellor Willy Brandt's Social Democratic-Free coalition government. Coming here in an effort to sound opinion, Horst Ehmke, one of Brandt's ablest lieutenants, was disturbed to find both in and out of government strong currents of opinion opposed to the treaty. This opposition may diminish if the Big Four ambassadors meeting in Berlin reach a solution on the status of that city. But the American position is now to go slow on the Berlin negotiation and the Germans fear that prolonged delay may in itself defeat the treaty.

The most dismaying fact contributing directly to chilling the atmosphere is the continuing Soviet-Egyptian cheating in the cease-fire zone along the Suez Canal. This is now scarcely concealed or denied. It has aroused the deepest concern not only in Israel but also in this country.

Two recent incidents threatened interruption of traffic in the air corridors to Berlin, and this is the stuff the cold war feeds on. The steady drumbeat has begun that will end no one knows how or when.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Wind From East Chills Negotiations On Berlin

By PHIL NEWSOM, UPI Foreign News Analyst

The "blow hot, blow cold" technique is a built-in quality of Russian dealings with the west, and in Berlin the Russians are blowing cold.

After encouraging western ambassadors early in September with a remark that it was time to "get going" on Berlin issues, Soviet Ambassador to East Germany Pytor A. Abrasimov caught them by surprise on Oct. 9 with a stand which suggested neither compromise nor concessions.

And yet, of all the issues dividing east and west, Berlin would appear to be one subject easier than most on which to compromise.

FIRST OF ALL, the new West German-Soviet non-aggression pact signed in mid-August would seem to make a normalization of relations over Berlin a natural next step.

Next, West German Chancellor Willy Brandt had made an improvement in Berlin access rights a condition for parliamentary approval of the new accord, a condition known to and apparently accepted by the Russians. On another level, France had made the question of Berlin a condition of her own approval of a Russian-proposed European security-conference. And finally, regardless of the past, the German question as a whole seemed as peaceful and as amenable now to compromise as it was likely to become in the foreseeable future.

SEEMINGLY well grounded reports said Walter Ulbricht's East German regime would issue the first holiday passes to West Berliners to enter East Berlin since 1966.

It also was predicted telephone links between the two parts of the city would be restored.

The West Berliners want day-to-day rights to cross over to the east, just as West Germans and non-Germans may do now. They also want firmer guarantees of access routes by land and water.

WEST BERLIN Mayor Klaus Schutz declares there are forces at work "seeking to hinder settlements in and around Berlin."

Refusing to accept communist military exercises as an excuse for interference with access routes to West Berlin, he declared that in September the Communist prevented 21 travelers from using transit routes through East Germany, turned back 23 in August and 28 in July.

The western allies could do little else but applaud Brandt's move toward the east. But they are not so anxious as he for quick approval of the Bonn-Moscow treaty. And in current delays they only see more of the same thing that has been going on in dealings over Berlin since 1944.

Commission On Rhetoric Finds Agnewography Harmless To Adults

WASHINGTON — The Commission on Obscenity and Pornography has just released its controversial report on the effects of pornography on the American people, particularly children. While this commission was getting all the publicity, another commission was studying the effects of political rhetoric and invective on Americans. The conclusions of this latter commission may have a much more lasting impact on the country.

The Commission on Political Rhetoric and Invective studied speeches by many candidates, but made the most use of those given by Vice President Spiro Agnew. In a footnote on the first page, the commission said it was not picking on Mr. Agnew, but since most people had been exposed to Agnew's rhetoric, it was easier to study reactions to his words than a politician running for a minor office.

Most people were not permanently affected by exposure to one of the vice president's speeches, though many are titillated by him. Only a small minority admitted to having any lascivious thoughts after reading one.

The majority of Americans interviewed said they believed that adult people should be allowed to hear Agnew's speeches if they wished to. But many of those interviewed said they didn't believe the speeches should be made available to children.

The commission revealed that, surprisingly, those interested in what Agnew has to say are not just people looking cor cheap thrills. Many come from fine middle-class homes and are considered by their neighbors to be pillars of the community.

There is a double standard in this country toward Agnew's talks. Many people who criticize Agnew publicly commit political invective in their own bedrooms when the shades are drawn.

THE COMMISSION hired participants for a laboratory experiment. It put couples in rooms and showed TV films of Agnew speeches. In almost all cases the couples denied the speeches had excited them. And while some admitted to becoming highly agitated by hearing words they had never heard before, most respondents claimed they had forgotten what he had said in an hour.

"We found," the report continued, "that Agnew's bite is worse than his bark. The permissiveness of his political rhetoric, while condoned by this commission, does not merit any censoring at this time. There is no evidence that anyone has committed a crime after listening to one of the vice president's speeches. Indeed, the opposite has proved true. Those thinking of committing a crime have lost interest after hearing him talk.

"Therefore, Agnew is a safety valve for those who harbor antisocial fantasies."

THE COMMISSION refused to judge the taste of Agnew's speeches because it had nothing to measure them against.

"It would be wrong for this commission to say what is good taste or bad taste, in politics particularly, since the public's appetite seems to be changing all the time. Things a vice president of the United States wouldn't or couldn't say two years ago now seem to be acceptable to large segments of the population.

"Those who claim that Agnew is polluting the air with his rhetoric may find it morally acceptable a few years from now."

The commission's report was not unanimous. A minority report, written by the law firm of O'Brien, Bayh, Kennedy, Muskie & Goodell, denounced the report as a declaration of moral bankruptcy in the country. The dissent said: "Our children are being exposed to more and more Agnew every day. Unless it is curtailed, we're going to have some very emotionally disturbed people on our hands. Anyone who supports Agnewography in this country is sick, sick, sick."

Bond Issue, Cut In Tax Rate On College Measures

Marin Community College District has come up with what looks like a fiscal miracle: a bond issue and operating tax increase which, combined, not only would not raise the district's tax rate but would reduce it. (See editorial, opposite page)

This piece of legerdemain is embodied in Measures B and C which will be on the ballot Nov. 3 in the college district.

Measure B calls for a reduction in the district's maximum tax rate from 70 cents to 60 cents per $100 assessed valuation, with the new rate to prevail for an indefinite period.

Measure C calls for a $16,920,000 bond issue to complete enlargement of facilities at the Kentfield campus and build the first phase of a second college on district-owned property in Novato.

If both are approved, the college district's tax rate for next year, including bond redemption, is estimated at 80.7 cents. If neither passes, the rate will be 93 cents.

There is, of course, a catch. The college district has not found a way to create money.

In 1962, voters of the district authorized a 35-cent special tax levy for 10 years, to finance enlarged Kentfield facilities and the second campus in Novato. That special levy will expire next year, if Meausre B does not win majority approval.

Measure B, however, provides that a 60-cent rate could be levied for college operations, while canceling out the last year of the already-approved 35-cent special capital improvements levy. The operating tax has been at 35 cents in the district since 1937.

Thus, there will be no "pay-as-you-build" tax for capital improvements on next year's tax bills if Measure B passes. But there will be a 60-cent operating levy, not only next year but indefinitely thereafter.

Measure C would replace the money raised by the 35-cent special tax — plus a great deal more — through a bond issue calculated as sufficient to complete campus improvements at Kentfield and build a college for 2,200 students in Novato. The bonds would be sold in "batches" through 1975, and the last of the issue would be retired in 1999.

Cost of the bond issue in its first year is estimated at 5.5 cents on the tax rate, based on 7 per cent interest.

This would mean that a 60-cent operating tax rate and a 5.5-cent bond redemption rate would replace the 35-cent operating rate and 35-cent capital improvements tax next fall — a reduction of 4.5 cents.

The reduction actually could be greater than that, however. Besides the operating and capital expenditures taxes, the district's tax rate includes several "overrides," not subject to voter approval. This year's total rate is 93 cents. Next year's total, if Measures B and C pass, is estimated at 80.7 cents — a 9.3-cent reduction. The additional reduction would come about because the bond issue would cancel a special override used for construction under terms of a state law passed in 1967.

At the highest point during the bond retirement, the rate for paying off the bonds would be 17 cents, according to projections by the county auditor. This would be in 1975-6.

The college district thus is offering a current tax saving with a deferred tax increase as a means of financing its expansion onto two campuses.

Norman Bird, college business manager, admits the 60-cent operating rate will be "very close" when the second campus opens. However, the plan is to accumulate balances for the next two years to cushion the one-time-only expenses of expanding to two campuses.

Measure C carries a pledge by the college district to use at least half of the bond issue proceeds in Novato. The percentage may be higher than that, depending on the relative demand for schooling in Kentfield and Novato. Passage of the measure would leave the district free to build for more than 2,200 students in Novato, but preclude it from building for fewer.

When the 35-cent special tax was authorized in 1962 for "pay-as-you-build" expansion, state Department of Finance projections were for 2,299 students in the college this year. Rapid enrollment growth soon made the calculations obsolete.

This year's enrollment is 5,723. The latest state projection, made this year, is for enrollment totaling 6,162 in 1973-74, when it is planned to open the second campus. But even this figure already appears obsolete, for the state had projected only 5,383 students this year — some 450 below the present total.

The bond-and-tax package was worked out by the college district's staff. If the measures fail, the district can still build a second campus — but at an astronomical tax rate increase.

Under the 1937 legislation a community college can levy an override tax, without voter approval, to provide matching funds against state and federal allocations and repayment of state loans.

But to carry out the building program by that method, according to the college district's calculations, would require an override tax of about $1 per $100 assessed valuation — and the college would still be without sufficient operating funds if the operating tax rate remained at 35 cents.

Part-Time Doctors Omitted From List

Part-time payroll figures for Marin General Hospital District reported Oct. 6 in the Independent-Journal omitted the names of 13 physicans who work part-time in the hospital's emergency room.

Dr. John W. McGaughey takes pleasure in announcing his association with Dr. John E. Jansheski in the General Practice of Dentistry.

Dr. McGaughey graduated from the University of California Dental School and was recently discharged from the Army after one year tours in Texas and Viet Nam.

Air Force Agrees To Alter Lights

The Air Force has agreed to modify four bright security lights on top of Mount Tamalpais so they don't shine into Mill Valley, an Air Force official said yesterday.

Maj. William R. Edwards, commander of the radar station on the mountain, said bids and specifications are being prepared and should be complete by Nov. 1. Work should commence Nov. 15 and be finished by the end of the month.

The work, which engineers estimate will cost $1,500, involves moving four of the sodium vavor lights from buildings at the station to points outside the fence so they will shine back into the compound and not down into Mill Valley.

The announcement was a victory for Jeffory S. Morshead, a Mill Valleyan who waged a six-month campaign to have the lights altered or dimmed .

200 Volunteers To Canvas For Petaluma Crusade

More than 200 volunteers will canvass Petaluma Saturday and Monday on behalf of the Petaluma United Crusade.

The volunteers will accept contributions and provide forms for residents who have donated in other counties and want to assure that their funds return to the Petaluma agencies.

Other section chairmen are Mrs. Sol Fishman, Mrs. Louis Cubba, Mrs. William Croxton, Mrs. David Brainerd, Mrs. Troy Fortner, Mrs. Harry Cook, Mrs. Lee Lofton, Mrs. Mervin Waters and Mrs. William Heath.

Baby sitting services will be provided for volunteers on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Monday from 3 to 6 p.m. at Bernard Eldredge School and the Camp Fire Hut, 510 English Street.

Pollution-Free Engine Asked

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI)—The American Automobile Association Wednesday urged the government and auto industry to "take whatever actions are necessary" to develop a pollution-free engine by the end of the decade.

Delegates to the 68th annual meeting of the AAA adopted the policy statement, which did not recommend any specific kind of engine.

The group said it could be an improvement of the internal combustion engine, a steam or gas turbine engine or "some radically new power source."

To Attend Gathering

Rep. George E. Brown Jr. of Los Angeles, unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination in June for U.S. Senate, will attend an open house for Dr. William M. Kortum of Petaluma, Democratic nominee in the First Congressional District, from 2 to 4 p.m. on Sunday at Novato Democratic headquarters, 959 Front Street.

WHAT'S A HUNGRY BUG TO DO?

Employees of Jennings Tree Services and Pest Control Co. of Menlo Park spray a new plastic substance, Inslite, on telephone cables along Lincoln Avenue in San Rafael. According to Donald R. Graham, deskman for Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., the coating will prevent bugs from eating through cable insulation and exposing the lines to water and weather. While John Burke (above) applied the plastic, the firm covered cars in the area with plastic sheeting to prevent splattering. (Independent-Journal photo)

Hours At Library Are Changed

Anyone borrowing or returning books at the Marin County Library in the Civic Center, must do so between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

Because of a security clampdown, the library at the Civic Center will be closed on weekends and after 5 p.m. weekdays, County Librarian Bruce D. Bajema announced. The book drop at the entrance to the Civic Center has been closed permanently.

To compensate partially for the shortened hours at the Civic Center library, the Ross Valley branch library at Bon Air Shopping Center in Greenbrae will be open additional hours as follows:

Monday through Thursday — 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2 to 9 p.m.

Friday — 9 a.m. to 1 p.m and 2 to 6 p.m.

Saturday — 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2 to 5 p.m.

A series of story programs for pre-school children between 40 months and 5 years of age will be offered at the Civic Center library on Mondays at 11 a.m. The program will start next Monday and continue through Nov. 30. Children's librarian Barbara Rauhala will be the storyteller.

Battle Flares Again Over Cost Of Patrols

The long-standing battle between cities and the unincorporated areas over the sharing of sheriff's patrol costs flared again last night at a meeting of the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission.

Discussion of a proposed county service area for police services drew about 40 persons to the Civic Center.

City representatibes, including Mayors Edward W. Colthurst of Corte Madera and Frank J. Egger of Fairfax, argued that unincorporated areas should pay a bigger share of the sheriff's patrol costs because cities are now paying double — once for the sheriff's services and again for their own city police services.

Speakers from unincorporated areas like Lucas Valley, Sleepy Hollow and West Marin countered that cities are benefiting from big sales tax revenues contributed by residents of unincorporated areas who shop in cities.

If a county service area for police services is established in the unincorporated areas, any community which wanted more police protection would pay extra for that added service. At present, the entire cost of the sheriff's department is borne equally by all taxpayers of the county.

The commissioners delayed a decision and called for a special meeting to be held at 8 p.m. Nov. 4. Commissioners asked executive officer John F. Barrows for a detailed report on the cost of the sheriff's services and the revenues (both property taxes and other income such as sales taxes) received by cities and by unincorporated areas.

Barrows said he will try to find a meeting place for the Nov. 4 session because the Civic Center has been closed to night meetings for security reasons.

The Local Agency Formation Commission Also:

FIRE PROTECTION — Unanimously approved the formation of a county fire protection district in all areas not served by cities or special fire districts. This was approved in July of last year, but was reapproved last night to include commercial timberland in the district.

TERRA LINDA — Asked that a reorganization committee be appointed to discuss the proposed merger of the Terra Linda Recreation and Park District and the Terra Linda Community Services District. That committee, to be composed of two representatives from each district, will report to the commission within 90 days.

ANGRESS — Approved the annexation of the 108-acre ranch owned by Herbert Angress north of Marshall to the North Marin County Water District.

WILSON AVENUE — Reduced the size of a 24-acre parcel on Wilson Avenue near Vineyard Road that was annexed to Novato last July. Because several property owners do not want to be within Novato, the annexed portion was cut to 14.5 acres.

NOVATO ANNEX — Approved annexation to Novato of 1.90 acres at the end of Fourth Street and Carmel Drive, where the 40-unit Marin County housing project for the elderly has been built and is ready for occupancy.

ELECTION — Unanimously reelected chairman Hugh G. Marchant to serve as chairman for another year.

Guilty Pleas In Deer Hunting

According to court clerk Stella Phillipscheck, the four are Robert L. Ferry, 23, of 11 Joan Avenue, Patrick N. Gingher, 23, of 980 Ignacio Boulevard, John P. San Filitto, 23, of 770 Sun Lane and Michael P. Kircher, 18, of 100 H Lane.

They were sentenced yesterday by Judge David R. Baty to one year of probation and fined $50 each, Mrs. Phillipscheck reported.

Study Of Bay's Pesticides Killed By Budget Cutback

A budgetary cutback soon will force the end of research into the effect of pesticides on Bay wildlife, a Marin biologist said yesterday.

Russell B. Earnest, biologist in charge of the Fish Pesticide Bureau at the Tiburon Marine Laboratory, said the six-man operation will move to the Great Lakes about Nov. 15.

The switch will leave the Bay Area without any program for studying how common agriculture pesticides affect marine life, particularly the striped bass and chinook salmon, two important game fish.

The only pesticide research will be conduced by the California Department of Fish and Game, which monitors levels in oysters and other shellfish.

"I feel there's a great need for this kind of work here," Earnest said. "The heaviest concentration of agriculture in the world is in the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys, which drain through the Bay. This is the perfect place to study pesticides and organisms."

Duties performed by the Fish Pesticide Bureau include determining the tolerance of saltwater creatures to various compounds routinely used in agriculture, Earnest said, and monitoring fish caught around the Bay to determine pesticide levels and how they vary from month to month.

Work at the Great Lakes will concentrate chiefly on monitoring fish for their mercury content, he said.

"At this time of crisis in pollution, we should be expanding our knowledge about pesticides, not cutting back because of tighter budgets," Earnest said. But, he added, "We have no control over budgets."

Attorney Question Still Unclear For Ruchell Magee

San Quentin inmate Ruchell Magee, 31, sole surviving convict from the Aug. 7 Hall of Justice shoot-out and accused along with Angela Y. Davis of the slaying of Judge Harold J. Haley, made another appearance yesterday in the prison courtroom.

Although Marin judges have decided that trials will not be held within the prison, preliminary proceedings involving inmates are still being held there.)

An attorney appointed by Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court for Magee, Clinton White of Oakland, appeared in court yesterday, but it was still unclear whether White will represent Magee.

Magee has insisted from the outset that he wants to act as his own attorney but has been ruled not competent to do so.

Yesterday White offered to act in an advisory capacity to Magee, who would then handle his own case, but Judge Joseph G. Wilson, who heard yesterday's session, said he could not allow that.

He gave White one week, however, to research the question of whether Magee could act as his own attorney, with White as an adviser.

White indicated he does not want to act as Magee's lawyer unless Magee wants him. Magee has repeatedly said that he feels any court-appointed attorney would be part of a plot to "railroad" him.

Spectators supporting Magee again filled the 50-seat courtroom yesterday. They remained quiet until Judge Wilson left the bench as Magee was being led from the room. Cries of "power to the people" and "right on" then rang out.

Coroner Names Bridge Jumper

A man who leaped from the Golden Gate Bridge Sept. 20 was identified yesterday by the San Francisco Coroner's Office as Larry Gordon Ware, 36, of no known address.

A witness had told the California High Patrol a man walked to the railing and jumped over at about 10:25 a.m. His body was recovered shortly after by a coast guard cutter.

Identification was made by Ware's fingerprints, the coroner's office said.

ENTIRE COMMUNITY MISSED

Census Bureau Can't Explain How Dillon Beach Got Missed

How large is Dillon Beach's population — 50, 100, 150?

To the Census Bureau today, it is zero.

The entire community was not counted in the census and that includes the new Oceana Marin development north of Dillon Beach.

Residents of the area, and no one knows for sure just how big the area is, are patiently awaiting officials to pick up their census questionnaires so the community's population can be counted, said Helen Martin, a resident of the area.

"This will be corrected within a week. I'll have someone in there to pick up the questionnaires," said Leonard C. Isley, regional director for the census bureau in Los Angeles.

Isley was at a loss to explain how an entire community was missed. He said that urban areas were counted by mail but the rural areas were counted by enumerators. Enumerators were responsible for at least half of Marin County, he said.

Marin, Sonoma, Napa and Solano counties were handled out of the Santa Rosa office, which has been closed, he said.

"This is the first time that such a thing has come to my attention," Isley said.

Mrs. Martin said questionnaires received by area residents were supposed to have been picked up by a local resident, John Novicky, but he moved away.

Jean Nuckols, a resident, called the census bureau office in San Francisco and was told it had finished its business and was closing.

William M. Purvis, who writes the Dillon Beach news for the Petaluma Argus-Courier, put it in his column on Aug. 12.

Purvis, known as the unofficial mayor of Dillon Beach, said television stations carried the news of the lack of a count last week.

Isley saw it on national television Tuesday night in Los Angeles.

"I immediately started checking with our headquarters in Jeffersonville, Ind.," Isley said.

Ruth Mellon, who runs the post office at the Dillon Beach store, said about 50 families received mail there.

Dillon Beach is not the only community missed in the census. Purvis recieved a letter yesterday from Mary Older of Isleton in Sacramento County, telling of areas there that were missed.

Novatan Arrested In Pot Growing

Mark Robert Topper of 668 Olive Avenue was released on his recognizance and was scheduled to appear this afternoon in Marin Municipal Court.

Police reported that they found 25 plants thought to be marijuana growing in Topper's corn patch, in pots and in the bird bath. They also found cigarettes and a plastic bag of vegetable material thought to be marijuana.

Middle School Before Board

The Mill Valley School District board will hold a special meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at Park School to discuss the Middle School project and possibly to award a contract for construction to Dickman Construction Co. of Mountain View.

Also on the agenda is discussion of an anti-Rubella campaign and consideration of a resolution supporting the Tamalpais High School District's opposition to a state requirement that unfication elections be held every four years.

After the open meeting, the board will meet in closed session to instruct its negotiating team on contract discussions with teachers.

Caretaker, 77, Is Found Dead

The 77-year-old caretaker of the Big Trees Camp six miles from Alpine Dam along Fairfax Bolinas Road was found dead in his bed yesterday.

According to the Marin County coroner's report, James Drohan had been complaining of ill health for several days before being found dead in his cabin by Marin Municipal Water District employee John Monty Marzetta.

Drohan was born in Ireland. He leaves no immediate family, according to the coroner's report.

The body was taken to Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo where an autopsy was to be performed.

England and France declared war on Germany Sept. 3, 1939.

IN LEADING ROLE — Film star Myrna Loy will portray Elizabeth Barrett in "Dear Love," which will open a two-week engagement Monday at the San Francisco Geary Theater. Co-starring will be Jerome Kilty, who is also the playwright.

Drugs Getting The Attention, But Alcohol Still Main Killer

WASHINGTON (UPI)—"Drugs are the fair-haired child. They are getting all the gold. Yet there are more than 10 times as many alcoholics as there are drug addicts."

That complaint happened to come from Willard O. Foster, coordinator of alcoholism programs in the state of Maryland. But it might have come from any one of hundreds of federal, state and private authorities on alcoholism.

They don't begrudge the attention politicians, legislative bodies, the press and the public are giving to the drug menace.

But they can't understand how a nation that gets so wrought up about heroin and marijuana can be so complacent about alcohol.

"It is incredible that we cannot face realistically the alcoholism epidemic in this country, which costs us more lives each year than the Vietnam War," says Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, a former alcoholic who now heads a special Senate subcommittee on alcoholism. "If we were willing to spend a tenth of what we spend on Vietnam to save people from this controllable disease, we could accomplish miracles."

The American Psychiatric Association estimates at least 9 million Americans are afflicted by alcoholism in the sense of being so dependent on alcohol they are ruining their careers and wrecking their homes.

Reports from coroners indicate more than half of the nation's highway deaths result from drivers trying to handle a car after drinking. There are more than 50,000 highway deaths a year, so the toll from drunken driving alone is upwards of 25,000 lives annually.

Excessive intake of alcohol is the main (though not the only) cause of cirrhosis of the liver, an ailment that ranks as the third most common cause of death among young and middle aged adults.

Many alcholics do not wait for the disease to complete the slow destruction of their bodies. Studies show the suicide rate among alcholics is about 50 times greater than that of the general population.

Aside from its cost in wrecked lives, alcholism is a serious economic problem. The National Council on Alcoholism estimates that U.S. industry loses more than $4 billion a year through employe absenteeism resulting from excessive drinking.

The American Medical Association has waged a vigorous campaign in recent years to get practicing physicians and general hospitals to treat alcoholism as "an illness that can and should be treated." But thousands of doctors still look upon "drunks" as a character problem rather than a health problem. And a recent survey showed that only one third of the nation's general hospitals will admit patients for treatment of alcoholism.

In 1966, with much fanfare, the federal government created a National Center for Prevention and Control of Alcoholism, under the aegis of the National Institute of Mental Health. But the center's impact on the alcoholism problem has thus far been minimal, because it has relatively little money to spend. While Congress votes hundreds of millions for research into cancer, heart disease and other "respectable" ailments, only $10 million a year is available for federal grants to support alcoholism research.

In August, the Senate passed a bill, sponsored by Hughes, authorizing an outlay of $395 million over the next three years to launch nationwide programs for prevention and treatment of alcoholism, including research into its causes and rehabilitation of its victims.

This legislation now awaits action in the House.

Alioto Recounts Use Of Police

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mayor Joseph Alioto said Wednesday the use of massive police power at the San Francisco State College disturbances "stabilized violence without doing violence to dissent."

The mayor said "when dissent deteriorates into violence, we will use whatever police power we consider necessary to put it down —fast."

By "we," he said, he meant the mayor and the chief of police, though he said the views of the college president would carry much weight in cases where a decision must be made to put lawmen onto a troubled campus.

Safeway Plans To Date Goods

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Safeway Stores is going to put dates on the perishable products it manufactures or processes.

Louis A. Bianco, vice president-manager of the grocery chain's San Francisco division, said Wednesday the program would apply to packaged meats, dairy products and bakery goods.

"Briefly, the dates—they are not codes—indicate the day on or before which we sell the product in order to ensure its freshness and wholesomeness for a reasonable time after it is purchased by our customers," he added.

Soviet Workers Support UAW

MOSCOW (UPI) —Workers of Likhachev automobile plant, the biggest in Moscow, expressed solidarity Wednesday with United Auto Workers (UAW) strikers at General Motors in the United States.

Tass news agency said the solidarity vote was taken at "a huge meeting at the factory as a gesture of proletarian internationalism."

"We automobile workers entertain feelings of warm sympathy for the striking workers of America, who are upholding their class interests and fighting for their rights," the Soviet workers said.

A $600,000 Deficit For Symphony

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Symphony Association announced today its anticipated deficit for the 1970-71 season will be more than $600,000.

Accordingly, President Philip S. Boone said the symphony will seek a 25 per cent increase in contributions from all donors to match the deficit.

At the same time, Boone praised the results of the fund drive for the 1969-70 season. He said for the first time in several years, total season income was about equal to expenses.

Boonesaid the symphony is seeking the same achievement this year, warning that anything less will jeopardize the orchestra's survival.

He said among the reasons for the projected $600,000 deficit is an increase in musicians' salaries to a minimum of $250 per week per player in the forthcoming 37-week season, one week more than last year. Another reason is increased operating expenses. But the "greatest single problem," he said, is the expiration of the $100,000 yearly subsidy provided by the Ford Foundation during the five years of the symphony's successful matching fund drive.

Major Crime Drops In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The incidence of major crime in the first nine months of 1970 in San Francisco was 10 per cent less than that of the similar period last year, according to police chief Alfred Nelder.

Nelder said Wednesday there was a 13 per cent drop for September of this year as compared to September of 1969.

DRAMA, ART, MUSIC

'Dear Love,' About Brownings, To Open

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

"Dear Love," Jerome Kilty's play of England's most romantic poet-couple — Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning — will arrive Monday night at the Geary Theater in San Francisco for a special two-week engagement.

The play will feature Myrna Loy, a leading screen actress since the 1930s as Miss Barrett and Kitty as Browning. As part of a national tour prior to a Broadway opening in January, it is being presented in connection with the American Conservatory Theater.

ACT also announced this week arrival on Nov. 2 of "Will Rogers' U.S.A.," at the Marines' Memorial Theater, featuring James Whitmore. The evening is adapted entirely from Rogers' own words.

OPERA

A new production of Mozart's "Cosi fan tutte" will have its first performance Saturday night at the San Francisco Opera House. Featured in the cast will be Teresa Berganza, Margaret Price, Graziella Sciutti, Ryland Davies, Alberto Rinaldi and Renato Capecchi.

The new production is designed and directed by Jean-Pierre Ponelle, who was responsible for last season's highly successful "Cenerentola." Mozart specialist John Pritchard will make his debut as conductor.

DRAMA

Tonight will mark the first six months of "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," at the Little Fox Theater in San Francisco. (See other attractions for nightly showings.)

MUSIC

A group of young musicians will present a classical recital in the Oakland Museum's Gallery of California Art Sunday afternoon. It is the first of four recitals planned at the museum this fall and winter.

Other attractions:

Encore Theater — "The Ofay Watchers," Tuesday through Friday, 8:30 p.m.; Saturday, 7 and 9:45 p.m. and Sundays, 7 p.m.

Curran Theater — "Promises, Promises," 8:30 p.m. except Sundays; also 2:30 p.m. eWdnesdays and Saturdays.

Little Fox Theater— "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," nightly except Monday at 8:30 p.m. and Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Orpheum Theater — "Hair" Tuesday through Friday, 8:30 p.m.; Saturday, 6 and 10 p.m.; Wednesday and Sunday, 2:30 p.m.

Geary Theater — "Dear Love," opening Monday, 8:30 p.m. for two-week engagement. Closing Saturday, "Hamlet."

M. H. de Young Museum — "Paintings From the Abe Collection," through Oct. 25, and "John Marin" through Nov. 8.

California Palace of the Legion of Honor — "Eleanor Bloomfield — Sculpture," through tomorrow; "Drawings and Etchings by Tejpolo and his Circle," through Nov. 15; and "The Imaginary Prison, by Piranese," through Nov. 15.

Food Bombing Of Reds Asked

LAWRENCE, Mass. (UPI)—A former newspaper executive says he's come up with a novel idea on how to bomb North Vietnam—with kindness.

"Instead of dropping bombs, we should drop food packages," said John P. S. Mahoney Jr., former publisher of the Lawrence Sunday Sun and Lawrence Telegram. The Vietnam War represents a "needless, senseless slaughter of American youth," he said.

"It would cost a lot less than one real bomb," he added. "And it certainly would do good for the United States in the eyes of the world."

War Dead Figure

AMMAN (UPI)—A total of 3,440 persons were killed in the Jordanian civil war last month, the Palestine Red Crescent Society said Wednesday.

New Mexico claims 42 per cent of the country's uranium reserves.

TV REVIEW

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — I have an idea for a contemporary new video series. It is called "The Young Storefront Television Executives," and it is very relevant.

The trouble with most television series aimed at the middleaged, as everyone knows, is that they are so conformist. All the characters are familiar and predictable. So mine will be different.

The principals will be three budding television executives who are out to change the network system: Two young men and a girl. One of the young men is white, the other black. If you want to attract the under-30 audience, you have to give it something nonconformist and excitingly original.

For this reason, the white young man might even have lots of curly black hair, long sideburns and a big mustache.

There is also an older adviser to the trio — a veteran television executive who, now that he has made his pile, is looking for inner absolution and seems to have found it in this idealistic trio.

The series is set in New York, because, as everyone knows, there is more idealism there than in Hollywood. After all, Hollywood only produces video shows. New York approves and chooses them.

As proof of the trio's idealism, each show will begin with them running arm-in-arm across Sixth Avenue in New York, and up the steps of a television network. They will beam at each other as they run, and look skyward wtih significance, but never watch the traffic.

Although all three youngsters have offices at a network, their real passion is a storefront office in a crumby part of town where they can help people who come in off the street with television problems that no one else in the industry will listen to.

Because of this realistic, idealistic, contemporary, relevant,c youthful approach, we can deal with significant video issues never before aired by the middleaged conformists.

For example, one episode will concern a television executive who is a narcotics addict and has become involved with a go-go dancer who gets him the stuff through the Mafia, which threatens to tell his wife unless he quietly transfers his large block of network stock to gangsters who want to manipulate the company.

Another episode will deal with a television executive who leads an anti-pollution fight against a factory in his suburban home town, but has unfortunately become involved with a go-go dancer who threatens to tell his wife unless he quietly turns over his big block of network stock to gangsters who want to infiltrate the company. The go-go dancer is a corporate spy for the polluting factory.

Anyway, I could go on and on with more episode outlines dealing with significant television issues. But you get the message. It's important to get fresh ideas and young blood into video. And it is good that idealism and relevance are finally being given a chance.

Auction Of Art Brings $2.6 Million

LONDON (UPI) — Fifteen impressionists and modern paintings from the collection of the late American movie producer William Goetz brought $2.6 million in 34 minutes Wednesday at the auction firm of Sotheby & Co.

World record prices for five artists were set with Toulouse-Lautrec's "La Poudreuse," bought by a New York dealer for $336,000, making the highest for the artist's works.

The highest price of the evening was $432,000 paid for Cezanne's "La Maison et L'Arbre." Another Cezanne, "Paysage de l'Ile de France," was withdrawn when bidding stopped at $360,000. The asking price had been $480,000.

Joseph E. Levine, the American film producer, bidding by telephone from New York, bought two of the works. He paid $148,000 for a Picasso pastel of the Rose period, entitled "Fillette au Chien," a record for a Picasso pastel and also bought a small Dufy, "l'Ensemble, Le Petit Orchestre" for $19,200.

An anonymous buyer paid $252,000 for Matisse's "Interieur a La Follette." Derain's "The Pool of London" brought $192,000 from another anonymous buyer and $172,800 was paid for a flower piece by Odilon Redon.

No Decision Made On Insurance Plan

Kentfield Fire Protection District directors last night reached no decision after discussing hospital insurance plans for district staff, according to Fire Chief Kenneth T. Kamp.

The board voted to overhaul the Greenbrae siren used to alert volunteers, called for bids to complete air conditioning in the new fire house and ordered engine work on the aerial truck.

Open Space Talk To Be Given Monday

Planning consultant Lawrence Livingston of Sausalito will speak on the "Palo Alto Foothill Study as a Prototype for Preserving Open Space in Marin" Monday at 8 p.m. at the College of Marin Gymnasium.

Audience discussion will follow the talk sponsored by the Marin Conservation League.

President Gets Bill On Fishing

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — The Senate yesterday approved a tough new stance against fishing intrusions in o American waters aimed at Russian trawlers along the Northern California coast.

The measure would hike the fine for illegal fishing from $10,000 to $100,000 if approved by President Richard M. Nixon. Yesterday's senate vote sent the bill to the president.

Also called for in the measure passed by voice vote are a $5,000 reward for information leading to the capture and conviction of a violator and seizure of the catch of any boat caught within the 12-mile limit claimed as American waters.

Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, a cosponsor of the legislation, said the measure "is designed to help keep the Russians and other foreigners off the backs of American fishermen."

The bill came in the wake of a summer of friction between American and Russian fishing boats along the west coast. One Russian boat was seized in July, but released.

The legislation would also allow the Coast Guard to ask any federal agency for surveillance help.

Cotati Man Hurt In 2-Car Crash

A 28-year-old Cotati man was reported in critical condition today at Community Hospital of Sonoma County with head injuries suffered in a two-car accident in Rohnert Park.

Alan Budinsky, 501 East Cotati Avenue, suffered a severe concussion and internal injuries in the crash at 9:13 p.m. yesterday, according to hospital spokesmen.

Police said a car driven by Edgar L. Lancaster, 48, of 407 Alta Drive, Rohnert Park, apparently failed to heed a stop sign and struck Budinsky's car at the Rohnert Park Expressway and Snyder Lane.

Gift To Marin City Boys' Club

A $100 check has been donated to the Marin City Boys' Club by the MacDonald's hamburger chain to mark the opening of the chain's new branch at Seminary Road near Highway 101 in Mill Valley.

A spokesman for MacDonald's said the gift was presented Saturday as part of the chain's community service program.

According to the spokesman, the money will be used by the club for a photographic laboratory or a motor mechanics training center for club members.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Many New Innovations Reported In Treating Severe Burn Cases

Van Dellen

In many parts of the country serious burns are treated in centers specializing in these injuries. The war in Vietnam also has increased the number of burn cases, and there is no doubt that our fighting men receive the finest care. Many new remedies and innovations are being tried to lessen the distress and improve the outcome of severe burn injuries.

Burns are extremely painful, and when 50 or 60 per cent of the body surface is involved, it is difficult to move or cleanse the victim without creating distress. Researchers are testing special beds in which the burned person is suspended by jets of air escaping from narrow passages between inflated pockets. In this way the sufferer remains high and dry.

ANOTHER DEVICE keeps the victim floating in siliconized open mesh. The bed is a fiberglas tub mounted on a metal frame over which silicone mesh is suspended. By turning the frame, the physician can work on both sides of the patient.

Burns are open wounds, and it is important to cover the denuded areas and to avoid infection. Extensive skin grafts may be needed and at present, cadaver skin and pigskin are used most often. Work also is being done on artificial or synthetic skin. These grafts are temporary but last long enough to serve their purpose.

IN SOME centers the burn area is exposed to the air.. The Apollo shield serves as a blanket. It consists of two curved pieces of plexiglas separated by a layer of vaporized metal. An electric current through the metal creates radiant heat which is thermostatically controled.

Oxygen administered under increased pressure within a hyperbaric chamber is being tested. The results are encouraging in that eschars form more rapidly, and there is less risk of infection and swelling. However, hyperbaric units are expensive and in short supply.

UNCOORDINATED

H. D. writes: How does a person act when he suffers from locomotor ataxia?

REPLY

In this condition, there is loss of balance and coordination. Some victims walk as though they did not know where their feet are; others reel about as though drunk. The arms behave in an equally bizarre fashion. Vision and bladder control may be affected when the nerves leading to these structures are involved.

SUMMER TEMPERATURE

R. E. writes: Does the temperature of the blood rise somewhat in hot weather?

REPLY

Not when the person is resting. The body has an efficient heat regulating mechanism that maintains the temperature on an even keel in winter and summer. On the other hand, it will increase on exertion or when the cooling system fails because the sweat glands are overfatigued and fail to function properly.

RODENTS AND GERMS

V. M. writes: After a rat bite, what kind of germs are passed to the victim?

REPLY

Whatever germs are in the rat's mouth. These might be ordinary staphylococci, streptococci or those that produce rat bite fever or encephalitis.

HEART WEIGHT

C. Y. writes: What is the actual weight of the heart?

REPLY

At birth the heart of a baby weighs less than an ounce. In a healthy adult woman it weighs 9 ounces whereas in a man it is 10½ ounces.

Minority Hiring

I-J Special Report

LOS ANGELES — Minority employment at UCLA has increased by more than 500 persons during the past year, according to Vice Chancellor James Hobson. Of 1,258 employees hired during the year, 514 were members of minority groups. Minorities now make up 22.6 per cent of the total UCLA work force, Hobson said.

New dimension to the news

Are you aware of it? The new journalism which reports not just the facts but also their meaning? This is the new dimension of "depth" which heightens your understanding. Daily in the I-J.

More important than any event is its meaning. Especially today when the news involves dynamic changes in our society.

To bring you new perspectives on events the I-J presents a continuing train of articles, special reports and features which explore today's issues in depth. They go behind the "what" to the "why" . . . reports on ecology, revolutionary tactics, education, college unrest, the drug scene, the political spectrum, to name a few.

This kind of investigative reporting is the new dimension to the news . . . an attempt to go beyond the "shock" of events to their meaning. When you understand what you know you've gained perhaps the finest "dimension" of all—wisdom.

And who is overburdened with that?

AIRBORNE RESCUE FOR FREEWAY ACCIDENTS

In an innovation similar to the helicopter's use in ferrying wounded soldiers from the frontline, the Los Angeles County Fire Department is planning to use an 120 miles per hour Jet Ranger helicopter-ambulance to pick up freeway accident victims and whisk them to the nearest hospital. The experimental use of the helicopter will cover a 450 square mile area in northwestern Los Angeles County. The pictures at left, from top to bottom, show a similated accident on a remote freeway; the the accident "victims" loaded aboard the flying ambulance; the "victims" being flown away from the scene of the accident.

Risks Seen In Some Fords, Mercurys

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Transportation Department has advised the owners of four million Mercurys and Fords built from 1965 to 1969 to have the wheel control arms inspected for possible defects, especially on cars that have suffered severe front end impacts.

The department's National Highway Safety Bureau said its investigation did not produce evidence of an "outright safety defect," but there was "a potential risk in the operation" of the cars.

Ford in August recalled 85,000 of the same model cars used in police work for replacement of the control arms because they sometimes cracked under the strain of police use. However, Ford said in a statement after the bureau warning Wednesday that there was no defect in the control arms on vehicles used by the public, and the cost of any inspection and replacement would have to be borne by the owner "as would be the case with any accident damage."

Ford said it had instructed its dealers to give special attention to such inspection requests.

"We repeat what we have stated before: that there is no defect in the control arm," the statement said. "But we believe that when any vehicle is subject to abuse or accident damage such as that specified by the DOT, it should be inspected before being driven."

The Highway Safety Bureau statement said any owner whose Ford or Mercury "has suffered impacts so severe as to blow out front tires or dent front wheel rims are advised to seek immediate inspection or to have the control arms replaced."

The bureau said that of the affected cars in the hands of the public, there "is a possible failure rate of one in every 100,000."

The function of the control arm is to hold the wheel assembly to the frame of the car. A government official said that if the control arm breaks, "the wheel falls off." The Safety Bureau said the Fords involved in the warning are the Custom 500, the Galaxie 500, the Galaxie 500 XL, the Galaxie 500 LTD, the Country Sedan, the Country Squire, the Ranch Wagon, the XL, the LTD, and the Custom Ranch Wagon.

The Mercury models are the Monterey, Montclair, Parklane, Commuter, Colony Park, Brougham, Marquis and the Park Lane Brougham. The Bureau said the advisory also included the 1968 and 1969 Thunderbird.

Candidates' Night Slated At Fairfax

A candidates' night for seven candidates vying for one vacancy on the Fairfax School District board will be held Monday at 8 p.m. at the multi-purpose room at Manor School, 150 Oak Manor Drive.

CHOW TIME AT THE OLD FISHIN' HOLE

Most everyone has heard his share of fishermen's tales, but this one tops most. It seems that Ollis Andrews of Wendell, N.C. has always wanted to have his very own pet bass in his lake and, well, he does. As a matter of fact, Ollis has been hand feeding this large mouth bass for eight years. It all started when he noticed that the bass hit at bait in the water close to his hand. Ollis decided if he would come that close he might eat out of his hand . . . he did and still does.

The Hit That Really Counted

May's Blast Gives Cincinnati New Hope

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Cincinnati first baseman Lee May has an impressive .428 average in the 1970 World Series, but the only hit that really counts is the one that gave him the chance to try to improve that average today.

That three-run homerun off losing reliever Eddie Watt in the eighth inning Wednesday put the Reds ahead 6-5 and kept them alive in the Series.

SINKER

The pitch May hit was the first Watt threw after he relieved Jim Palmer with two men on base. It was apparently supposed to be a sinker.

"I'm sure he didn't want to get the ball where he did," May said of the hip-high throw. "The ball was down the middle and I swung."

The ball went in to the stands and the Series went into an unexpected fifth game.

Watt was replaced in the ninth and was not around to answer questions about that pitch by the time reporters were let into the Orioles' dressing room.

May said he walked up to the plate trying to figure a way to get the ball past Golden Glove third baseman Brooks Robinson, and presumed Watt would try to get him to hit in that direction.

PITCH LOW

Oriole pitchers had been told at a special pre-game meeting on May to pitch him low.

"I figured he would try to get me to hit it down to Hoover at third base," May said. "That's right — Hoover — that human vacuum cleaner who sucks up everything around third," May said.

As Watt was warming up, May walked back to the dugout and asked Reds' skipper Sparky Anderson what Watt threw. "The book" (scouting report) said Watt threw a sinker and a flat slider.

The game-winning pitch either slid flatly or didn't sink. Oriole manager Earl Weaver didn't care what it was. He didn't even bother to ask.

"What was the point? It didn't really matter," Weaver explained. There's no way we can change it anymore."

May's success with Watt was something of a turnaround, according to Weaver. "Up until today (Wednesday), we had been hitting their relief pitchers. Today, they hit our relievers."

The Reds — down three games to one — hoped the turnaround is not confined to relief pitching.

May's homer off Watt "brought the whole team back," explained Wednesday's winning pitcher, Clay Carroll. "We were a little down, but tomorrow we're going to be really up," he added.

DOUBTS

Anderson echoed Carroll's newfound optimism. "I had a lot of doubt about the middle of the game," he said.

"My ball club is still the best team here," he remarked after the game. "Our chances are still as good as they were when we started."

WORLD SERIES FOR THE BIRDS

Outfielder Tony Conigliaro, traded this week by Boston to California, had a portable TV set with him during golf tournament at Reno this week to keep up on the World Series. Playing in the Harrah's Invitational Golf Tournament, Conigliaro said he was pleased with the progress of the World Series, with Baltimore leading, he being a true American Leaguer.

JIM GILMARTIN

Things Even Out For Mr. Brodie

To me the most dramatic picture from last weekend's 49er victory over the Rams was San Francisco quarterback John Brodie racing 12 yards to a touchdown, then gleefully tossing the ball high in the air.

After watching Brodie "eat" the ball so much during his professional career, it was refreshing to finally watch him throw it up.

Funniest occurrence in that game, however, was the referee walking over to the sideline to the phones in the middle of the game. Now, all the wire dispatches said he was trying to determine what down it was by conversing with an associate in the press box.

But don't you believe that propaganda. I'm a lip-reader and when the ref went over to the phones in the middle of the hectic battle I distinctly saw him say: "Dammit, I told you not to call me at work!"

No Victory Dinner This Time

Price Hall said television announcer Ray Scott sounded like he had a scheduled date with a starlet at the Rams' victory dinner. "He kept getting sicker and sicker," said Price, former president of the 49er Goal Rushers of Marin.

TWO TAMALPAIS High School grads are going great guns on the collegiate football scene.

Dartmouth's senior defensive tackle, Barry Brink of Mill Valley has been selected to the East Coast Athletic Conference Division I star squad for his outstanding play in a 27-0 victory over Massachusetts.

Brink made seven solo tackles while assisting on three others for the Big Green. Barry, a two-year starter for the Indians, won All-Ivy and All-New England mention last year.

Honor Is Going Strong

Meanwhile, across the continent in the metropolis of Stockton, Tam and College of Marin alumnus Honor Jackson has become the nation's 12th leading pass receiver with 29 catches for 451 yards. His latest effort was 5 catches in a 34-0 loss to Louisiana State U.

THE PEOPLE who make Gatorade are rooting for the Cincy Reds in the World Series.

According to the thirst quencher's statistician, the Reds cooled off this year by consuming 1,128 gallons of the yellow liquid while Baltimore consumed only 200 gallons of Gatorade.

The Reds may not be thirsty, but so far they've been strictly from hunger.

Coaches' Views Differ

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Are NFL coaches Dick Nolan and Tom Fears talking about the same team?

Nolan says that New Orleans has better balance than the team that won a wild 43-38 victory over his San Francisco 49ers in 1969. The two teams clash here Sunday.

"They're a lot like Los Angeles and Atlanta," says Nolan. "They come on tough. The backs do a lot of option type running. It's an explosive offense. Wide receiver Dan Abromowicz has great hands ... tight end Dave Parks can go deep."

But Fears says his Saints are "desperate for healthy running backs. We only have one, Tony Baker. We'll probably have to start Elijah Pitts and he has just joined the club."

The offensive statistics would seem to favor Fears' pessimistic analysis. The Saints have averaged only 223 yards per game and rushed for only about 92 per contest. Bill Kilmer and Ed Hargett, who will start Sunday, are passing at only a .463 pace.

But the defensive statistics might bear out Nolan. New Orleans has surrendered only a few more yards than has been gained by the offense and the defense has kept New Orleans in every game it has played this season.

Both Nolan and Fears agree that the one healthy and experienced Saints' back, Baker, is a good one. He was obtained by the Saints as a free agent but still rushed for 682 yards last year while leading the NFL with a 4.8 average.

He had 98 yards in 17 carries against St. Louis last Sunday.

Cal Loses Six Frosh Gridders: Deficient Grades

BERKELEY (UPI) — It's going to be a skimpy University of California freshman team that takes the field for its opener Saturday against the UCLA frosh.

The Cal squad was reduced to 26 Wednesday when six players were declared ineligible because of deficient grades—either low Scholastic Achievement Test scores or a high SAT score, but low high school grades.

The most publicized loss is that of George Fraser, a highly sought quarterback from Anaheim. In his case, Fraser failed to take the SAT test and it won't be given again until November.

FOOTBALL SLATE

Novato Facing Double Whammy

Novato High School's Hornets will be up against a double whammy tomorrow night when they challenge the Terra Linda Trojans in the first of three Marin County Athletic League football games on tap this weekend.

First, the defending champion Trojans will have the momentum of a two-game win streak going for them and, secondly, it's their Homecoming Game. Coach Don Lucas' Terra Lindans always play well before the old grads.

Other games in this third week of the MCAL schedule are Saturday affairs — Drake (1-1) vs. San Marin (0-1) at Novato, 1:30 p.m., and Tamalpais (1-1) at San Rafael (1-0), 8 p.m.

There are six other attractions on this weekend's Marin-Southern Sonoma County high school and college grid schedule, starting tomorrow, 3 p.m., with the San Rafael Military Academy hosting John O'Connell High of San Francisco.

Elsewhere tomorrow it's Petaluma at Napa in a North Bay League game and Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park hosting Analy of Sebastopol at Petaluma High, also at 8.

Saturday games find independent Marin Catholic High hosting St. Elizabeth of Oakland in Kentfield, 2 p.m.; College of Marin Tars in a Camino Norte Conference game against West Valley Junior College of Campbell at 1 p.m. on Marin's new Kentfield turf; and Sonoma State College at University of California at Davis, 8 p.m.

Cars Start Warmups For Monterey Race

MONTEREY, Calif. (UPI)—More than a dozen of the teams which will participate Sunday in the $76,000 Monterey Grand Prix took warmups today over the tricky 1.9 mile Laguna Seca Raceway course.

Official trials for the next to last of the Can-Am sports car races of the year are scheduled for Friday but today there were to be secret trials for those wanting to take them. The track was to be open for a brief period with spectators barred from watching.

NEW CARS

This year's Monterey race has drawn a record 10 foreign entries with the standings taking a secondary role, simply because a flock of new cars are among those which will shoot for the lap record of 114.898 set a year ago by the late Bruce McLaren of New Zealand.

McLaren died last spring but the car in which he set the lap record, the same one he won the race in two days later, will be back. This time Denis Hulme, also of New Zealand, will be at the wheel. Hulme, who leads the Can-Am standings, can clinch the title with a high finish.

England's Peter Gethin, who took McLaren's place on the team which sits third in the standings, is another hot favorite, as is Lothar Motschenbacher, the German born mechanic who is enjoying his finest year as a pro driver.

TITANIUM CARS

A new sports car driven by Japan's Hiroshi Fuschida, a titanium car to be driven by England's Jackie Oliver and new Andy Granatelli and Jim Hall machines, to be driven respectively by Chris Amon of New Zealand and Vic Elford of England, have produced a lot of speculation.

Hall's car is a "vacuum cleaner" Chaparral while Granatelli calls his car the STP March.

BROWNS' RON SNIDOW

Ex-Marin Star, Mates To Face Lions Sunday

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Cleveland Browns Defensive end Ron Snidow said Thursday the main ambition of every defensive line is "to have all four men meet at the quarterback."

"This is how we are immediately rewarded," said Snidow. "It gives you a feeling of exhilaration that cannot be fully described.

Snidow was an all-Northern California player from San Rafael High School who went on to stardom at University of Oregon.

"You have to liken a pass rush to four individual battles going on simultaneously on the line," said Snidow. "And if you beat an individual, or a pair of individuals, you've made the other team waste a down and lose yardage."

This week the quarterback Snidow and his teammates will be after is Bill Munson of the Detroit Lions.

It has taken Snidow, however, several years to develop into an effective pass rusher.

"I noticed his pass rush coming along very well from the start of training camp," said Defensive Line Coach Dick Medzelewski. "He worked hard on it and he's diagnosing plays better, too. In fact, his whole performance has been pretty consistent."

Snidow said he has improved his pass rush because he was being pushed for his starting assignment by Bob Matheson and then Joe Jones.

"I can take a great deal of pride so far, but Jones has been responsible," said Snidow. "He'll probably be a fine defensive end next year and he should become one of the great ones in Browns history."

"The one edge I've had from the start is experience and that's a very important thing," said Snidow. "It gave me the opportunity to do many things a younger man can't accomplish right away."

Raider Running Game No Laughing Matter

OAKLAND (UPI)—A lot of people laughed last season when mention was made of the Oakland Raiders' running game, but Coach John Madden says it's a different story this year.

Added experience for Charlie Smith, Hewritt Dixon getting over his shoulder miseries and an over-all improvement of the line have added to a better Raider ground game.

But an unexpected bonus has come in the form of rookie Ray Chester and Jacque MacKinnon.

"We're getting excellent blocking from our tight ends," Madden said Wednesday as Oakland prepared for Monday night's encounter against the Washington Redskins.

He was particularly impressed with Chester. "We knew Chester was a good blocker," Madden said. "That's one reason we drafted him. It doesn't do much good to have a tight end who can only run patterns and catch passes, if he can't block. Or, going the other way, it's not much good to have a guy who can block but can't catch passes."

Statistically, the figures show vast improvement indeed. Going into this weekend's games, Smith is third in rushing in the American Football Conference and Dixon eighth.

That doesn't mean that Oakland's passing attack isn't functioning. Daryle Lamonica leads the AFC with 72 completions in 133 attempts (54.1 per cent) for 1,050 yards and eight touchdowns.

And Warren Wells is second in receiving with 19 but has the most yards (402) and is tied with Roy Jefferson with four touchdowns.

Flood Says He Can't Sign Same Contract

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Curt Flood, former star outfielder for the St. Louis Cardinals who sat out the past season while challenging baseball's reserve clause, says he would like to play again, but not under a contract containing the controversial clause.

The Washington Senators have obtained from the Philadelphia Phillies, who acquired Flood from St. Louis just before he began his legal fight against the reserve clause, the right to negotiate with Flood for a possible return to the majors.

Flood is in Denmark pending outcome of his appeal of a federal judge's ruling rejecting his suit to overthrow the clause that binds a player to one club. In a telephone interview with William Gildea of the Washington Post, published today, he said he intended to pursue to the end his fight against the contractural provision.

"If I signed a contract with that clause I'd be making a big farce of my case," Flood was quoted.

OUR BETTER HALF LOST A LITTLE WEIGHT...

And gained a lot of friends. The new Early Times Half Gallon bottle is now two pounds lighter. And stronger. Which makes it easier to carry, easier to handle. Easier to pour, too, because of its unique built-in pourer. What's more, our Better Half is easier to buy because of a bigger savings on the bigger size. Early Times in the new, lighter half gallon bottle. Our Better Half thought you deserved a break.

Owners To Sell Saints; Jets Pick Up Vet Mercein

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The John Mecom family plans to sell its 74 per cent majority interest in the New Orleans Saints to two easterners who are part owners of the Boston Patriots, sportscaster Wayne Mack said Wednesday night.

Mack said Houston oil millionaire John Mecom and his son John Jr., had agreed to sell their majority holdings in the Saints to David McConnel and Robert Whittenhall of Boston.

McConnell and Whittenhall owns 34 per cent of the Boston club and the agreement would have to be approved by the National Football league, Mack said in his nightly sportscast over WDSU-TV.

SPORTS SHORTS

Golf

NASSAU, Bahamas, (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino and Australian Bruce Crampton are among early-entries signed to compete in the Bahamas Islands Open golf tournament at Freeport, Dec. 9-13.

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI)—Ron Howell, an American golfer now living in Sydney, and Australian Bruce Devlin both shot four-under-par 68s today to share the first round lead in the Wills Masters golf tournament.

Basketball

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Nets of the American Basketball Association Wednesday traded Walt Simon, the last original team member, to the Kentucky Colonels for an undisclosed draft choice.

In three years with the Nets, Simon averaged 16.3 points a game.

Football

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Jets Wednesday announced the addition of veteran running back Chuck Mercein to their taxi squad.

There was a good chance that the 6-foot-2, 222-pound former Yale star would be activated for Sunday's game against the Baltimore Colts.

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Forward Gary Gregor may be lost to the expanionist Portland Trail Blazers of the National Basketball Association for the next two weeks with a severely pulled thigh muscle.

Gregor, was drafted by Portland from the Atlanta Hawks with whom he averaged 8.1 point last season.

ATLANTA (UPI)—The Atlanta Hawks of the National Basketball Association Wednesday released Dave Newmark, their 7-foot reserve center, on waivers.

The Hawks acquired Newmark from the Chicago Bulls prior to last season. He averaged only 4.8 points per game for Atlanta.

General

DENVER (UPI) — Former world heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis, hospitalized since last May because of an emotional disorder, will be released Friday from the Veterans Administration hospital.

Astrodome Seating

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — The Houston Astrodome will seat 45,000 persons for baseball, 52,000 for football, 60,000 for conventions and a maximum of 66,000 for boxing or similar events.

NHL ROUNDUP

Kings Again Whipped By Bruins

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

There would be no stopping Phil Esposito and the rest of the Boston Bruins if they could play every game against the Los Angeles Kings.

Esposito, who has scored more goals against the Kings than any other National Hockey League player, added three more to his total Wednesday night in leading Boston to an 8-5 victory over the Kings. It was the Bruins' 12th straight game without a loss against Los Angeles in a streak dating back to Oct. 17, 1968 when the Kings last beat Boston.

HAT TRICK

Esposito, in becoming the first player to score the three-goal hat trick of the young season, rammed home two of his tallies in the second period when Boston scored five times to insure its second win without a loss this year. Ken Hodge added two goals to the Bruins' attack while Derek Sanderson, Fred Stanfield and Wayne Cashman accounted for the other Boston goals.

Elsewhere in the NHL, Chicago drubbed Vancouver 8-2, Toronto downed St. Louis 7-3 and New York shutout Buffalo 3-0.

Rookie Dan Maloney and Lou Angotti each scored two goals for Chicago as the Black Hawks won their second straight game. Maloney, the Hawks' No. 1 draft pick from the amateur ranks, opened the scoring only 50 seconds after the start of play when he beat Canuck goalie George Gardner on a short flip. Maloney got his second goal at the 30 second mark of the middle period. Bobby and Dennis Hull, Gerry Pinder and Brian Campbell also tallied for the Hawks.

EASY TIME

Toronto used four first period goals to cruise to its victory over St. Louis. Paul Hendersn, Mike Walton, Jim Harrison and Garry Monahan scored for the Leafs in the opening period. Blues' center Red Berenson notched two of his team's goals, his third and fourth of the season.

Stanford Picked By 20

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ohio State, the nation's No. 1 football team, is secure in its position at the top for at least another week according to the oddsmakers.

The oddsmakers declined to make a line for the Buckeyes' game on Saturday against the Minnesota Gophers. Two other teams in the top 10 also were off-the-board choices — fifth-ranked Mississippi against Southern Mississippi and sixth-rated Air Force against Navy. The two ranking Southwest Conference powers—No. 2 Texas and No. 10 Arkansas — are both idle.

HEAVY PICKS

None of the other teams in the top 10 were favored by less than two touchdowns, either.

Third-ranked Notre Dame was picked by 14 over Missouri and fourth-rated Nebraska by 24 over Kansas. Michigan (No. 7) was 17 over Michigan State, Auburn (No. 8) 17 over 15th-ranked Georgia Tech, and Stanford (No. 9) 20 over Washington State.

Georgia Tech was the only underdog among the second 10. Eleventh-ranked Arizona State was not listed against Brigham Young, Southern California (12) was 17 over Washington, Colorado (13) was 10 over Oklahoma, and South Carolina (14) was 15 over Maryland.

Houston, Tennessee and UCLA—all tied for 15th with Georgia Tech—also were favored: Houston was 18 over Oregon State, Tennessee six over Alabama and UCLA two over California.

West Virginia (19) was 6 1-2 over Pittsburgh and San Diego State (19) was off-the-board against San Jose State.

In other games, Virginia one over Army, Wake Forest four over Clemson, Duke 6 1-2 over North Carolina State, Princeton 14 over Colgate, Yale 15 over Columbia, Harvard-Cornell pick 'em, Georgia 13 over Vanderbilt, Illinois even with Indiana, Wisconsin one over Northwestern, Kansas State seven over Iowa State, Purdue five over Iowa, LSU 17 over Kentucky, Texas Tech five over Mississippi State, Tulane three over North Carolina, Southern Methodist three over Rice, and Texas A&M five over Texas Christian.

PRO ODDS

In Sunday's pro games, the New York Giants were 2 1-2 over Boston, Baltimore one over the New York Jets, Miami seven over Buffalo, Detroit three over Cleveland, St. Louis eight over Philadelphia, Denver-Atlanta pick 'em. Minnesota eight over Dallas and San Francisco 10 over New Orleans.

Warriors Reach 12-Man Limit

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Pat Foley is finding being 13th is bad luck indeed. For the second time in two seasons, the former University of Pacific basketball star was released as the San Francisco Warriors cut down to the National Basketball Association's 12-player limit.

"Pat has only one flaw," said Warrior general manager Bob Feerick Wednesday. "And that's that he is really not a shooter."

Ace Might Win Sports Editor A New Ferrari

INCLINE VILLAGE, Nev. (UPI)—Hack Miller may become one of the flashiest sports editors in the country within the next day.

Miller, of the Salt Lake City Deseret News, scored a hole-in-one in the Harrah's Hotel first Reno Invitational Golf Tournament Wednesday to become eligible to win a $20,000 Ferrari.

If no one else shoots a hole-in-one, Miller will win the new car. If there is another hole-in-one, the winner will be determined by a roll of the dice at tonight's awards banquet.

The Warriors' Formal Debut

Pro basketball makes its formal 1970-71 debut Friday night at the Cow Palace when the warriors meet the Detroit Pistons in their National Basketball Association season opener.

The debut will be very formal at courtside where a 6 p.m. champagne dinner will precede the 8 o'clock tipoff.

LADIES WILL wear long gowns or pajamas. Pajamas? Franklin Mieuli looked tolerantly at the sports writer who sought him out for corroboration about the optional dress for ladies.

"Pajamas have been very 'in' for some time at formal functions," the president of the Warriors informed the ignorant reporter whose knowledge of women's fashions is limited to the current mini and midi controversy.

There will be no option in the formal attire of men attending the courtside affair. "Black tie," read the order on Mieuli's dinner invitations. He means it, too.

WHEN MIEULI inaugurated the courtside dinner several seasons ago for the benefit of the San Francisco Ballet Guild at $50 per couple, a reporter covering the Warriors showed up at the press table in sports clothes.

Mieuli didn't call him an oaf but the look he gave him did. The unsuitably garbed reporter didn't know whether he was covering a basketball game or ballet after Mieuli's withering look. But the reporter knew his sports editor would never understand an expense account that listed a rented tux to cover a basketball game.

Thereafter, Mieuli arranged an alternate press table for reporters who felt uncomfortable in black tie dress and rented tuxes. Mieuli is a diplomat when it comes to solving delicate problems.

MIEULI ALSO is a showman, too, although when he announced his first courtside dinner there were some who thought he was a showboat. Then, they found out that he was turning over all of the proceeds of the dinner to the Ballet Guild.

Mieuli actually sees basketball as a form of ballet. "It is ballet on a court," he insists.

Maybe so. But watching a basketball game in pajamas? It may sound silly. But some of the pajamas that will be on display Friday night are guaranteed to be as intriguing as minis or even micro minis.

Plunkett's Magic Number Is 214

PULLMAN (UPI) — "We'll give Jim Plunkett two footballs if he'll just stop at 214 yards," Washington State University football coach Jim Sweeney said Wednesday when asked if Saturday's game with Stanford might be halted if Plunkett makes 214 yards.

Sweeney's retort was in response to a request by Stanford officials, who asked if the game could be halted to give Plunkett the football if he hits 214 yards—the number needed to break the all-time collegiate total offense mark.

The record of 6,568 yards was set last year by Steve Ramsey of North Texas State.

"We'd be pleased to do this," Sweeney said. "I'm not anxious to see Plunkett break the record against the Cougars, but records are made to be broken and Plunkett is a great athlete.

"If we can hold him to 214 yards," Sweeney added quickly, "We'll win the ball game."

Three New Indictments; Dean Sues

DETROIT (UPI)—A federal grand jury which already has indicted 10 persons in an alleged nationwide sports gambling ring returned three more indictments naming five new defendants Wednesday.

At the same time in Phoenix, Ariz., baseball Hall of Famer Dizzy Dean, named as a co-conspirator but not charged in the first 10 indictments, filed a $14 million libel suit against Phoenix Newspapers, publishers of the Arizona Republic and the Phoenix Gazette.

The suit charged Dean was libeled by an article published in the Republican last Feb. 24, the same day the grand jury handed down the 10 indictments. It asked $5 million for general damages or "compensatory pain suffering," $2 million for special dagames for loss of business opportunities and $7 million for punitive damages.

Named in the three new indictments were: Elain Dixon, Detroit, wife of Howard Dixon, 61, indicted in February; Edward Aranosian, 46, Dearborn Heights, Mich.; Ernest Anastas, 42, St. Clair Shores, Mich.; Maron (Butch) Thomas, 51, Detroit, and Peter V. Cavataio, 40, St. Clair Shores.

NBA HIGHLIGHTS

'Old' And 'New' Knicks Triumph

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The "old" Knicks won Wednesday night and so did the "new" Knicks.

The New York Knicks, the defending National Basketball Association champions, cruised to their second straight triumph by thumping Cincinnati 128-104 while the expansion Buffalo Braves, playing with four former Knicks on their roster, began their NBA existence by downing the Cleveland Cavaliers 107-92.

Cazzie Russell, starting for the injured Bill Bradley, pumped in 29 points and Willis Reed, last year's Most Valuable Player, added 23 and pulled down 16 rebounds as New York never trailed after the opening minutes. The Knicks fashioned a 68-54 halftime lead thanks to the hot shooting of Dave Stallworth, another "sub," who hit on all eight of his shots from the floor and tallied all 18 of his points before intermission.

Don May, one of the former Knicks on the Braves' roster, led Buffalo with 24 points, a career high for the former Dayton University star. Other one-time Knicks who helped in the Braves' attack were Nate Bowman with 12 points and Em Bryant with seven. Also on the Buffalo team is former Knick Bill Hosket but he was held scoreless in the Braves' opener.

The Cavaliers, another expansion team, were led by Bobby Smith with 21 points while John Warren (yet, another former Knick) collected 14.

Rookie Bob Lanier, the $1.5 million hope of Detroit, made an impressive debut in helping the Pistons beat the Seattle SuperSonics 123-117, while Philadelphia topped Chicago 110-107 and Baltimore bounced San Diego 123-105 in other NBA action.

Lanier, playing a little more than half the game while he continues his recuperation from knee surgery, scored 22 points. Dave Bing led the Pistons with 25 and Jimmy Walker added 22 while Bob Rule of Seattle led all scorers with 37. The Pistons, trailing 66-59 at halftime, took the lead for good midway through the third period with 12 straight points.

Philadelphia, sparked by Billy Cunningham's 24 points, opened a 19 point lead early in the fourth period but then had to fight off the rallying Bulls who closed to within three points in the final minute. Wally Jones tallied 18 points for Philadelphia while Chet Walker led Chicago with 30.

Eddie Miles pumped in 16 points in the first period as Baltimore took a 35-21 lead over San Diego and the Bullets were never threatened the rest of the way. Jack Martin paced Baltimore with 28 points and John Trapp led San Diego with 20.

ALMANAC

Today is Thursday, Oct. 15, the 288th day of 1970.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

Those born today are under the sign of Libra.

On this day in history:

In 1917 the most famous spy of World War I, Gertrude Zelle, known as Mata Hari, was executed by a firing squad outside Paris.

In 1928 the German dirigible Graf Zepplin arrived in the United States on its first commercial flight four and a half days after leaving Germany.

In 1964 Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev was ousted by Kremlin leaders and replaced by Alexei Kosygin and Leonid Brezhnev.

Bank Sets Award For Scholarships

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Bank of America today announced a new $85,000 cash award program to honor outstanding students at community colleges in the state.

Mrs. Carol Kirtley, the bank's school awards officer, said the new program would extend the scope of recognition by including more areas of academic endeavor.

During the 1970-71 year, she said 372 outstanding community college students will share the $85,000 in cash awards, top winners receiving $2,000 each.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Every Player Should Know All About The Murphy Law

Every bridge player should know Murphy's Law: If anything can go wrong, it will. When your contract looks unbeatable, it is your job to see that it remains so — that nothing can go wrong. Profit by the experience of South in today's hand.

SMALL CLUB

West led the seven of clubs, and South counted his tricks: five diamonds, two clubs and two spades even if the finesse lost. The hand was unbeatable. So South relaxed by taking the first trick with the ace of clubs in order to lead the queen of spades for a finesse.

West played a low spade very casually, and South thought his finesse was working. He led the five of spades from dummy and played the ten from his hand. This time West produced the king of spades ("I didn't see it last time," he explained) and led the queen of clubs to drive out South's king.

Now South couldn't get to the dummy. When the diamonds failed to break, he got only three diamond tricks and the opponents took the rest. Down two.

TEST DIAMONDS

South should win the first round of clubs in his own hand with the king and should test the diamonds by leading the ace and king. When West discards a heart on the second round of diamonds, South knows that he must lead the next diamond from the dummy in order to take a finesse through East's jack.

Declarer abandons the diamonds, leading the ace of spades followed by a low spade. West takes the king of spades and returns a club to dummy's ace.

Now declarer is in position to lead a diamond for a finesse through East. He gets his five diamonds, two clubs and two spades, making the contract.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ -A 10 4
♥ Q 4
♦ - A K Q 10 5
♣ -K 5 2.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one diamond.

The hand is too strong for an opening bid of one no-trump. If your opening no-trump promises 16 to 18 points, beware of bidding one no-trump with a full 18 points and a five-card suit as well, or with one or two extra tens. You want your partner to pass comfortably with seven points or less, and he cannot do so if you may have an exceptionally powerful 18-point hand for your no-trump bid.

Man Bound Over In Burglaries

Robert Earl Davis, 34, of Novato, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on charges of burglary and possessing marijuana.

He is to be arraigned Monday.

Davis was arrested March 23 when Novato police who stopped his car in a routine traffic check said they saw car parts valued at $1,530 which had been stolen from Dervin Ford. They also found a plastic bag of green vegetable matter.

Needy Widow Told: Sell N. American

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I hold shares of North American Car bought several years ago. You have probably read about management and other changes there recently. I am a widow and need income rather than growth. What is your advice on these shares? P.A.

A. The unresolved situation between North American Car and Flying Tiger Corp. injects a sharply speculative element for shareholders of the former company. A successful tender offer this summer by Flying Tiger increased that company's ownership of North American Car common to 45 per cent.

A newly elected board of directors, with FLY holding a majority position, then voted to seek dismissal of North American's suit agaist FLY and petition to the CAB. If, as seems probable, North American is consumed by Tiger, a revision in the dividend policy may follow — last year FLY distributed 5 per cent in stock but no cash dividend. Shares should be sold on any rallies and funds reinvested in equal dollar amounts of Central Maine Power and Reynolds Industries for an average return of 6.4 per cent.

Q. I am interested in Massey-Ferguson because of its $1.00 dividend. The stock has recovered from a July low of eight and is still improving on a high rate of trading. Would you consider Massey a sound investment, regardless of the unfavorable industry conditions? W.B.

A. Strikes, reduced sales and higher costs resulted in Massey reporting a substantial ($0.63 a share) loss for the fiscal quarter ended July 30. Despite this, directors declared, on July 29, the regular 25 cents quarterly dividend, a bullish sign.

Massey derives only about 40 per cent of its sales from Canada and the United States, with France, the United Kingdom and Latin America being heavy buyers.

The company has a strong and expanding position in worldwide markets. More than 36 per cent of the company's products are for nonagricultural industries, offsetting somewhat reduced agricultural shipments. While these shares are at the present time a speculation, they do have above-average recovery potential for the next few years.

Stocks Finish On Firm Note On Exchange

NEW YORK (UPI) —Stocks finished on a firm note Wednesday.

Analysts generally said the upswing was not the result of any single news factor, but rather from encouragement that the market has been able to hold firm in the face of some disappointing economic news, including a report by the Federal Reserve Board noting a sharp drop in industrial output last month.

Shortly before the close, the Dow Jones industrial average of 30 selected blue chips was up 5.25 at 768.00.

Of the 1,590 issues on the tape, 710 pointed higher, while 567 declined.

Volume of around 11 1-2 million shares compared with 9,920,000 shares Wednesday.

Closing prices included American Telephone 44 1-8, Bethlehem Steel 22 1-8, Chrysler 25 1-2, DuPont 117 3-4, Ford 51 3-8, General Electric 84 1-2, General Motors 72 1-4, IBM 293 and Southern Pacific 32 7-8.

Among the day's most active issues were Middle South Utilities, Uniroyal, Weyerhaeuser, Westvaco, Telex Corp., A. H. Robins, Natomas, Texaco, and Penn Central.

IBM was a firm spot among the electronics. A number of the oils added a point or so, while most other major stock groups generally traded in fractions, including steels, motors and chemicals.

Airlines and rails showed scattered strenght. Louisville & Nashville Railroad was on the plus side, although it reported a lower nine-month net.

Communications Satellite attracted demand. Comsat said it expects to report higher third quarter earnings. Also, Comsat and American Telephone agreed on a joint domestic satellite plan.

In the news background, the government reported a 1.4 per cent increase in the nation's Gross National Product in the three-month period ended Sept. 30. It was expected to be cited by Nixon administration officials as evidence the economy is throwing off some sluggishness.

Bank Of America To Open Tiburon Office, Also Plans New Building

Although Bank of America has announced it will open a Tiburon office about the first of the year in a temporary location at 1) Main Street, its permanent quarters are expected to be further north opposite the junction of Tiburon Boulevard and Beach Road.

Working plans are now in progress by San Francisco architect William Rand for a new two-story, 10,000-square foot building which Fred Zelinsky intends to have constructed at this point. But the job won't go out for bid for another four mnths — add construction time and other details and Bank of America may not take occupancy for a year.

The bank will not occupy the entire building, so there probably will be some space on both floors to be leased.

ZELINSKY, incidentally, has had approval to expand accommodations at Tiburon Lodge by 32 more rooms. But here again, construction may be quite a distrance away.

THERE HAS BEEN a change of ownership at the Netboy Shoe Salon on downtown Fourth Street, San Rafael, but it is not likely to affect the operation of the store and there will be no change in the name.

Leon J. Netboy has retired and sold to Henry Sachsman, a Southern California shoeman. Appointed store manager is Earl H. Foley of San Francisco, who was a San Rafael resident for many years. He was with the former Albert Department Store here and continued working after it became Macy's. He was also with Macy's in San Francisco for a number of years.

GENERAL NUTRITION CENTERS, INC., a national chain that is out to select store locations in several regional shopping centers, is reported to have chosen the Northgate Mall in Marin for one of its health food outlets. Occupancy isn't likely to occur much before next spring.

DR. JOHN MCGAUGHEY of Terra Linda, recently discharged from the U.S. Army after service in Vietnam, has become associated in the general practice of dentistry with Dr. John E. Jansheski in the Eagle Rock Medical-Dental Building at Tiburon Boulevard and North Knoll Road, near the Alto Wye in Southern Marin. Before going in the army he was a resident of Marin for several years.

ALAN S. WARFIELD, new resident of San Rafael, has joined the investment securities firm of Gardiner, Gries and Co., San Rafael as an account executive. He has had extensive experience in the investment field and was previously with Reynolds and Co. in the East Bay.

Warfield Miller

JOCK MILLER, who has owned and operated Interior Systems on the Northgate Mall for about four years, has expanded into another area.

He has opened a second store at the Sun Valley Mall in Concord. Grand opening will be celebrated by both stores next week with special sales. A wall of furniture components valued at $500 will be given away as a grand opening prize. Registration may be made at either store.

ROBERT C. BURGEE, a new resident of Kentfield, has been named regional manager of the Wilson Learning Co. in San Francisco. A former Bay Area resident, he was transferred from corporate headquarters in Minneapolis. The company is involved in sales training systems and management and personal development programs.

JAMES R. ULRICH is new regional sales manager for Marvelene Extrusions, Inc. Sausalito and Torrance producer of polyethylene bats, liners and covers. Formerly with Cello Bag Co. in Seattle, he will cover the Northern California, Oregon and Washington areas.

Indiana Standard To Participate In Africa Concession

CHICAGO (UPI) — Standard Oil Co. of Indiana has announced it will participate through its subsidiary, AMOCO Minerals Co., in an international group undertaking exploration for copper and other minerals in the Katanga province of the Democratic Republic of the Congo.

The group will conduct exploration in a concession area bordering the copper complex of the Congo government-owned mining Company Gecomin and will also undertake confirmatory drilling and a commercial viability study of known copper deposits in other areas.

Other participants in the group are Charter Consolidated, Ltd., Leon Templeman Sen. Inc. and the Democratic Republic of the Congo. Expected to join the group are Mitsui & Co. Ltd. and the Bureau De Recherches Geologiques Et Minieres. Indian Standard said.
